TREATIES, ENGAGEMENTS AND SANADS

RELATING TO THE CENTRAL INDIA AGENCY.

PART I.

INTRODUCTION.

There are in the Central India Agency (besides the States in the Bundelkhand and Baghelkhand Agencies, which are treated separately as differing in many respects from other parts of Central India) six States under direct treaty engagements with the British Government, namely Gwalior, Indore, Bhopal, Dhar, Dewas, and Jaora, and ninety-four minor States and Estates, which are either held under agreements mediated between them and their superior Chiefs by the British Government, or are held direct from the British Government though not by treaty.

Of the greater States Bhopal and Jaora are Muhammadan, and the rest are Hindu (mostly Rajput or Mahratta).

Of the minor States, four, viz., Kurwai, Muhammadgarh, Basoda and Pathari, are Muhammadan, and the rest Hindu.

The multiplicity of petty Chiefs and the peculiarity of the tenures on which they hold their States, founded as they are on the measures adopted for the pacification of the country after the Pindari war, necessitate on the part of the British Government in Central India and Malwa more interference in the affairs of the Chiefs than it is usual or expedient to exercise in the States of Rajputana. Under the Mahrattas, as had previously been the case under the Muhammadan Governors, the petty Chiefs in Central India exercised but limited powers within their respective States; and on the establishment of British supremacy in these provinces the officers of the British Government naturally assumed the position of arbiters of all differences by which the public peace could be disturbed, and of judicial functionaries to whom all sentences of life and death were referred, except in the case of offences committed within the jurisdiction of the larger States, which had vitality enough to preserve peace within their limits. The minor Chiefs (other than those in whose favour an exception has been made by the Government of India) refer all serious cases, more especially those involving capital punishment, whether interjurisdictional or not, to the Political Agents concerned.

A list of the various payments made under treaty or otherwise by or to the British Government is appended to this introduction.

Rules for the amicable settlement of boundary disputes between the States of Central India by mutual agreement, and failing that for their judicial settlement by a Boundary Commission, for the demarcation of the boundary, the erection of pillars, their preservation, the punishment of States whose subjects infringe the settlement, and for appeals from the decisions given were laid down by Government in 1862. These rules formed the basis of those prepared in 1877 and at present followed in settling disputed boundary cases in Central India and Rajputana. They were slightly modified in 1891 chiefly with a view to the better protection of boundary marks.

The area of Central India, excluding Bundelkhand and Baghelkhand, is 53,285·46 square miles, with a population of about 6,325,240 souls.*

Regarding the States which are in direct treaty relationship with the British Government nothing further need be said in this place.

The case of what are commonly called the Mediatized Chiefs is somewhat complicated, and the following remarks will serve to elucidate the subject :—

At the close of the Pindari war the districts in Malwa and Central India were in so disorganized a state as to be unsafe even for troops to pass through. It had been the policy of the chief Mahratta powers during the preceding years of anarchy to reduce to subjection the petty Rajput Chiefs within their influence. The Mahratta leaders parcelled out the districts among themselves either by mutual agreement or caprice, or according to their power to enforce obedience to their will and authority. Thus it came to pass that at the time of the introduction of the British power, the smaller States were found under tributary obligations to Sindhia, Holkar, or the Puars of Dhar and Dewas, and sometimes to all these Chiefs. The tributary claims of the Mahratta

* According to the census of 1891, the population of Central India, excluding Bundelkhand and Baghelkhand, is 6,899,390. These figures include Railways and Cantonments. Including Bundelkhand and Baghelkhand, the area of Central India (1891) is 75,230 square miles, with a population of 10,318,812 souls.

States were occasionally fixed and well defined, but generally varied, both in amount and in the regularity of their enforcement, with the power to exact them. Many of the smaller Chiefs, who had been driven from their possessions, found refuge in the hill fastnesses and jungles, and avenged themselves by levying contributions from, or altogether destroying, the detached villages which had been usurped by the stronger powers. Their example was imitated by men who, without any claims to territorial inheritance, had influence enough to gather round them a sufficient number of robbers to make themselves feared. Unable to suppress such outrages, the larger States found themselves compelled to purchase the good-will of the plundering leaders by allowing them a share of the revenues of their districts as black-mail or tankha on condition of their abstaining from aggressions.

Such a system could only exist in the absence of a power sufficiently strong to enforce peace and good order. For the pacification of the country all parties eagerly solicited the interference of the British Government, who the more readily undertook the task because of the opportunity which it afforded them of breaking the continuity of the influence of the Mahratta powers, with whom they had recently been engaged in a contest for empire, by establishing throughout Malwa a succession of Rajput Chiefs and others owing the security of their estates and the comparative independence of their position to the intervention of the British Government. The policy pursued by the British Government was to declare the permanency of the rights existing at the time of the British occupancy on condition of the maintenance of order; to adjust and guarantee the relations of such Chiefs as owed mere subordination or tribute, so as to deprive the stronger powers of all pretext for interference in their affairs; and to induce the plundering leaders to betake themselves to peaceful pursuits either by requiring their superiors to grant them lands under the British guarantee, or by guaranteeing to them payments equivalent to the tankhas which they levied.

The results of these measures, as described by Sir John Malcolm, were a virtual surrender of the supremacy over the petty States* and Chiefs to the British Government; the reduction of the military classes to the control of the British power; and the cessation of ruinous interference in the affairs of the smaller States on the part of their more powerful neighbours.

* The three schedules appended to Malcolm's Report on Malwa (History of Central India) contain lists of most of the Chiefs who had received guarantees. The engagements with nearly all of these will be found in the following pages of this book. But of some whose names are

From the guarantee thus given no deviation was permitted. "Where any circumstances," says Sir John Malcolm in his report on Malwa, "call for the interference of the British Government and an engagement or guarantee is given, no departure from that is permitted. It is indeed by the maintenance of the impression that the signature and seal of a British officer is, to whomsoever granted, the completest of all securities for his rights, privileges, or

No.	Names of Chiefs and those on whom they have claims.	Amount; and conditions under which it is paid.
SCHEDULE II.	17 Rawal Nawal Singh on the Nawab (Bhopal).	5,001 Rupees annually to be paid from the kachahri.
	45 Nawal Singh on Holkar.	40 Rupees annually. (Note. —This Nawal Singh is supposed to be the same as No. 17.)
	49 Rao Zalim Singh on Kota.	400 Ditto ditto.
SCHEDULE III.	13 Bishan Singh, Mandlot, with Bhikaji, Kamasdar of Dargason.	Bishan Singh claimed certain dues from the pargana which the Kamasdar refused as being unjust. On reference, Sir J. Malcolm decided that the former should have 5 per cent. dami land, agreeably to the existing sanad; Rupees 4 bhet from each village; Rupees 1 bhet for each renewed patia; two villages in inam; and quarter of the collections on sayar, &c., 29th November 1819.
	20 Sudhan Singh of Bhilwara with Bhawani Das.	This was a dispute between Sudhan Singh and Bhawani Das, because the latter appropriated to himself the donations to the god Devi; settled that Sudhan Singh pay Bhawani Das a certain sum, and the latter not to interfere with the collections made from devotees, 4th December 1819.
	23 Mohan Singh with the Holkar State.	Mohan Singh's father held 300 bighas of land for village service from the Government, but on his death the land was resumed; settled that Mohan Singh receive a grant of 100 bighas in inam, June 1820.
	25 Unkar Lal, Zemindar, with Manik Ramjani.	Unkar Lal to pay Rupees 500 annually to Manik Ramjani, whose nose had been cut off at the instigation of Unkar's mother, and who also was plundered of all her property, September 1820.
	35 Rao Devi Singh Gond.	A jagir of Dhatri, and a bhet of Rupees 5, and Rupees 2 per cent. on the revenue from each village in Nimanpur Makrai. (Note. —A settlement of this kind was made directly between the Dhar Darbar and Devi Singh, but not under the guarantee or through the mediation of the British Government. No trace of such guarantee is to be found among the Darbar records.)
	38 Gulab Rao Gond.	Ramgarh in jagir; a bhet of Rupees 5 from each village; a dami of 1 per cent. on the revenue. (Note. —This man was charged with cattle-lifting in 1834. Probably his rights were confiscated.)

possessions, that our power over the multiplicity of States and Chiefships depends; and it is, above all others, a point upon which we can never with safety admit the slightest evasion, much less deviation." In later times, however, when long years of peace have obliterated the memory of the embarrassments which the Girasia leaders were able to create, their guaranteed rights have occasionally been lost sight of. The larger States have forgotten that their claims over the less powerful Chiefs were only established by a power stronger than their own; and it has been their policy to encroach on the guaranteed rights of their subordinates which they justly consider to be marks of dependence, and gradually to reduce the subordinates to entire obedience to themselves.

On the other hand, the guaranteed Chiefs, relying on the protection of the British Government and the limitation imposed on the power of their superiors, have not unfrequently attempted to assume a degree of independence to which they are not entitled. It has proved a matter of much difficulty for the officers of the British Government to hold both parties fast to their engagements; but the necessity for a strict adherence to the engagements concluded in 1818 is as strong now as it was then. The degree of interference exercised by the British Government in the affairs of the guaranteed Chiefs varies with the nature of the engagements concluded, which were very numerous and diverse in character, some being in the form of engagements between the superior State and the subordinates guaranteed by the British Government; others being sanads or deeds issued by the representative of the British Government either alone or conjointly with the ruler of the superior State; and others being mere orders or parwanas issued by the superior Chief to which the representative of the British Government attached his signature as guarantee.

But although there is very great diversity in their tenures the guaranteed Chiefs may all be divided into two great classes, viz., first, those Chiefs in the administration of whose affairs the interference of the superior is excluded by the express terms of the guarantee, and secondly, those Chiefs whose sanads contain no such stipulation. The policy of the British Government towards the guaranteed Chiefs in respect to the devolution of the guarantee, the recognition of successors whether natural or adopted, and the levy of nazarana, is governed by the following general rules:—

(1st) The guarantee given by the British Government descends in all cases to direct heirs.

(2nd) When there are no direct heirs the previous recognition by the British Government of an adopted heir is, as a rule, essential to the continuance of the guarantee: with this previous sanction the guarantee descends to an adopted heir.

(3rd) When previous sanction has not been obtained the guarantee does not descend to adopted heirs unless the adoption subsequently obtains the formal sanction of the British Government.

(4th) When there are no heirs, direct or adopted, the escheat of the guaranteed estate or tankha is to the superior Chief and not to the British Government.

(5th) When the interference of the superior in the affairs of the subordinate Chief is expressly barred by the terms of the guarantee, the decision of all questions relating to succession, direct or by adoption, rests solely with the British Government.

(6th) When there are direct heirs to an estate or tankha, the sanad for which does not expressly bar the interference of the superior Chief, the decision regarding the succession and the continuance of the guarantee rests solely with the British Government; but the superior Chief has a right to be heard if he has any reasonable objections to bring with reference to either (a) the legitimacy, or (b) the directness of the descent.

(7th) When there are no direct heirs to such an estate or tankha, and the British Government sanctions the succession of an adopted heir, the superior is entitled to a hearing of his claim to the escheat; but he has no concurrent authority with the British Government in deciding the question of succession, nor, where a British guarantee is involved, can he take any step in recognition of an adopted heir in advance and independently of the British Government.

(8th) Tankhadars have no power over the tankhas beyond their own lives, and no right to burden them with sums payable after their death.

(9th) When the terms of the guarantee exclude the interference of the superior Chief, the subordinate Chief is not liable to pay nazarana. In other cases a nazarana equal to one-fourth of the net revenue of the guaranteed estate or tankha may be levied by the superior Chief on the occurrence of a succession by adoption to the guaranteed estate or tankha. On such occasions the superior Chief gives to the subordinate a dress of honour equal in value to one-fourth of the nazarana.

(10th) None of the mediatized Chiefs have power of life and death. They must submit all trials for heinous crimes and all sentences of death or transportation or imprisonment for life to the local officers of the British Government.

Rajkumar College.—Before 1882 there were no special arrangements for the education of the sons and other relations of Chiefs in the Central India Agency. In that year a separate building was taken for the purpose, and a suitable staff entertained. In 1885 a new College building, which had been specially constructed, was formally opened by the Viceroy under the title of the Daly (or Residency) College. The Gwalior and Indore Darbars have built separate boarding houses attached to the College.

In the year 1889 Rules were framed, with the approval of the Government of India, for facilitating the pursuit, apprehension and extradition of criminals between some of the States of Central India, such as Bhopal, Rajgarh and Narsingarh; and the rules have since received the adherence of several other States in the Agency.

I.—GWALIOR AGENCY.

(I) GWALIOR.

RANOJI, the founder of the Sindhia family, began his career in the service of Balaji Rao Peshwa, by whom he was appointed to a command in the Paigah or body-guard. From this point his rise to the first rank of Mahratta Chiefs was rapid. He died (1750) in Malwa, where he had acquired some possessions, and was succeeded in the headship of the family by Madhoji Sindhia, his second son.

Madhoji Sindhia was present at the battle of Panipat in 1761, in which he was severely wounded. After the disastrous flight of the Mahrattas, Sindhia, like other Mahratta Chiefs, lost his possessions in Malwa. On the return of the Mahrattas to Hindustan in 1764 the most active of the predatory leaders was Sindhia, whose formidable army, organised under French officers, made him in reality the ruler of Hindustan, though nominally the servant of the Peshwa.

Madhoji Sindhia played a most important part in the struggle which took place for the Peshwaship after the death of Madho Rao Balal in 1772 (see Peshwa, Vol. VI.) He was the chief support of the party of Nana Farnavis. It was the policy of the British Government to secure peace by concluding a separate treaty with Sindhia, and then using him as a mediator with the other parties; but Sindhia's ambition and his insistence on some of the inadmissible conditions of the Convention of Wargaon (1779) defeated the negotiations which had more than once been commenced. The reverses, however, which he met with from a force which had invaded his territories from Bengal for the purpose of creating a powerful diversion brought him to terms, and a Treaty (No. I) was concluded with him by Colonel Muir on 13th October 1781, by which the respective forces of Colonel Muir and Sindhia were withdrawn, and Sindhia agreed to use his good offices to effect a peace and failing that to remain neutral. Peace was concluded with the Mahrattas by the treaty of Salbai on the 17th May, 1782, Sindhia being the guarantee for its observance. Under the third Article of this treaty the right of the British Government to the pargana and town of Broach was recognised. In June, 1782, Government conferred these on Sindhia (No. II) in consideration of his services, on condition of trade remaining unmolested. A separate Treaty was concluded on the 30th September 1785 (No. III) for the regulation of trade and the duties to be levied at Broach.

By the treaty of Salbai the independent power of Madhoji Sindhia in his relation with the British Government was first recognised, but in all other respects he continued ostentatiously to profess subjection to the Peshwa. The system of neutrality which the British Government then pursued left Sindhia at liberty; and he availed himself of the opportunity to establish his power over the northern parts of Hindustan, and to obtain control over the person of the Emperor of Delhi. Sindhia made overtures to share in the alliance against Tipu in 1790, but the conditions he proposed, that the British Government should defend his possessions in Hindustan and aid him in his wars with the Rajput States, were inadmissible. After the peace with Tipu in 1792 the feelings of Sindhia, who was probably jealous of the increasing ascendancy of the British Government, were rather hostile than friendly. It was partly through his influence that the proposals made by Lord Cornwallis in 1793 to the Nizam and the Peshwa for a definite treaty of guarantee against Tipu were defeated.

Madhoji Sindhia died in 1794, and was succeeded by his grand-nephew, Daulat Rao Sindhia, who was too young to carry out any dangerous designs which Madhoji Sindhia might have entertained. During the distractions which followed the death of Madho Rao Narayan Peshwa in 1795, Sindhia gained an ascendancy which enabled him to place Baji Rao in power, to usurp most of the possessions of Holkar, and to secure to himself the fortress of Ahmadnagar, which gave him the key to the entrance into the territories of the Peshwa and the Nizam. The power of Sindhia, whose army was commanded by French officers, was at this time most dangerous to the British Government. When by the treaty of Bassein in 1802 the British Government had recovered its influence at Poona and established a subsidiary force there, Daulat Rao Sindhia entered into a league with the Raja of Berar to defeat the objects of the treaty. The deceit and evasion with which Sindhia met the overtures of General Wellesley for an amicable adjustment of their differences rendered war inevitable. In the Campaign which followed the power of Sindhia was completely broken both in Upper and Central India. He was compelled to sue for peace, and to sign the Treaty of Sarji Anjangaon (No. IV) in 1803. By this he was stripped of his territories in Hindustan and south of the Ajanta hills, with the exception of some hereditary villages, and resigned his claims on subordinate Chiefs, with whom the British Government had made treaties.

Article 15 of the treaty of Sarji Anjangaon left Sindhia the option of becoming a party to the defensive alliance concluded by the British Government with the Peshwa and the Nizam, and bound the British Government, in the event of his so doing, to maintain a subsidiary force of six battalions to be paid for out of the territories ceded by that treaty. Sindhia agreed to the alliance; and by a separate Treaty (No. V) concluded on the 27th February 1804, arrangements were made for the subsidiary force to be stationed near Sindhia's boundary, but within British territory.

The discontent which Sindhia felt at the determination to deprive him of Gohad and Gwalior, under the Article 9 of the treaty of Sarji Anjangaon, induced him to enter into a correspondence with Holkar which nearly led to an open rupture. Among other acts of hostility he attacked and plundered the Resident's camp and detained the Resident a prisoner. As Sindhia refused to release the Resident he was informed that his conduct had annulled the treaties with him; that Government were at liberty to deal with him as they might think fit; and that the surrender of the Resident must precede any friendly intercourse. The change, however, in the policy of Government on the arrival of Lord Cornwallis, who, independently of any reference to the settlement of differences with Sindhia, deemed it inexpedient to retain possession of Gohad and Gwalior, led to the renewal of negotiations on the basis of restoring these territories.

A Treaty (No. VI) was accordingly concluded on the 22nd November 1805, which confirmed the treaty of Sarji Anjangaon except in so far as it might be altered by the new treaty; ceded Gwalior and Gohad to Sindhia; abolished the pensions of fifteen lakhs a year paid by Government to Sindhia's officers; constituted the Chambal the northern boundary of Sindhia's territory; deprived Sindhia of all claim to tribute from Bundi or any State north of the Chambal and east of Kota; bound the British Government not to make treaties with Udaipur, Jodhpur, Kota, or other Chiefs tributary to Sindhia in Malwa, Mewar, or Marwar, or to interfere with the arrangements which Sindhia might make in regard to them; and granted an assignment of four lakhs a year to Sindhia, and jagirs of two lakhs to his wife Baiza Bai and one lakh to his daughter Chimna Bai.

In the Pindari war the plundering Chiefs looked for support to Daulat Rao Sindhia as the most powerful of the Mahratta princes, and one whose feelings were hostile to the British Government. He was also subjected to strong solicitations from the Peshwa, who was endeavouring to restore the broken Mahratta confederacy. Sindhia made no movement indicative of a design to aid the Peshwa, although he was no doubt hesitating as to the line he would take. When the resolution was formed to commence a system of political alliances against the Pindaris negotiations were early opened with him, and the disposition of troops was so made as to compel him to either enter into the views of the British Government or range himself on the side of the Pindaris at the very outset. The points to be carried were his co-operation against the Pindaris and the abrogation of the Article 8 of the treaty of 1805, which restrained the British Government from forming engagements with the Rajput States. This treaty indeed had been regarded as substantially annulled in consequence of Sindhia's repeated infractions of it by his secret intercourse with the Pindari leaders. Still Government was willing, if Sindhia cordially entered into its measures, to leave him in all other respects the full benefit of former treaties and to guarantee to him the tribute of those States. To secure his co-operation, he was to surrender the tribute for three years, to put his troops in fixed positions, whence they were not to move without the consent of the British Government, and to give up the forts of Asirgarh and Hindia both as security for the lines of communication and as a guarantee for the performance of his engagements. These objects were secured by the Treaty of 5th November 1817 (No. VII).

The open defection of the Peshwa and the Raja of Berar shook the fidelity of Sindhia to his engagements. The strong fortress of Asirgarh was not surrendered as stipulated for by the treaty, and it therefore became necessary to reduce it by force. In the captured fort a letter was found in which Sindhia directed the Governor to obey all orders of the Peshwa, who, by attacking the Residency at Poona, had declared war with the British Government. In consequence of this want of good faith Sindhia was required permanently to cede the fort of Asirgarh.

In the following year, 1818, a Treaty (No. VIII) was made with Sindhia for the adjustment of boundaries, the British Government receiving Ajmir and other districts, and ceding lands of equal value.

Daulat Rao Sindhia died in March 1827. He left no son, and had repeatedly evaded the advice of the Resident to adopt a successor, leaving it to the British Government to do what they might think proper. In accordance, however, with what was believed to be the last wishes of Daulat Rao, a youth of eleven years, named Mugat Rao, of an obscure branch of the family, but declared to be the nearest relation of Daulat Rao, was adopted, was married to the grand-daughter of Daulat Rao by Baiza Bai, and was placed in power with the title of Ali Jah Jankoji Rao Sindhia, and under the regency of Baiza Bai. The Baiza Bai acknowledged this succession most reluctantly, and maintained that it was her late husband's intention that she should hold the government during her life. She even pressed on the British Government the conclusion of a new treaty, in order that she might obtain the formal recognition of her right to exercise the powers of Regent during her life. But although Government did not enter into this treaty, and although in 1830 they insisted on the Bai using the young Maharaja's seal in all official communications, she still clung to the hope of keeping the government in her own hands, and took no steps to train the young Chief for the future exercise of power. The restraints under which the youth was held by the Regent became at last intolerable to him, and he fled from the palace and took refuge with the Resident. A reconciliation was with difficulty effected; and as Government gave no definite decision on the rights of the parties, the seeds of dissension remained and the quarrel finally came to a crisis in 1833.

The Baiza Bai's rule had then become most unpopular, and the cause of the young Maharaja was espoused by a large portion of the army; the Bai was compelled to retire from the Gwalior territory and the Maharaja was acknowledged by the British Government. To such a length was the principle of absolute neutrality carried at this time that Government declared it was a matter of indifference whether the Maharaja or the Bai was at the head of the Gwalior State, and that the only object of Government was to preserve the general tranquillity and its own reputation, recognising such ruler as might be placed by the popular voice at the head of the administration. The Bai was prohibited from using her asylum in British territory or any dependent State for the purpose of organizing an invasion of Gwalior, but she was left at liberty to return to Gwalior and rely on the support of her own subjects. The Resident was even censured for having called in the contingent in support of the Maharaja's authority, and it was ruled that the legitimate purpose for which the contingent was formed was the suppression of plunderers and the repulse of external enemies.

By the Treaty of 1817 Daulat Rao Sindhia had engaged to furnish a contingent* of 5,000 horse and assigned for its support the annual payments made to him by the British Government, and also the tribute from the States of Jodhpur, Bundi and Kota. After the close of the war the contingent was reduced to 2,000 horse at a monthly cost of Rupees 1,20,000, but this amount was in excess of the funds allotted to meet it. It was therefore agreed (No. IX) in February 1820 to reduce the force so as to bring the cost within the sum originally assigned for its payment, and that for the debt due on account of it by Sindhia certain districts should be temporarily transferred to the British Government. On the death of Daulat Rao his annual grant of four lakhs, which he had assigned in part payment for the contingent, ceased and some other arrangement became necessary. A loan of eighty lakhs of rupees at 5 per cent. was taken from the Baiza Bai, but as this arrangement proved inconvenient, the loan was paid off; and in 1830 the funds allotted for the payment of the contingent stood as follows:—

Allowance of Baiza Bai from the British Government	Rs. 2,00,000
Kota tribute	1,06,118
Kotris „	10,998
Jodhpur „	1,04,004
Ratlam and Sailana tribute	1,21,380
Revenues of Garhakota	35,000
Do. of Malthon in Saugor	20,000
Do. of Yawal, Chopra, etc., in Khandesh	90,000
Total Rupees	6,87,500

The total was still less than the cost of the contingent, which was Rupees 7,09,224.

When the Baiza Bai fled from Gwalior the revenues of her jagir were no longer available for the payment of the contingent, and a corresponding reduction of the force became necessary. But this was no sooner resolved on than the Darbar demanded that the revenues of the Khandesh and Saugor districts, which had formed part of the territories restored to Sindhia under the 6th Article of the treaty of Sarji Anjangaon, should be given back; that only the tributes from the Rajput States, amounting to Rupees 3,42,500, should be retained; and that the contingent should be still further reduced to correspond with this diminution of the funds. By the treaty of 1820 it was optional with the Government of India on the extinction of the debt either to restore these districts, or to pay rent for them, or to give other lands in exchange.

It was finally arranged that besides receiving the Rajput tributes the Government of India should retain the management of the districts of Garhakota and Malthon in Saugor, which yielded Rupees 75,000; that the Khandesh districts should be restored to Sindhia; and that in lieu of them

Sindhia should pay a sum of Rupees 66,926-8 a year, which was equivalent to their net revenues. No written engagement was concluded, but the contingent was re-organised in accordance with the above arrangement, and Sindhia promised to take measures for the proper management of the country and to respect the settlements which the Government of India had made with the Bhils.

The Court of Directors, however, were of opinion that the restoration of the districts was not required by the terms of the engagement of 1820, that Sindhia was not likely to respect the Bhil settlements, and that there was danger of the country relapsing into anarchy by its transfer to Sindhia's Government. They therefore desired that measures should be taken for obtaining the retrocession of the districts to the British Government. But the Darbar was unwilling to part with them, and Government at last resolved not to press the matter. The Darbar, however, was emphatically told that Government would not permit these districts to become haunts of oppression and disorder dangerous to neighbouring territories, and that if mismanagement should occur of a nature to endanger the security of the surrounding districts, the parganas would be at once taken possession of by the British Government and not again restored.

In 1823 the districts of Kandwai, Barwai, Punasa, Sailani, and the village of Dhangaon, and in the following year the districts of Asir (with exception of three towns), Bhamgarh, Mundi, Bilora, Atud, Deori, and Piplod, were made over (No. X) by Sindhia to the management of the British Government. Deori was subsequently ceded permanently to the British Government in exchange for Shujawalpur, but the tenure of the other eleven districts remained unchanged. The measure was in a manner forced on the Darbar who long continued to urge their right to the restoration of the districts. But in 1837 it was decided that the transfer of these districts to the administration of the British Government was an arrangement not revocable at the will of the Gwalior Darbar, and that the districts could not be relinquished without disappointing the expectations of the people and danger to the general tranquillity and to the freedom of commercial intercourse with Bombay. These districts were ceded to the British Government in full sovereignty under the treaty of 1860.

In 1831 the exchange of the pargana of eastern Shujawalpur for Sindhia's districts of Deori, Gaurjhamar, Chanwarpatha, Tendukhera and Naharman was negotiated. The revenues of Shujawalpur were about Rupees 90,939 and those of Sindhia's districts Rupees 87,305. A money payment of Rupees 3,634 remained therefore to be made to the British Government by the Gwalior Darbar. The Court of Directors disapproved of this exchange of territory, but as the arrangement was convenient for both parties and its cancelment would be very unpalatable to the Gwalior Darbar, Government finally resolved not to disturb it. The Resident however was required, without inviting complaints, to use his influence to prevent injury to the inhabitants. Guarantees were given for life to four persons who had received jagirs in Shujawalpur from the British Government. Rajan Khan, a Pindari leader, brother of the notorious Chitu, had also received a life grant * of lands in Shujawalpur. He died during the negotiations for the exchange, and the lands, the value of which had been excluded from the estimated value of Shujawalpur, were continued to his family, and Sindhia was required to abstain from any arbitrary measure of resumption. Questions of succession to this jagir are usually decided by the British Government and the decision is communicated to Sindhia.

The rule of Maharaja Jankoji Sindhia was very weak. Although the Baiza Bai † had no strong party within Gwalior territories, she did not cease to intrigue and to use freely for this purpose Rupees 37,00,000 deposited in the Benares treasury, which sum, by the arbitration of the British Government, acquiesced in by Sindhia, was declared to be her private property. The Mama Sahib, the Maharaja's maternal uncle, occupied the post of minister during the greater part of his rule. But the court was a constant scene of feuds and struggles for power among the nobles, while the army was in a chronic state of mutiny. The weakness of the internal government prepared the way for the hostilities with the British Government which broke out shortly after the Maharaja's death, and resulted in an entire change of the British policy towards the Gwalior State.

Jankoji Sindhia died on 7th February 1843. He had no children and had expressed no wish regarding the succession, although repeatedly and earnestly urged by the Resident to do so. Tara Rani, the Maharaja's widow, a young girl of twelve years of age, adopted, with the concurrence of the Chiefs of the State and the army, Bhagirat Rao, son of Hanwant Rao, usually called Babaji Sindhia. He was the nearest relative, though a very distant one, of the late Maharaja, and the adoption was recognised by the British Government. The boy was then about eight years of age. On his accession he assumed the title of Ali Jah Jayaji Rao Sindhia. The adoption of a boy too young to administer the government rendered necessary the appointment of a regent. The Mama Sahib, who appeared to possess the greatest influence and was attached to British interests, was chosen by the Chiefs of Gwalior as regent. His selection was reported to give universal satisfaction to the troops and people; and he was accordingly recognized by the British Government as the responsible head of the State during the minority, and was assured of support. For three months affairs went on smoothly; but intrigues were carried on against the Mama Sahib in the palace by a party headed by Dada Khasgiwala, who gained over a portion of the army to his cause. The commencement of the intrigue is attributed to apprehensions instilled into the mind of the young Maharani that the Mama Sahib, whose daughter was married to the Maharaja, would supersede her authority, and it ended in the expulsion of the Mama Sahib from Gwalior and the establishment of the influence of Dada Khasgiwala, notwithstanding the remonstrances of the Resident and the British Government.

Dada Khasgiwala showed himself to be hostile to the interests of the British Government. Offices were taken from those who were supposed to be favourable to the maintenance of friendly relations, and persons who at the request of the Resident had been expelled from Gwalior by the late Maharaja were recalled and restored to office. Such proceedings could not be viewed otherwise than as an affront to the British Government. They were accompanied by the assemblage of large bodies of mutinous troops at Gwalior, by a threatened attack on Sironj in the territories of the Nawab of Tonk, where the Mama Sahib had taken refuge, and by disorders on the frontier at a time when war on the Sutlej was impending. Moreover it was necessary to secure the communications of the British army by the re-establishment of a friendly government in its rear at Gwalior. Thus the direct interference of the British Government was demanded in the interests not only of the Gwalior State but also of the British possessions.

Accordingly, the representative of the British Government was withdrawn from Gwalior until either a settled government should be established at Gwalior or his intervention should be solicited by the Maharani and the Chiefs for the restoration of order. Before final measures were taken the Resident wrote to the Maharani in reply to a letter in which she had invited his return, stating the conditions under which alone friendly relations could be re-established, and requiring the banishment of Dada Khasgiwala, whose presence was the only obstacle to the restoration of friendship. This letter was intercepted by Dada Khasgiwala, whose right to interfere in the affairs of the State had never been admitted by the British Government, and he concealed its contents from the Maharani. This act was considered to be a virtual assumption of the powers of government by Dada Khasgiwala and a supersession of the authority of the Maharani and the young Chief, whose position and supremacy the British Government were bound by treaty to maintain. A demand was therefore made for Dada Khasgiwala's surrender as the preliminary condition of further friendly intercourse. The objects proposed by the British Government were the surrender of the person of Dada Khasgiwala as reparation for the affront that had been offered to Government; security for the tranquillity of the frontier; and the reduction of the mutinous army which possessed the real power in Gwalior and overawed the government of the State. Dada Khasgiwala was seized by the Chiefs who were favourable to the restoration of peace, but he was released by the portion of the army whose support he had bought; and it was only on the advance of a British force towards Gwalior that he was surrendered.

It remained now to negotiate measures for the formation of an efficient government and the reduction of the army. For this purpose an interview was agreed upon between the Governor-General and the Maharaja, to take place at Hingona on the 26th December 1843. The day passed without the appearance of the Maharani and her son, who were held in restraint by the mutinous troops. On the 29th December, when the British army was taking up its advanced ground, it was fired on by the Gwalior troops. The battles of Maharajpur and Panniar were fought on the same day and ended in the total defeat of the Gwalior army, and the conclusion on the 13th January 1844 of a Treaty (No. XI) by which it was agreed that territory yielding eighteen lakhs a year should be ceded to the British Government for the maintenance of a contingent force, and other lands for the payment of the debts of the State to the British Government and the expenses of the war; that the army should be reduced to 6,000 cavalry, 3,000 infantry, and 200 gunners with 32 guns; that the government during the minority should be conducted according to the advice of the British Resident; and that the just territorial rights of the Gwalior State should be maintained by the British Government.

From this time till the mutinies of 1857 there was little change in the relations of the British Government with the Gwalior State. By the mutiny of the contingent in June 1857 the Political Agent was forced to quit Gwalior. The counsels, however, of Dinkar Rao (afterwards Sir Dinkar Rao, K.C.S.I.), the Maharaja's able minister, who, during the four preceding years of his tenure of office, had reformed the internal administration, were strongly in favour of British interests. In June 1858 the Maharaja was deserted by his troops on the approach of the rebels under Tantia Topi, and compelled with his minister to seek refuge at Agra. On the 19th June Gwalior was retaken by Sir Hugh Rose's force and the Maharaja was re-established in his palace. From that date the confidence of the Maharaja was withdrawn from his minister, to whom he conceived an intense dislike. Dinkar Rao vacated office in December 1859, and Balaji Chimnaji was appointed in his stead with the concurrence of the British Government. In 1868 Balaji Chimnaji having become incapacitated by old age for the performance of his duties, Ganpat Rao Khadke, who was afterwards created a Knight Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India, was appointed Diwan. After Dinkar Rao's removal the Maharaja himself superintended the whole of his affairs until his death in 1886.

For his services during the mutinies Sindbia was informed that lands yielding three lakhs of rupees a year would be added to his territories; that permission would be given to him to raise his infantry from 3,000 to 5,000 men, and his artillery from 32 to 36 guns; that the arrears due to the British Government on account of the deficiency in the revenues of the districts assigned under the treaty of 1844 would be remitted, and no payments would in future be claimed should these revenues fall short of eighteen lakhs; and that the annual payment of Rupees 10,000 out of the revenues of Barwa Sagar in the Jhansi district would be hereditary. These modifications of the treaty of 1844 were embodied in a new Treaty (No. XII) concluded on the 12th December 1860. This was based upon certain proposals which had been made in 1854, but had in the interval remained in abeyance, for an exchange of territory with Sindhia. The new treaty provided for the restoration to Sindhia of lands from the assigned districts yielding three lakhs of rupees a year; for the cession of the town of Burhanpur and the district of Zainabad in exchange for the town and part of the district of Jhansi; for the exchange of Sindhia's five districts in Guzarat, the pargana of Kanjia, the annual payment from Barwa Sagar, and all his territories south of the Narbada, with the exception of seven hereditary villages, in return for lands of equal value on the Sind and Betwa rivers; for the cession to the British Government in full sovereignty of all the districts, &c., assigned in 1844 which might remain after the above exchanges should be effected; and for the substitution of a subsidiary force costing not less than sixteen lakhs a year in the place of the extinct contingent.

All pensionary and charitable allowances and religious endowments assigned on the lands transferred to Sindhia under the treaty of 1860 in exchange, whether originally ceded districts or British territory, are paid by the British Government; because, though the treaty of 1860 provided for the calculation of the value of the lands to be mutually exchanged on the gross revenues, all cash assignments of the nature in question, which were very common with the Mahrattas, were deducted in the valuation statement of the Gwalior Darbar. In the case of the pargana of Nimach which was given as a reward to Sindhia for services during the mutiny, the Maharaja was informed that the continuance of pensions and allowances was discretionary. The aggregate annual charge on both the lands exchanged and those given in reward was Rupees 7,462-11-5; deducting from this Rupees 5,189-13-9, chargeable to the revenues of Nimach, an annual payment of Rupees 2,272-13-8 is made on this account.

Subsequently to the conclusion of the treaty of 1860 it was ascertained that the Char Thana estate, which formed one of the items of the assignments under the treaty of 1844, had never been taken over by the British Government, and had been allowed virtually to cease to form one of the ceded items ; as its revenues never appeared in the annual accounts, which were made up without reference to them. A note to this effect was entered opposite this item in Schedule A appended to Article 7 of the treaty of the 12th December 1860, and the necessary corrections were made in the number of villages, and in the amount of their gross value in Schedule C. Char Thana was subsequently included in the exchanges with the Gwalior State, the Darbar receiving credit in the account for its gross value Rupees 1,197-6-8.

In 1861 the Maharaja gave up the hereditary villages in the Deccan reserved to him under the 4th Article of the treaty for an equivalent on the Pahuj river.

In 1864, after the exchanges effected by the treaty of 1860 had been finally adjusted between the British Government and the Maharaja, there still remained a balance of Rupees 4,994-0-10 in his favour in excess of the land, and as there was no land then available an annual cash payment was made to him. To this arrangement Sindhia was averse, and it was eventually decided to give him an equivalent in land out of the pargana of Bhandar, in the Jalaun district, which had been ceded to the British Government under the treaty of 1860. It was also decided to cede to the Maharaja territory of the annual value of Rupees 10,000 as an equivalent for lands taken up for the extension of the Morar cantonment, the Maharaja being left to settle the details of compensation with the proprietors and others interested in the alienation of the land.

In the meantime the British Government had undertaken negotiations for the transfer to the Nizam of ten ancestral villages possessed by Sindhia within the Hyderabad territories. These villages had enjoyed an exemption from the jurisdiction of the Nizam's Government, which in the interests of the general peace of the country could not be allowed to continue. Sindhia consented to cede these villages to the British Government on condition of receiving from it an equivalent in lands bordering on his territory north of the Narbada, while the British Government were to transfer the ten villages by a separate exchange to the Nizam, receiving in lieu of them an equivalent in Hyderabad villages on the Bombay frontier (see Hyderabad). The villages were valued by a British officer, by whose decision Sindhia and the Nizam agreed beforehand to be bound, at Rupees 15,000 per annum.

It was settled that all these exchanges should form one transaction and be included in a supplementary treaty. An annual payment to Sindhia of Rupees 452-9-4, representing village-rights and holdings in the Poona Collectorate, was afterwards included in the list of claims. From this must be deducted an annual payment by Sindhia of Rupees 325-13-9 on account of other holdings in the Deccan and the equivalent of the revenue of the jagir of Anai in the Poona Collectorate, viz., Rupees 2,602-13-0 per annum, which at the request of the Maharaja was conferred by the British Government on his minister Dada Ganpat Rao Khadke. The result of the settlement showed that territory to the annual value of about Rupees 27,500 had to be made over to the Maharaja and his heirs in perpetuity, and a Treaty (No. XIII) embodying these arrangements was concluded with Sindhia on the 2nd December 1871. The account was finally closed by a cash payment of Rupees 29,658-1-9, representing one year's payments on account of the balance due under the treaty of 1860 for the land ceded for the Morar cantonment and for Sindhia's Hyderabad villages, up to the date of the actual transfer of the villages ceded in exchange to him.

After the capture of Gwalior by the force under Sir Hugh Rose in 1858, British troops continued to occupy the fort of Gwalior. During the negotiations, however, which ended in the treaty of the 12th December 1860, Lord Canning promised that the fort should be restored to Sindhia when this could with safety be done. This promise was repeated to Sindhia by Lord Elgin. Its fulfilment depended on the withdrawal of the British force from Morar to some more eligible station, which was at that time contemplated. It was, however, decided in 1864 that the cantonment of Morar should be maintained, and this necessitated the continued tenure of the Gwalior fort by British troops. Sindhia agreed on 29th March 1864 to give up his right to the restoration of the fort on receiving an increase of twelve guns to his artillery, and on condition that his flag should fly on the ramparts of the fort; that he should be saluted from its guns; and that if at any time the British Government should withdraw from its occupation he should be allowed to occupy it with his own troops. The documents (No. XIV) recording these arrangements, viz., Sindhia's letter of the 29th March, and the Governor-General's letters of the 12th April and 21st December 1864, which modify the 9th Article of the Treaty of 1860, are held to constitute supplementary Articles of that Treaty. The twelve guns referred to were supplied in the shape of two complete batteries of 9-pounder guns. In 1865 Sindhia received two 18-pounder guns in place of two of smaller calibre which were given up.

In 1856 the Maharaja being anxious to have the army under his immediate control withdrew the troops, amounting to 1,500 infantry, 12 guns, and 4,000 cavalry, from provincial service, and proposed to entertain in their place a body of Najibs 3,000 strong for police. These 3,000 men were to be formed into three police corps; one to be stationed in Malwa, another in the Chambal district, and the third in Isagarh and the Bundelkhand frontier. This was sanctioned by Government on the understanding that the Najibs were to constitute a police and not a military force. In process of time these men came to be regularly drilled soldiers, and in 1866 the Maharaja urged that the Najib battalions should be organised on the same quasi-military footing as British police battalions were at the time of the enlistment of these men. He also asked that Article 9 of the Treaty of 1860 might be modified, so as to admit of these men being added to the regular strength of the army. The request was negatived as being contrary to treaty and opposed to the conditions on which the Maharaja had been allowed to raise the Najib battalions. The Maharaja accordingly re-organised them on the footing of police.

In 1855 the Gwalior Darbar agreed to spend four lakhs of rupees on the construction of the portion of the Agra and Bombay road running through its territory. Up to the time of the mutiny Sindhia had paid three lakhs of rupees, and from 1858, when the construction of the road was resumed, to 1860 between two and three lakhs more. In the latter year a fresh arrangement was made by which the Maharaja agreed to contribute Rupees 50,000 per annum for six years towards the completion of the road, and thereafter an annual sum of Rupees 12,000 towards its repairs. In 1867 Sindhia agreed after some discussion to allot, in lieu of the annual payment of Rupees 50,000 for the Agra and Bombay road, Rupees 63,000 annually for such portions of six roads named by him as lay in Gwalior territory; this sum was to be apportioned by the British Government in any way it pleased until four-fifths of the entire cost of the roads had been made up. In 1883 it was found necessary to reconsider these arrangements, and it was then agreed for the future that, after the payment by Sindhia of the arrears that had accumulated under the former condition, he should contribute in April of each year Rupees 50,000 towards the repair of roads in his territory in lieu of all his existing payments under that head.

In August 1887 the Council of Regency made a formal request that all the roads in Gwalior territory then under the charge of the Public Works Department of the Central India Agency should be made over to the administration of the Gwalior State. The Government of India agreed to the transfer on the condition that the roads which are important from an imperial point of view should be kept in thorough order and to the satisfaction of the Government of India, who would make arrangements for examining them from time to time; and that if at any time the State should fail to keep the roads up to the required standard the Government would resume charge, the whole cost of such resumption and of future maintenance being chargeable to the Gwalior State. The transfer was accordingly carried out with effect from the 1st of June 1838, and the yearly contribution of Rupees 50,000 formerly paid by Gwalior ceased from that date.

In 1890 an Agreement (No. XV) was made by the British Government between the Gwalior and Ratlam States for the construction by the former of a metalled road, of which a portion runs through the Ratlam State.

The Raja of Amjhera,* tributary to Sindhia, formerly paid to the Gwalior State a yearly tribute of Hali Rupees 35,000, under an engagement mediated by the British Government. This tribute was part of the sums assigned in 1844 for the payment of the contingent, and is now payable by Sindhia to the British Government under the Treaty of 1860. Besides this the Maharaja contributes Hali Rupees 20,000 a year towards the payment of the Malwa Bhil Corps. Formerly Sindhia contributed only Hali Rupees 8,000 to this corps and the Raja of Amjhera contributed Hali Rupees 4,000. But when Amjhera was confiscated and made over to Sindhia in consequence of the rebellion of the Raja in 1857, the arrangement was made subject to a payment of Hali Rupees 20,000, no further contribution being required on account of Gwalior.

In 1859 Sindhia agreed to give all land which might be required for railway purposes in Nimar and to compensate the proprietors, except in cases where the property was of special value. Jurisdiction over all persons residing within railway limits was to rest with the railway authorities; but disputes between railway servants and Gwalior subjects were to be referred to the Agent to the Governor-General for Central India. On the transfer of Nimar to the British Government in 1861, compensation to the amount of Rupees 5,098 was paid by Government on account of land taken up by the railway. In 1864 the Maharaja agreed (No. XVI) to cede to the British Government in full sovereignty such land as might be required for either of the then proposed lines of railway from Indore to the valley of the Narbada and Baroda, and also to exempt from transit duties all through traffic by the lines in question. Sindhia subsequently preferred a request that all the concessions regarding the treatment of offences and offenders within railway limits which had been accorded to Holkar in the case of a similar grant of lands for railway purposes might also be extended to him; this was agreed to, and the terms settled between the British Government and Holkar were detailed in an explanatory Memorandum (No. LI).

In 1860 Sindhia consented to the construction of a bridge by British agency over the river Chambal. After considerable discussion it was decided that Sindhia should share with Dholpur in the net profits of the bridge and ferry at Rajghat, and that Dholpur should receive a moiety of the profits appertaining to Sindhia's ferry at Khantri (see Dholpur, Vol. III).

In 1865 Sindhia having lost his infant son, the third in succession which had died, obtained the sanction of Government to adopt an heir to his State. The privilege of adoption had been granted by Government in 1862 (No. XVII). The selection fell on Ranaji Sindhia, who was received at Gwalior with honour, and styled Chhota Maharaja. In 1870 Ranaji Sindhia voluntarily acknowledged his complicity in a plot against the Maharaja's life, and at Sindhia's request the Government withdrew their recognition of Ranaji Sindhia as the Maharaja's heir.

In 1866 Sindhia preferred a claim that holders of rent-free estates in those portions of the assigned district of Bhandar which became British territory under the operation of Article 7 of the treaty of 12th December 1860 should have their titles to their estates therein confirmed in perpetuity by the issue of a sanad from the British Government under the terms of Article 3. The Maharaja was informed that the terms of clause 4 of Article 3 were not intended to apply to any portion of the assigned districts restored to him under the territorial exchanges provided for therein, and that he was free to deal with them as he pleased, but that he must faithfully carry out the term of that clause in respect of the landowners enjoying special rights in the British lands transferred to him, as would be done in respect of the same class of persons in the Gwalior lands transferred in exchange to the British Government; lastly, that the conditions in question were not applicable to the portions of the assigned districts transferred to the British Government in full sovereignty under Article 7, as the transfer had not been subject to any such conditions.

In 1866 certain rules were sanctioned by the Government of India for enforcing the responsibility of Native States for mail robberies committed within their territories. Sindhia asked to be specially exempted from the operation of these rules on the ground of the comparative excellence of his police arrangements; but the request was disallowed, and the Maharaja was informed that it rested with him by still further improving his police to avoid the chance of being affected by the penalties of the rules.

In September 1872 Sindhia offered the British Government a loan of seventy-five lakhs of rupees for the construction of a railway between Agra and Gwalior, and in January 1873 a further sum of seventy-five lakhs for the construction of a line from Indore to Nimach, on condition that interest on these loans at four per cent. should be paid to him and his successors in perpetuity by the British Government, and that he should be allowed certain privileges in respect of free carriage on the line. He undertook to cede free of charge all the lands required for the railway, its stations, buildings, etc., and engaged that no transit duties should be levied on through traffic. He also ceded plenary civil and criminal jurisdiction on the lines. These loans were accepted in a kharita from the Viceroy, dated the 29th April 1873 (No. XVIII).

In 1882 Sindhia gave free of charges all the land in Gwalior territory required for the Indian Midland Railway Company, for the extension of the line from Gwalior to Jhansi and from Jhansi towards Bhopal. He also ceded plenary civil and criminal jurisdiction on these lines (vide Agreement No. XIX, dated 8th December 1888).

In 1890 the Darbar agreed to the construction of a line of railway from Bina on the Indian Midland Railway to Guna, an important place in Gwalior, where one of the two regiments of the Central India Horse has its head-quarters. The Darbar also agreed to the construction of a line from Ujjain in Gwalior to Bhopal, by way of Sebare. The former line is to be on the standard gauge; and the Government of India has consented to give, free of cost, the land required for it in British territory between Bina and the Betwa river. As regards the latter line the Gwalior Darbar has offered to defray preliminary expenses; and the Indore, Bhopal and Dewas States have promised to give all required land free of cost. The Indore Darbar has agreed to the same terms as those on which land was ceded in 1864 for the Holkar State Railway (see Indore). The survey is now (1892) in progress.

In 1875 Sindhia sat as a member of the mixed Commission by which Malhar Rao, Gaekwar of Baroda, was tried for an attempt to poison the British Resident at Baroda.

In 1877, on the occasion of the Delhi Assemblage held to celebrate the assumption by Her Majesty of the title of Empress of India, Jayaji Rao Sindhia, who had been created a Knight Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India in 1861, was granted a personal salute of 21 guns, and was made a Councillor of the Empress. At the same time the title of Hisam-us-Saltanat was conferred upon him, and he was given the honorary rank of a General in the British army. He was subsequently made an Honorary Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, and a Companion of the Order of the Indian Empire.

In August 1877, owing to the unusually small rainfall of that year and the consequent distress in Sindhia's northern districts, which entailed heavy expenditure in relief operations, the Maharaja obtained from the British Government a loan of fifty lakhs. It was arranged that the amount should be repaid in eleven years from the interest annually payable to Sindhia on his railway loan (No. XX). The balance, Rs. 13,77,847-15-9, was paid off in 1887.

In 1878 the British Government concluded an Agreement (No. XXI) with Sindhia by which he undertook to limit the production of salt in his State to 54,000 maunds in any one year; to prevent the export from his State of any salt manufactured in it; and to stop the import into, or passage through his dominions of all salt which had not paid duty to the British Government. He further engaged to impose no duties whatever on salt that had already been taxed by the British Government, and to take possession of any stocks of foreign salt then existing within his territories until satisfactory arrangements for its disposal should have been made with the British authorities. The Agreement also included an Article prohibiting the export from his State of any intoxicating preparations, such as bhang, ganja, opium, etc. In consideration of and as compensation for the above concessions, the British Government, while reserving its right to revise the Agreement, if necessary, agreed to pay to Sindhia Rupees 3,12,500 annually in half-yearly instalments. This Agreement came into force on 1st October 1878.

In 1879 Sindhia accepted liability for the cost of maintenance of convicts of the Gwalior State sentenced to transportation at the Andamans, and also of prisoners convicted of offences committed in Gwalior territory and confined in British jails in India. There is no special extradition treaty with Gwalior; and surrenders are effected in accordance with the procedure for the time being in force in British India.

In 1885 a Postal Convention (No. XXII) was concluded by the British Government with the Gwalior State to facilitate the exchange between the Imperial Post Office of British India and the post offices in the territories of the Maharaja, of correspondence, money-orders, etc. This Convention came into force on the 1st of July 1885, was subsequently modified by an additional Agreement (No. XXIII) which was concluded in 1888, and came into operation on the 1st July of that year.

In 1885 the question of the surrender to Sindhia of the Gwalior fortress, which had been occupied by the British since 1858, was again brought under discussion. It was eventually decided to make over the fortress to the Maharaja together with the cantonment of Morar. In return for this concession, Sindhia agreed to pay to the British Government a sum of fifteen lakhs on account of expenditure incurred upon the fort, and to transfer to the British Government the town and fort of Jhansi.

At the same time Sindhia was allowed to increase his infantry by 3,000 men, but it was stipulated that he should not bring his regular cavalry beyond the actual strength at which it stood in November 1885. The terms of the transfer were embodied in Kharitas, dated the 24th February 1886 and 13th June 1888, addressed by the Viceroy to the Maharaja Sindhia (Nos. XXIV and XXV), and in a Kharita dated the 7th September 1888, sent by that Chief to the Governor-General (No. XXVI).

The intention of the Government to effect this transfer was announced by His Excellency the Viceroy at a Darbar at Gwalior on the 2nd December 1885. The actual evacuation of Gwalior and Morar by British troops took place on the 10th March 1886, and on the same date the town and fort of Jhansi were made over to the North-Western Provinces Government by the Gwalior authorities. By a proclamation dated the 10th June 1886, made under 28 and 29 Vic., c. 17, s. 4, the ceded territory was declared to be subject to the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces.

Maharaja Jayaji Rao Sindhia died on the 20th June 1886, and was succeeded by his son Madho Rao under the title of Maharaja Madho Rao Sindhia. Madho Rao was born on the 20th October 1876, his mother Sakhiya Raja Sahiba being the daughter of Bapu Sahib Jadau, a Mahratta noble of Gwalior.

In accordance with the wishes of the late Chief, and with the concurrence of the Government of India, the administration of the Gwalior State during the minority was entrusted to a Council of Regency, which was appointed in September 1886. Rao Raja Sir Ganpat Rao Khadke, who had been for more than twenty years Diwan and Karbhari to Maharaja Jayaji

Rao, was appointed President of the Council, and seven members were selected from the principal Sardars and officials of the State. This administrative body was empowered to carry on the government of the Gwalior State in consultation with the Resident, who was instructed to supervise their proceedings, and to suggest measures for the improvement of the administration. Reforms have been initiated in almost every branch of the Government; and special efforts, which have met with a considerable measure of success, have been made to suppress crime, and more particularly organised dakaiti, throughout the State.

The accession to the gadi of Maharaja Madho Rao Sindhia was signalized by the abolition of all transit duties throughout the Gwalior State. This important measure was announced by a notification dated the 25th September 1886.

In 1887 the Council of Regency offered the Government of India a loan of three and a half crores of Government Rupees, to bear interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum. This investment of a portion of the accumulations of State treasure, amounting to upwards of six crores, was approved by the Government of India, and the terms were embodied in an Agreement (No. XXVII). The last instalment of the loan was received at the Calcutta Mint on the 3rd September 1887. The interest on the loan is paid half-yearly at the Agra treasury in Government rupees, the dates on which interest is due being the 1st April and the 1st October of each year. It was further arranged that the repayment of the loan should be made by annual instalments of 12 lakhs, commencing one year after the Maharaja should come of age (No. XXVIII).

Rao Raja Sir Ganpat Rao died on the 17th August 1888, and with the concurrence of the Government of India the junior Maharani, Sakhiya Raja Sahiba Sindhia, was nominated to act as Regent during the minority of her son Madho Rao. Bapu Sahib Jadau, one of the Members of the Council of Regency and His Highness' maternal grand-father, was installed as President of the Council. It was however clearly laid down that the Maharani should have no administrative powers and no right of interference with the conduct of public affairs. In May 1891 the Maharani Regent was appointed to be a Member of the Imperial Order of the Crown of India.

Arrangements were made for the education and training of the young Chief, and in February 1890, with the concurrence of the Maharani Regent and the Council of Regency, Mr. J. W. D. Johnstone, Principal of the Daly College at Indore, was appointed tutor to His Highness. In January 1891 the young Maharaja was married to a daughter of the Satara family in Bombay.

According to the returns for 1890 the forces maintained by the Gwalior State consisted of 884 artillerymen with 48 guns classed as serviceable; 1,920 regular cavalry and 3,584 irregular cavalry; 8,220 regular infantry, and 2,820 irregular infantry (excluding police). Of these forces, 1,200 cavalry, with a transport train of 500 ponies and 200 carts, have been placed at the disposal of the Government of India for Imperial Service.

The population of Sindhia's territory is 3,378,774 by the census of 1891, and the area is estimated at 29,047 square miles.* The revenue of the State from all sources is about Rs. 1,37,79,232. The present Maharaja receives a salute of 19 guns, and within his own territory a local salute of 21 guns.

PERGUNNAH of BAROACH, dated the 21st March 1783.

This is to certify, that as the Governor-General and Council have of their own free will and accord, and on behalf of the Company, conferred upon me their entire right to the two shares of the fort, city, and pergunnah of Baroach, I have therefore accepted of the same, and will retain them always in my own possession. And I hereby agree that the English shall carry on trade as usual in the said city and pergunnah and no improper molestation shall be offered to them; and also, I will not permit any other European nation excepting the English to trade in any shape in the said city and pergunnah.

No. III.

TREATY with MAHARAJAH MADHO RAO SINDIA, relative to the
dated the 30th September 1785.

Whereas a Sunnud, bearing date the seventeenth day of Rubee-oos-sanee of the year one thousand one hundred and ninety-seven of the Hegira, corresponding with the twenty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-three of the Christian era, was granted by Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia, declaring that the English should carry on trade as usual in the city and pergunnah of Baroach, and that no improper molestation should be offered to them, the said Sunnud specifying also that no European nation excepting the English should be permitted to trade in any shape in the said city and pergunnah; and whereas, in the said Sunnud, the particulars of the duties, etc., to be taken and the settlement of concerns of trade were omitted, and doubts have arisen on these subjects, which Maharaja Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia is willing to remove: For this purpose, and to support the English trade in the city and pergunnah of Baroach, We, the Governor General and Council of Fort William in Bengal, appointed by the King and Parliament of Great Britain to direct and control all political affairs of the Honourable English East India Company in India, on the one part, and Maharajah Madho Rao Sindia Bahadoor on the other part, agree to the following Treaty containing seven Articles, and bind ourselves and successors to the full and invariable observance of them.

ARTICLE 1.

Maharaja Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia Bahadoor agrees that in every year in which the English Company carry on trade in the district of Baroach, the duties thereon shall be taken according to the Treaty with the Nawab of Baroach, in the year one thousand seven hundred and sixty-four; that is to say, on the cotton which is purchased from Baroach, on every candy of Surat weight, one and a half Rupees and four felloos shall be paid, and the duty on other articles which are imported or exported by the Company shall be one Rupee eight annas for every hundred Rupees; and besides these established articles of the Company's trade, whatever other articles come from English individuals shall be subject to a duty of six Rupees in every hundred thereon, conformably to the usage which existed when the Company had possession of Baroach. The Governor-General and Council agree that the English shall not unite any Hindostanee in their trade, and that in case of such partnership, such duties shall be paid thereon as are paid upon the commerce of the merchants wearing turbans. The Governor-General and Council consent that the duties stipulated to be paid upon the Company's trade shall be paid by the Company's Resident at Baroach to the Amil of that district.

ARTICLE 2.

It has been the old established custom, on the wreck of any ship, vessel or boats within any of the ports in the neighbourhood of Baroach, that the owner of the port should take possession of the goods; but as at this time a firm friendship exists between the government of the English Company and Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia Bahadoor, the Governor-General and Council have requested that the goods of the ships, vessels, and boats of the English that may be wrecked in the river of Baroach, may be released, and Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia Bahadoor agrees, for the sake of friendship, that when any ship, vessel, or boat belonging to the English shall be wrecked in the river Nerbudda which belongs to the district of Baroach, and the Amil of Baroach may save any goods which bear the mark of the English, the Amil shall deliver all such goods to the Company's Resident at Baroach, who shall reimburse the amount expended in saving and keeping them.

ARTICLE 3.

Some disputes having arisen between the English and subjects of the Maharajah belonging to the fort of Baroach, in respect to the time of passing into the fort and out of it, it is now agreed, and the Maharajah has directed, that at the times when it is customary that the gate should remain open, the people belonging to the Amil of Baroach shall not prevent the going and coming of the English or their dependants, but that the gate shall be shut at the appointed hour, and none of the English or their dependants shall have any right to enter the fort, or go out of it, after that time. The English are not then to desire that the gate may be opened for them, not even to give intelligence of the arrival of any ship that may come into the port at night.

ARTICLE 4.

Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia Bahadoor engages that the servants of the English factory, and their household attendants, and the tradesmen such as carpenters or smiths, or porters who work in the Company's factory, and do not work anywhere but in the factory, shall be under the protection of the Resident at Baroach, and the Amil of Baroach shall in no manner molest them for duties or customs, &c. And when any crime committed, or supposed to have been committed, by any such persons, shall be discovered, the Amil of Baroach shall send notice to the Company's Resident, that he may examine and pass judgment upon such persons, or the Company's Resident shall send back such persons to the Amil, that whatever is proper in the case may be done by him; and the Governor-General and Council agree that when any tradesmen, &c., working in the Company's factory, shall go into the town of Baroach, and work also with other merchants and townsmen, the Amil of Baroach shall take the duties for such tradesmen, &c., according to the practice now in use with respect to the persons not working for the English only. For the sake of obviating any disputes that might occur on this point, the Company's Resident at Baroach shall prepare a list of the servants of the factory, with their descriptions and stations, and deliver it to the Amil.

ARTICLE 5.

The Governor-General and Council agree that the Company's Resident at Baroach shall not afford protection to any person of the town who may fly from the Amil and resort to the Resident for it, but shall, conformably to friendship, deliver up such person to the Amil.

ARTICLE 6.

It is agreed that the Resident at Baroach shall not entertain more sepoys than the number necessary for the protection of the English property in the factory, which number has been fixed at fifty men. It is also agreed that the English in future shall not beat the drum in the factory, as is the custom in the Company's districts. Such persons as may be in the train or sowaree of the Resident may have distinguishing badges, but are not to carry muskets.

ARTICLE 7.

Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia Bahadoor engages in respect to the debts recently incurred by the inhabitants of Baroach to the Company's subjects, or such as may be incurred in future and not duly paid, that the Amil of Baroach shall examine the claim in the kutcheree of his own Adawlut, and enforce the payment of whatever may be proved to be just; and in respect to the debts which were owing from the inhabitants of Baroach to the Company's subjects at the time when Baroach was given to Madhajee Sindia, the Amil shall ascertain whatever may be due, and if the debtor be in good circumstances, he shall force him to pay immediately; if not in good circumstances, he shall fix on proper periods of payment by instalment, and oblige the observance of them.

The parties mutually swear, according to their respective faiths, to abide by this agreement.

ADDITIONAL ARTICLE to the foregoing TREATY, dated the 9th January 1786.

Whereas in the first Article of the Treaty concluded between the Honourable Company and Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia, relative to the trade and other matters of the town and pergunnah of Baroach, it is specified that in every year in which the English Company carry on trade in the district of Baroach, the duties thereon shall be taken according to the Treaty with the Nawab of Baroach, in one thousand seven hundred and sixty-four, that is to say, on the cotton which is purchased from Baroach, on every candy of Surat weight, one and a half Rupee and four felloos shall be paid, and the duty on other articles, which are imported or exported by the Company, shall be one Rupee eight annas for every hundred Rupees. And whereas the extent of the Company's trade at Baroach, in respect to the weight of cotton and the amount of piece goods, was not exactly known to either of the parties, and the specification of the same was required by Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia, the Governor-General and Council of Bengal, in compliance with the wishes of Maharajah Soubadar Madho Rao Sindia, having written to the Governor and Council of Bombay on this subject, and ascertained the annual trade of the Honourable Company at Baroach to consist of eight hundred candies of cotton of Surat weight, and piece goods to the amount of one lakh and fifty thousand Rupees, prime cost; it is therefore mutually agreed to, that for every candy of cotton to the amount of eight hundred candies the Honourable Company shall pay a duty of one and a half Rupee and four felloos; and for piece goods to the amount of one lakh and fifty thousand Rupees, prime cost, a duty shall be taken of one Rupee eight annas for every hundred Rupees; and that if ever a greater quantity of cotton or piece goods than what is here specified shall be purchased on account of the Honourable Company, they shall pay the same duty for such excess as has been settled with regard to English individuals.

No. IV.

TREATY of PEACE and FRIENDSHIP with DOWLUT RAO SINDIA.

TREATY of PEACE between the HONOURABLE ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY and their ALLIES, on the one part, and the MAHARAJAH ALI JAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, on the other; settled by MAJOR-GENERAL the HONOURABLE ARTHUR WELLESLEY, on the part of the HONOURABLE COMPANY and their ALLIES, and by BETUL MAHADEO, MOONSHEE KAVEL NYN, JESWUNT RAO GOORPARAH AMBER-OOO-OMRAH, and NARROO HURRY, on the part of the MAHARAJAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, who have each communicated to the other their full powers.—1803.

ARTICLE 1.

There shall be perpetual peace and friendship between the Honourable Company and their allies, on the one part, and the Maharaja Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia, on the other.

ARTICLE 2.

The Maharajah cedes to the Honourable Company and their allies, in perpetual sovereignty, all his forts, territories, and rights in the Doab, or country situated between the Jumna and Ganges, and all his forts, territories, rights, and interests in the countries which are to the northward of those of the Rajahs of Jeypore and Jodhpore, and of the Rana of Gohud, of which territories, &c., a detailed list is given in the accompanying schedule. Such countries formerly in the possession of the Maharajah, situated between Jeypore and Jodhpore, and to the southward of the former, are to belong to the Maharajah.

ARTICLE 3.

The Maharajah likewise cedes to the Honourable Company and their allies, in perpetual sovereignty, the fort of Baroach and territory depending thereon, and the fort of Ahmednuggur and territory depending thereon; excepting those lands which it is agreed, by the eighth Article of this Treaty, that the Maharajah is to retain.

ARTICLE 4.

The Maharajah likewise cedes to the Honourable Company and their allies all the territories which belonged to him previous to the breaking out of the war, which are situated to the southward of the hills called the Ajuntée Hills, including the fort and district of Jalnapore, the town and district of Gandapore, and all other districts between that range of hills and the river Godavery.

ARTICLE 5.

The Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia, for himself, his heirs, and successors, hereby renounces all the claim to the forts, territories, rights, and interests, ceded by the second, third, and fourth Articles; and all claims, of every description, upon the British Government and their allies, the Soubadar of the Deccan, the Peishwa, and Anund Rao Guicowar.

ARTICLE 6.

The fort of Asseerghur, the city of Boorhanpore, the forts of Powanghur and Dohud, and the territories in Kandeish and Guzerat, depending on these forts, shall be restored to the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia.

ARTICLE 7.

Whereas the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia has represented that his family have long held in enaum, as a gift from the Kings of Hindustan, the districts of Dholepore, Baree, and Rajah-Kerrah, which are situated to the northward of the countries of the Rajabs of Jeypore and Jodhpore, and of the Rana of Gohud, and that lands in Hindostan, ceded by the second Article of this Treaty to the Honourable Company and their allies, are held in jaghire by persons of the family of the late Madhajee Sindia and others by principal Sirdars in his service, all of whom would suffer distress if deprived of the advantages they enjoy in those countries: it is agreed that the Maharajah shall continue to hold and enjoy in enaum the lands of Dholepore, Baree, and Rajah-Kerrah, and that Bala Baye Sahib, and Munsoor Sahib, Moonsee Kavel Nyn, Boogajee Jamdah, Amrajee Jadhoo and Wirdah Charie, shall continue to hold their lands in jaghire under the protection of the Honourable Company. And further, in order that no individual may incur loss or suffer distress in consequence of this arrangement, it is agreed that the Honourable Company shall either pay pensions or grant lands in jaghire, according to the option of the British Government, to certain other Sirdars and others, to be named by the Maharajah, provided that the total amount of the sums paid, or jaghires granted or held, does not exceed seventeen lakhs of rupees per annum, including the annual value of the lands, which it is agreed by this Article that Bala Baye Sahib, Munsoor Sahib, Moonshee Kavel Nyn, Boogajee Jamdah, Amrajee Jadhoo, and Wirdah Charie are to continue to hold; and provided that no troops in the service of the Maharajah are to be introduced into Dholepore, Baree, and Rajah-Kerrah, or the other lands held in jaghire, under the pretence of collecting the revenue, or any other pretence whatever.

ARTICLE 8.

Whereas the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia has represented that his family have long held in enaam certain lands, villages, &c., in the territories of Rao Pundit Purdhaun, viz.—

Chomargoondie Pergunnah,	Six villages in Poona Pergunnah,
Jamgaum,	Two villages in Wahy "
Ranjingaum,	Six villages in Patutood "

Six villages in Umber Pergunnah,	Five villages in Pagood Pergunnah, which have lately been taken possession of by the British Government and their allies; it is agreed, that those lands and villages shall be restored to him, provided that no troops shall ever be introduced into those lands and villages under pretence of collecting the revenues or any other pretence whatever.
Five villages in Pytun "	Two villages in Parnya "

" " Kurla "

ARTICLE 9.

Certain Treaties have been made by the British Government with Rajahs and others, heretofore feudatories of the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia. These Treaties are to be confirmed; and the Maharajah hereby renounces all claim upon the persons with whom such Treaties have been made and declares them to be independent of his government and authority, provided that none of the territories belonging to the Maharajah, situated to the southward of those of the Rajahs of Jeypore and Jodhpore and the Rana of Gohud, of which the revenues have been collected by him or his Amildars, or have been applicable, as surinjamee, to the payment of his troops, are granted away by such Treaties. Lists of the persons with whom such Treaties have been made will be given to the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, when this Treaty will be ratified by His Excellency the Governor-General.

ARTICLE 10.

No person whatever is hereafter to be molested on account of the part which he may have taken in the present war.

ARTICLE 11.

It is agreed that the rights of His Highness the Peishwa to certain lands in Malwa and elsewhere shall be established as heretofore; and in case any difference should arise respecting those rights, it is agreed that the Honourable Company shall mediate, arbitrate, and decide, according to the principles of justice, between His Highness and the Maharajah, and whatever shall be thus decided will be agreed to by both parties, and will be carried into execution.

ARTICLE 12.

The Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia hereby renounces all claims upon His Majesty Shah Alum, and engages, on his part, to interfere no further in the affairs of His Majesty.

ARTICLE 13.

The Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia engages never to take or retain in his service any Frenchman, or the subject of any other European or American power, the Government of which may be at war with the British Government; or any British subject, whether European or native of India, without the consent of the British Government.

ARTICLE 14.

In order to secure and improve the relations of amity and peace hereby established between the Governments, it is agreed that accredited ministers from each shall reside at the court of the other.

ARTICLE 15.

The Honourable Company being bound by Treaties of general defensive alliance with His Highness the Soubadar of the Deccan and His Highness Rao Pandit Purdhaun, to which the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia is desirous of acceding, he is to be admitted to the benefits thereof; and the Honourable Company, with a view to the future security of the Maharajah's territories, engage, in the event of his agreeing to the Treaty abovementioned, in two months to furnish him with a force consisting of six battalions of infantry, with their complement of ordnance and artillery, and usual equipments of military stores, &c., and the expense of this force is to be defrayed out of the revenues of the lands ceded by the second, third, and fourth Articles. But it is agreed, that in case it should suit the interests of the Maharajah's Government to decline to enter into the Treaty abovementioned, such refusal shall not affect any of the other stipulations of this Treaty of Peace, which are, in every respect, to be binding on the contracting parties, their heirs and successors.

ARTICLE 16.

This Treaty is to be ratified by the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia in eight days from this time, and the ratification is to be delivered to Major-General Wellesley.

Major-General Wellesley engages that it shall be ratified by His Excellency the Most Noble the Governor-General in Council, and the ratification shall be delivered to the Maharajah in three months or sooner, if possible.

The orders for the cession of the territories shall be delivered to Major-General Wellesley at the same time with the ratification of the Treaty of Peace; but the forts of Asseerghur, Powanghur, and Dohud are not to be delivered up till accounts will have been received that the territories ceded have been evacuated by the Maharajah's officers and troops.

TREATY of ALLIANCE with DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, 1804.

TREATY of ALLIANCE and MUTUAL DEFENCE between the HONOURABLE the ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY and the MAHARAJAH ALI JAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA BAHADOOR, and his children, heirs and successors, settled by MAJOR JOHN MALCOLM, on the part of the HONOURABLE COMPANY, and by BAPOO EETUL PUNT and MOONSHEE KAVEL NYN, on the part of the MAHARAJAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, after having communicated to each other their full powers, the said JOHN MALCOLM being deputed to the Court of DOWLUT RAO SINDIA by MAJOR GENERAL the HONOURABLE ARTHUR WELLESLEY; the HONOURABLE MAJOR GENERAL aforesaid being invested with full powers and authority from His EXCELLENCY the MOST NOBLE RICHARD MARQUIS WELLESLEY, KNIGHT of the MOST ILLUSTRIOUS ORDER of SAINT PATRICK, one of HIS BRITANNIC MAJESTY'S MOST HONOURABLE PRIVY COUNCIL, appointed by the HONOURABLE COURT of DIRECTORS of the said COMPANY to direct and control all their affairs in the EAST INDIES.

Whereas, by the blessing of God, the relations of friendship and union have been happily established between the Government of the Honourable Company and that of the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia Bahadoor by a recent Treaty of Peace, the two Governments aforesaid, adverting to the complexion of the times, have now determined, with a view to the preservation of peace and tranquillity, to enter into this Treaty of general defensive alliance, for the reciprocal protection of their respective territories, together with those of their several allies and dependants, against unprovoked aggression and encroachments of all or any enemies whatever.

ARTICLE 1.

The friendship and union established by the former Treaty between the two States shall be promoted and increased by this Treaty, and shall be perpetual: the friends and enemies of either State shall be the friends and enemies of both, and their mutual interests shall henceforward be inseparable.

ARTICLE 2.

If any person or State whatever shall commit any act of unprovoked hostility or aggression against either of the contracting parties, and, after due representation, shall refuse to enter into amicable explanation, or shall deny the just satisfaction or indemnity which the contracting parties shall have required, then the contracting parties will proceed to concert and prosecute such further measures as the case shall appear to demand. For the more distinct explanation of the true intent and effect of this Article, the Governor General in Council, in behalf of the Honourable Company, hereby declares that the British Government will never permit any power or State whatever to commit with impunity any act of unprovoked hostility or aggression against the rights and territories of the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, but will, at all times, in compliance with the requisition of the Maharajah, maintain and defend the same, when such requisition is made, in the like manner as the rights and territories of the Honourable Company are now maintained and defended.

ARTICLE 3.

With a view to fulfil this Treaty of mutual defence, the Maharajah agrees to receive, and the Honourable East India Company to furnish, a subsidiary force of not less than six thousand regular infantry, with the usual proportion of artillery, and with the proper equipment of warlike stores and ammunition. This force is to be stationed at such place near the frontier of Dowlut Rao Sindia as may hereafter be deemed most eligible by the British Government, and it will be held in readiness at such station to proceed as soon as possible for the execution of any service on which it is liable to be employed by the condition of this Treaty.

ARTICLE 4.

And it is further agreed that in conformity to the stipulations of the fifteenth Article of the Treaty of Peace, concluded by Major-General Wellesley, on the part of the Honourable Company, and by Bapoo Betul, Moonshee Kavel Nyn, &c., on the part of Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao

Sindia, that all charges and expenses of the six battalions abovementioned and of their ordnance, artillery, military stores, and equipment shall be defrayed by the Honourable Company out of the produce of the revenues of the territories ceded by the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia to the said Company, by the second, third, and fourth Articles of the aforementioned Treaty of Peace, which territories are specified in a statement annexed to that Treaty.

ARTICLE 5.

Grain and all other articles of consumption, and provisions, and all sorts of materials for wearing apparel, together with the necessary number of cattle, horses, and camels, required for the use of the subsidiary force, shall, whenever the aforesaid force is within the territories of the Maharajah, in consequence of his requisition, be entirely exempt from duties; and whenever any further force of the Honourable Company shall, in consequence of war with any other State, be in the dominions of the Maharajah, they shall, in like manner as the subsidiary force, be exempt from all duties upon the aforesaid articles of necessary use and consumption: and it is also agreed that whenever any part of the army of the Maharajah is in the territories of the Honourable Company, for purposes connected with the fulfilment of this Treaty, that no duties on grain, camels, wearing apparel, &c., as stated above, which the party of the army of the said Maharajah may require, shall be collected: and it is further agreed that the Officers of the respective Governments, while they are in the fulfilment of the Articles of this Treaty, either with the army or in the territories of the other, shall be treated with that respect and consideration which is due to their rank and station.

ARTICLE 6.

The subsidiary force will, at all times, be ready, on the requisition of the Maharajah, to execute services of importance, such as the care of the person of the Maharajah, his heirs and successors, the protection of the country from attack and invasion, the overawing and chastisement of rebels or excitors of disturbance in the Maharajah's dominions; but it is not to be employed on trifling occasions.

ARTICLE 7.

Whereas it is agreed in the thirteenth Article of the Treaty of Peace that the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia shall never take or retain in his service any Frenchman, or the subject of any other European or American power, the government of which may be at war with Great Britain, or any British subject whatever, European or native of India, without the consent of the British Government, the Maharajah now further engages that he will hereafter never employ in his service, or permit to reside in his dominions, any European or American whatever, without the consent and acquiescence of the British Government; the said British Government, on its part, engaging that it never will employ, or permit to reside in its dominions, any person subject of the Maharajah or others, who shall hereafter be guilty of crimes or of hostility against the person or government of the aforesaid Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia.

ARTICLE 8.

As, by the present Treaty, the union and friendship of the two States is so firmly cemented, that they may be considered as one and the same, the Maharajah engages neither to commence nor to pursue in future any negotiation with any principal States or powers, without giving previous notice and entering into mutual consultation with the Honourable East India Company's Government: and the Honourable Company's Government, on their part, declare that they will have no manner of concern with any of the Maharajah's relations, dependants, military chiefs, or servants, with respect to whom the Maharajah is absolute: and that they will, on no occasion, ever afford encouragement, support, or protection, to any of the Maharajah's relations, dependants, chiefs, or servants, who may eventually act in opposition to the Maharajah's authority, but, on the contrary, at the requisition of the Maharajah, they will aid and assist to punish and reduce all such offenders to obedience: and it is further agreed that no officer of the Honourable Company shall ever interfere in the internal affairs of the Maharajah's government.

ARTICLE 9.

As the chief object and design of the present defensive alliance is the security and protection of the dominions of the contracting parties, and their allies and dependants, from all attack whatsoever, the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia engages never to commit any act of hostility or aggression against any State or Chief in alliance with the Honourable Company, or against any other principal State or power; and in the event of differences arising, whatever adjustment the Company's Government, weighing matters in the scale of truth and justice, may determine, shall meet his full approbation and acquiescence.

ARTICLE 10.

The contracting parties will employ all practicable means of conciliation to prevent the calamity of war, and for that purpose will, at all times, be ready to enter into amicable explanations with other principal States or powers, and to cultivate and improve the general relations of peace and amity with all the principal powers of India, according to the true spirit and tenor of this Treaty; but if a war should unfortunately break out between the contracting parties and any other State or power whatever, then the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia Bahadur engages that the English force, consisting of six battalions, with their guns, &c., joined by a detachment of his army, consisting of six thousand of the Maharajah's infantry, and ten thousand of his Pagah and Sillahdar cavalry, which force the Maharajah engages always to keep ready, shall be immediately put in motion for the purpose of opposing the enemy: and the Maharajah also engages to employ every further effort for the purpose of bringing into the field the whole force which he may be able to supply from his dominions, with a view to the effectual prosecution and speedy termination of the said war. The Honourable Company, in the same manner, engage on their part (on such event occurring), to employ in active operations against the enemy as large a force as the service may require, over and above the said subsidiary force.

ARTICLE 11.

Whenever war shall appear probable the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia engages to collect as many Binjaries as possible, and to store as much grain as may be practicable in the frontier garrisons. The Company's Government also, with a view to the effectual prosecution of the war, engages to adopt similar measures in their frontier garrisons.

ARTICLE 12.

The contracting parties entertain no views of conquests or extension of their respective dominions, nor any intention of proceeding to hostilities against any State or principal power, unless in the case of unjust and unprovoked aggression, and after the failure of their joint endeavours to obtain reasonable satisfaction, through the channel of pacific negotiation, according to the tenor of the preceding Treaty. If, contrary to the spirit and object of this defensive Treaty, war with any State should hereafter appear unavoidable (which God avert), the contracting parties will proceed to adjust the rule of partition of all such advantages and acquisitions as may eventually result from the success of their united arms. It is declared that in the event of war and of a consequent partition of conquests between the contracting parties, the shares of each Government shall be equal, in the division of any territory which may be acquired by the successful exertions of their united arms, provided that each of the contracting parties shall have faithfully fulfilled all the stipulations of this Treaty.

ARTICLE 13.

The interests of the contracting parties being identified by this defensive alliance, it is agreed that the Honourable Company's Government shall be at liberty to employ the whole or any part of the subsidiary force established by the Treaty in the quelling of any disturbances which may arise within their territories, or in the performance of any other service which may be required by the said Honourable Company's government, provided such service shall not interfere with any other duties on which the said subsidiary force is liable to be employed under the conditions of this Treaty. And if disturbances shall at any time break out in any part of the Maharajah's dominions which lays contiguous to the frontier of the Honourable Company, and to which it might be inconvenient to detach any proportion of the subsidiary force, the British Government, in like manner, if required by Dowlut Rao Sindia, shall direct such of the Company's troops as may be most conveniently stationed for the purpose, to assist in quelling the said disturbances within the Maharajah's dominions; and if disturbances shall at any time break out in any part of the dominions of the British Government which lay contiguous to the frontier of the Maharajah, the Maharajah, if required by the British Government, shall direct such of his troops as may be most conveniently stationed for the purpose, to assist in quelling the said disturbances within the dominions of the British Government.

ARTICLE 14.

In order to strengthen and confirm the friendship established between the two States; it is agreed that neither of the two contracting parties shall enter into any alliance, or have any concern with the tributaries or chiefs of the other: and, in order to support the independent authority of both Governments, it is agreed and declared, that hereafter neither of the contracting parties will give protection or countenance to the rebellious tributaries and subjects of the other, but they will use their utmost endeavours for the apprehension of such rebels, in order that they may be brought to punishment.

ARTICLE 15.

The Honourable Company agree to exert their influence to maintain the observance of such usages on matters of form and ceremony, and other customs, as shall appear to have been fixed on all points of intercourse and communication between the Peishwa and his ancestors, and the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia and his ancestors: and the English Government also agree to recognize the rights of Dowlut Rao Sindia to all possessions he holds, whether by written Sunnuds, or by grants, or by the unwritten authority of the Peishwa, according to former usage, provided such Sunnuds do not interfere with the faithful fulfilment of the Treaty of Peace; and provided also that in all cases where disputes may arise, on the subject of possessions held by unwritten authority, the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia agrees to refer it to the arbitration of the said British Government, who will decide, with reference to former usage, on the principles of truth and justice. The English Government further agrees to use its endeavour to prevent any acts which have been done by Dowlut Rao Sindia, or his ancestors, under the authority reposed in him or them by the Peishwa, or his ancestors, from being subverted provided their being supported is strictly consistent with the preservation of the honour and dignity of His Highness the Peishwa, and of the stipulations of the Treaty of Peace.

ARTICLE 16.

This Treaty, consisting of sixteen Articles, being this day settled by Major Malcolm, on the part of the Honourable Company, and by Eetul Punt and Moonshee Kavel Nyn, on the part of Dowlut Rao Sindia, Major Malcolm has delivered one copy thereof, in Persian and Mahratta and English signed and sealed by himself, to the said Maharajah, who, on his part, has also delivered one copy of the same duly executed by himself: and Major Malcolm by virtue of a special authority given him in that behalf, by Major-General the Honourable Arthur Wellesley (himself vested with full powers as before stated), hereby declares the said Treaty to be in full force from the date hereof, and engages that a copy of the same from the Governor-General in Council, in every respect a counterpart of that executed by himself, shall be delivered to the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia, in the space of two months and ten days, and on the delivery of such copy, the Treaty executed by Major Malcolm shall be returned.

TREATY with DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, with the Declaratory Article annexed, 1805.

DEFINITIVE TREATY of AMITY and ALLIANCE between the HONOURABLE ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY and the MAHARAJAH ALI JAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA BAHADOOR, and his children, heirs and successors.

Whereas various doubts and misunderstandings have arisen respecting the clear meaning and interpretation of parts of the Treaty of Peace concluded between the British Government and Dowlut Rao Sindia, at Surjee Anjengaum, on the 30th December 1803, with a view of doing away all such doubts, and of preventing the recurrence in future of any misunderstanding, this definitive Treaty of amity and alliance is concluded between the two States by Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm, acting under the immediate direction and superintendence of the Right Honourable General Gerard Lake, Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's and the Honourable Company's Forces, &c., &c., &c., and vested with full powers and authority from the Honourable Sir George Hilario Barlow, Baronet, appointed by the Honourable Court of Directors of the said Company to control and direct all their affairs in the East Indies, and Moonshee Kavel Nyn, vested with full powers and authority, on the part of the said Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia.

ARTICLE 1.

Every part of the Treaty of Peace concluded by General Sir Arthur Wellesley, K.B., at Surjee Anjengaum, except what may be altered by this engagement, is to remain binding upon the two States.

ARTICLE 2.

The Honourable Company can never acknowledge that Dowlut Rao Sindia has any claim or right, grounded on the Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum, to possess the fort of Gwalior or the territories of Gohud; but, from considerations of friendship, it agrees to cede to the Maharajah that fortress, and such parts of the territory of Gohud as are described in the accompanying Schedule.

ARTICLE 3.

As a compensation for this cession, and to remunerate the English Government for the annual expense incurred in supporting the Rana of Gohud, Dowlut Rao Sindia agrees, on his own part and that of his Sirdars, to relinquish, after the 1st of January 1806, all right and claim whatever to the pensions of fifteen lakhs of Rupees granted to several of the chief officers of his State, by the seventh Article of the aforesaid Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum.

ARTICLE 4.

The Honourable Company agree to pay to Dowlut Rao Sindia the arrears due upon the pensions granted by the seventh Article of the Treaty of Peace, as above mentioned, up to the 31st of December 1805, and also the balance due upon the revenues of Dholepore, Rajah-Kerrah, and Baree up to the same date, making deductions on the following heads:—

- 1st.—Pensions forfeited by Bappoo Sindia and Sudasheo Rao, by acts of hostility towards the British Government, to be stopped from the date of their hostility.
- 2nd.—Plunder of the British Residency.
- 3rd.—Cash advanced by Mr. Jenkins to parties of the Maharajah's troops.
- 4th.—Charges of collection, &c., for the provinces of Dholepore, Baree, and Rajah-Kerrah.

ARTICLE 5.

With a view of preventing any misunderstanding relating to their respective possessions on the quarter of Hindustan, it is agreed that the river Chumbul shall form the boundary between the two States, from the city of Kotah to the west to the limits of the territories of Gohud to the east, and within that extent of the course of the Chumbul, Dowlut Rao Sindia shall have no claim or right to any rule, tribute, revenue, or possessions on its north bank; and the Honourable Company shall have no claim or right to any rule, tribute, revenues or possessions on the south bank of that river. The talooks of Bhadek and Sooseperarah, which are on the banks of the Jumna, will, however, remain in possession of the Honourable Company.

ARTICLE 6.

By the fifth Article of this Treaty, which makes the river Chumbul the boundary of the two States, from the city of Kotah to the west to the limits of the territories of Gohud to the east, the Maharajah resigns all pretensions and claims to any tribute from the Rajah of Boondee, or any other, on the north bank of the Chumbul, within the aforementioned limits: also to the countries of Tank Ramporah, Bahraungaum, Zemeidah, &c., and to the districts of Dholepore, Rajah-Kerrah, and Baree, all which remain in the possession of the Honourable Company.

ARTICLE 7.

The Honourable Company, on consideration of the benefits derived from the Article which makes the Chumbul the boundary between the two States, and from friendship to the Maharajah, agree to grant him, personally and exclusively, the annual sum of four lakhs of rupees, to be paid by quarterly instalments, through the Resident at the Durbar; and the Honourable Company also agree to assign, within their territories in Hindustan, a jaghire (to be holden on the same footing as that enjoyed by Balla Bai) amounting to a revenue of two lakhs of rupees per annum, to Baiza Bai, the wife of Dowlut Rao Sindia, and a jaghire, amounting to the sum of one lakh of rupees per annum, to Chumna Bai, the daughter of that Chief.

ARTICLE 8.

The Honourable Company engage to enter into no Treaty with the Rajahs of Oodeypore and Jodhpore, and Kotah or other Chiefs, tributaries of Dowlut Rao Sindia, situated in Malwa, Meywar, or Marwar, and in no shape whatever to interfere with the settlement which Sindia may make with those Chiefs.

ARTICLE 9.

The Honourable Company are now engaged in a war with Jeswunt Rao Holkar, and using every exertion for his reduction; but should they hereafter make a peace, or enter into any agreement with that Chief, they engage not to restore to him, or desire to be restored to him, any of the possessions of the family of Holkar in the province of Malwa, lying between the river Tapti and Chumbul, which may have been taken by Dowlut Rao Sindia, nor will the Honourable Company interfere in any manner whatever in the disposal of those provinces; and they will consider Dowlut Rao Sindia at full liberty to make such arrangement as he chooses with Jeswunt Rao Holkar, or with any other branch of the Holkar family, respecting the claims of that family to tribute from the Rajahs, or others, or to any possessions situated to the north of the river Tapti and to the south of the river Chumbul: but it is clearly to be understood, that as the Company's Government agrees not to concern itself with the arrangements which Sindia may make with the family of Holkar, respecting their claims or hereditary possessions, situated between the Tapti and the Chumbul, that Government will not take part in any dispute or war which may be the result or consequence of such arrangement or settlement.

ARTICLE 10.

As Serjee Rao Ghaultka has acted in a manner calculated to disturb the friendship between the two States, the Maharajah agrees never to admit that Chief to share in his councils, or to hold any public employment under his Government.

ARTICLE 11.

This Treaty, consisting of eleven Articles, has been this day settled by Lieutenant-Colonel Malcolm, acting under directions of the Right Honourable Lord Lake, on the part of the Honourable Company, and by Moonshee Kavel Nyn, on the part of Dowlut Rao Sindia. Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm has delivered one copy thereof, in Persian and English, signed and sealed by himself, to the said Moonshee Kavel Nyn, to be forwarded to the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, and has received from the said Moonshee Kavel Nyn a counterpart of the said Treaty signed and sealed by the said Moonshee. Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm engages that a copy of the said Treaty, ratified by the Honourable the Governor-General, in every respect a counterpart of the Treaty now executed by himself, shall be delivered to Moonshee Kavel Nyn, to be forwarded to the Maharajah, within the period of one month from this date, and on the delivery of such copy to the Maharajah, the Treaty executed by Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm, under the immediate direction of the Right Honourable Lord Lake, shall be returned; and Moonshee Kavel Nyn, in like manner, engages, that another copy of the said Treaty, ratified by the Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia, in every respect a counterpart of the Treaty now executed by himself, shall be delivered to Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm, to be forwarded to the Honourable the Governor General, within the period of one month from this date; and on the delivery of such copy to the Honourable the Governor-General, the Treaty executed by Moonshee Kavel Nyn, by virtue of the full powers and authority vested in him, as abovementioned, shall also be returned.

DECLARATORY ARTICLES annexed to the TREATY concluded between the RIGHT HONOURABLE LORD LAKE, on the part of the HONOURABLE COMPANY, and MAHARAJAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA on the 22nd November 1805.

Whereas objections have arisen to the terms of the fifth, sixth, and seventh Articles of the aforesaid Treaty, it is hereby agreed and declared, that in lieu of those three Articles, the two following shall be substituted:—

ARTICLE 1.

With a view to prevent any misunderstanding relating to the respective possessions of the Honourable Company and Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia in the quarter of Hindostan, the Maharajah hereby agrees to cede to the Honourable Company all the territory north of the river Chumbul which was ceded to the Maharajah by the seventh Article of the Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum, that is to say, the whole of the districts of Dholepore, Baree, and Rajah-Kerrah, and the Honourable Company shall have no claim or right to any rule, tribute, revenues or possessions, on the south bank of that river. The talooks of Bhadek and Sooseperarah, which are on the banks of the Jumna, will, however, remain in the possession of the Honourable Company.

ARTICLE 2.

The Honourable Company, from friendship to the Maharajah, agrees to grant to him, personally and exclusively, the annual sum of four lakhs of Rupees, to be paid by quarterly instalments, through the Resident at the Durbar. And the Honourable Company also agree to assign, within their territories in Hindostan, a jaghire (to be holden on the same footing as that enjoyed by Balla Bai) amounting to a revenue of two lakhs of Rupees per annum, to Baiza Bai, the wife of Dowlut Rao Sindia, and a jaghire, amounting to one lakh of Rupees per annum, to Chumna Bai, the daughter of that Chief.

TREATY of CONCERT and ALLIANCE with DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, dated the 5th November 1817.

TREATY of CONCERT and ALLIANCE between the HONOURABLE the ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY and MAHARAJAH ALI JAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, BAHADOOR, and his children, heirs and successors, settled on the part of the HONOURABLE COMPANY by CAPTAIN ROBERT CLOSE, by virtue of full powers to that effect vested in him by HIS EXCELLENCY the MOST NOBLE FRANCIS, MARQUIS OF HASTINGS, KNIGHT of the MOST NOBLE ORDER of the GARTER, one of HIS BRITANNIC MAJESTY'S MOST HONOURABLE PRIVY COUNCIL, GOVERNOR GENERAL, appointed by the HONOURABLE COMPANY to direct and control all their affairs in the EAST INDIES, COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF of HIS MAJESTY'S and the HONOURABLE COMPANY'S FORCES, &c., &c., &c., and on the part of HIS HIGHNESS DOWLUT RAO SINDIA by RAM CHUNDRU BHASKUR, duly empowered by HIS HIGHNESS to that effect.

Whereas the British Government and Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia Bahadoor are mutually actuated by a desire to suppress the predatory power of the Pindarees, and to destroy and prevent the revival of the predatory system in every part of India; the following Articles have been agreed on for the purpose of giving effect to the mutual wishes of the two States.

ARTICLE 1.

The contracting parties engage to employ the forces of their respective governments and of their allies and dependants in prosecuting operations against the Pindarees and any other bodies of associated freebooters; to expel them from their haunts, and to adopt the most effectual measures to disperse and prevent them from re-assembling. With this view the forces of the two Governments and their respective allies will immediately attack the Pindarees and their associates, according to a concerted plan of operations, and will not desist until the objects of this engagement are entirely accomplished. The Maharajah further agrees to employ his utmost efforts to seize the persons of the Pindaree leaders and their families, and deliver them up to the British Government.

ARTICLE 2.

The Pindaree hordes having established themselves in the territories of the Maharajah and other neighbouring States, it is hereby agreed that, on their expulsion, such of the lands occupied by them as heretofore belonged to the Maharajah, shall be immediately resumed by His Highness, who engages never to re-admit them to possession. Such of the lands now occupied by the Pindarees as belong to other States shall be restored to their rightful proprietors, provided they shall have exerted themselves to the extent required in expelling the Pindarees, and shall engage never to re-admit them, or in any way to connect themselves with those freebooters. Those lands shall otherwise be delivered over to Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, and be held by him on the same conditions.

ARTICLE 3.

Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia hereby engages never to re-admit the Pindarees or any other predatory bodies into his territories, or in any manner to give them the smallest countenance or support, or to permit his officers to do so; on the contrary, His Highness promises to issue the most positive orders to all his officers, civil and military, and to enforce them, by the severest penalties, to employ their utmost efforts to expel or destroy any bodies of plunderers who may attempt to take refuge in His Highness' territories. All officers disregarding His Highness' orders are to be considered and dealt with as rebels to the Maharajah and enemies of the British Government.

ARTICLE 4.

Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia is the undisputed master of his own troops and resources. With a view, however, to the more effectual accomplishment of the objects of this Treaty, His Highness agrees that the divisions of his troops (which taken together shall amount to 5,000 horse) employed in active operations against the Pindarees or other freebooters, shall act in concert with the British troops, and in conformity to the plan that may be counselled by the officer commanding the British divisions, with which His Highness' troops may be appointed to act in concert. With the same view it is agreed that a British officer shall be stationed with each division of the Maharajah's troops, to be the channel of communication between them and the British Commanding Officer; and to forward the other purposes of their conjunct operations, His Highness engages that all his officers, civil and military, shall afford every degree of support and assistance in their power, in procuring supplies or otherwise to the British troops operating in his territory; and any failure in this respect shall subject the offending party to be considered and treated as a rebel to His Highness and an enemy of the British Government.

ARTICLE 5.

Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia engages that the divisions appointed to act in concert with the British troops shall be maintained in a state of complete equipment, both men and horses, and regularly paid. In order to provide effectually for the latter object in such a manner as shall prevent all future discussion or dispute, His Highness consents to renounce, for the next three years, the payments now made by the British Government to him, as well as to certain members of his family and ministers of his Government, and that those sums shall be disbursed towards the payment of His Highness' troops, through the British officers stationed with them: and the British Government agrees at the conclusion of the war, and after His Highness' troops shall have received what may be due to them, to pay any balance that may remain to His Highness. With the same view, the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia likewise consents to relinquish in the fullest manner to the British Government, for a period of two years, the tribute which he is entitled to receive from the States of Jodhpore, Boondee, and Kotah.

ARTICLE 6.

It is agreed that the troops of Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, cavalry, infantry, and artillery, shall occupy, during the war, such positions as shall be designated by the British Government, and shall not change them without the express concurrence of that Government, any unconcerted movements being calculated to derange the joint operations of the forces of the two States, and to give advantage to the enemy. It is also agreed, in order to ensure the due execution of the stipulation contained in this Article, that the British Government shall be at liberty to station an officer in each of the divisions of the Maharajah's army abovementioned.

ARTICLE 7.

The force that will be put in motion by the British Government, and that actually in the service of Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, being fully sufficient to chastise the Pindarees and effect the objects of the present Treaty, His Highness agrees, in order to prevent the possibility of collusion between his officers and the Pindarees, not to augment his forces during the war, without the concurrence of the British Government. His Highness expressly engages to prohibit his officers from admitting into the ranks of his army, or otherwise harbouring or protecting, the Pindarees, or other freebooters; and all persons neglecting or disobeying these orders are to be considered and treated as rebels to His Highness and enemies of the British Government.

ARTICLE 8.

With a view to the more effectual prosecution of the joint operations of the two Governments, and to the facility and security of the communication of the British troops with their supplies, the Maharajah, reposing entire confidence in the friendship and good faith of the British Government, agrees that British garrisons shall be admitted into the forts of Hindia and Asseergurh, and shall be charged with the care and defence of those forts during the war, and shall have the liberty of establishing depôts within them. The flag of Dowlut Rao Sindia shall, however, continue to fly in the fort of Asseergurh, and His Highness shall be at liberty to station a killadar, with a personal guard of fifty men, in the said fort; but it is clearly understood that the actual command of that place as well as of Hindia, and the disposal of the warlike stores that may be found in those forts, shall be vested exclusively in the British Commanding Officers. Any part of those stores that may be damaged or expended, while the forts in question are occupied by the British troops, shall be accounted for, and the value made good to His Highness. For the more effectual performance of this stipulation, inventories shall be taken by officers, on the part of both Governments, at the time of the occupation of the forts by the British Government. The present garrisons (with the exception above stated in regard to Asseergurh) shall move out of the forts. The Maharajah will thenceforward have no further concern with the Sebundeas of the garrisons, but His Highness' other troops, including the Paigah, &c., shall encamp at such places as may be prescribed by the British officers, in conformity to the provisions of the 6th Article. The territories depending on the forts above-mentioned will continue to be managed by the officers of the Maharajah, who will receive every support from the British Government and its officers. The whole, or such portion of the revenues as may be necessary, shall be appropriated to the payment of the Maharajah's troops acting in concert with the British divisions, as stipulated in the 5th Article; and a faithful account of the whole shall be rendered to His Highness after the conclusion of the war. The two forts above-mentioned, and the territories dependent on them, will be restored to the Maharajah as soon as the operations against the Pindarees or their confederates shall be brought to a termination, in the same condition in which they may be delivered up to the British Government. All private property will be respected; and the inhabitants of the towns or villages depending on the forts will enjoy the protection of the British Government, or be permitted to depart with their property, if they think proper.

ARTICLE 9.

The main object of the contracting parties being to prevent for ever the revival of the predatory system in any form, and both Governments being satisfied that to accomplish this wise and just end it may be necessary for the British Government to form engagements of friendship and alliance with the several States of Hindostan, the 8th Article of the Treaty of the 22nd November 1805, by which the British Government is restrained from entering into Treaties with certain Chiefs therein specified, is hereby abrogated and annulled; and it is declared that the British Government shall be at full liberty to form engagements with the States of Oudeypore, Jodhpore, and Kotah, and with the State of Boondee, and other substantive States on the left bank of the Chumbul. Nothing in this Article shall, however, be construed to give the British Government a right to interfere with States or Chiefs in Malwa or Guzerat, clearly and indisputably dependent on, or tributary to, the Maharajah: and it is agreed that His Highness' authority over those States or Chiefs shall continue on the same footing as it has been heretofore. The British Government further agrees and promises, in the event of its forming any engagements with the above-mentioned States of Oudeypore, Jodhpore, Kotah, and Boondee, or with any others on the left bank of the Chumbul, to secure to Dowlut Rao Sindia his ascertained tribute and to guarantee the same in perpetuity to be paid through the British Government; and Dowlut Rao Sindia engages, on his part, on no account or pretence whatever, to interfere in any shape in the affairs of those States without the concurrence of the British Government.

ARTICLE 10.

If (which God forbid) the British Government and the Maharajah shall be compelled to wage war with any other State, on account of such State attacking either of the contracting parties, or aiding or protecting the Pindarees or other freebooters, the British Government, having at heart the welfare of Dowlut Rao Sindia, will, in the event of success, and of His Highness' zealous performance of his engagements, make the most liberal arrangements for the consolidation and increase of his territories.

ARTICLE 11.

Such parts of the Treaty of Surjee Anjengaum, and of the Treaty concluded on the 22nd of November 1805, as are not affected by the provisions of the present engagement, remain in full force, and are mutually binding on the contracting parties.

ARTICLE 12.

This Treaty, consisting of twelve Articles, having this day been concluded, subject to the ratification of the Governor-General and Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia, Captain Close engages to procure the ratification of the Governor-General in five days from this date, or sooner if possible; and Ram Chandru Bhaskur engages to obtain His Highness' ratification before sunset this evening.

Done at Gwalior, this 5th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1817, corresponding with the 24th day of Zilkuj, 1232 of the Hegira, and with the 11th Ashwin Vud, in the year 1218 of the Arabic era.

NO. VIII.

ENGAGEMENT between the HONOURABLE the ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY and MAHARAJAH ALI JAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA BAHADOOR, dated the 25th June 1818.

Whereas by the 14th Article of the Treaty of Poona, concluded on the 13th of June 1817, all the rights and territories of His Highness Rao Pundit Pradhan in Malwa were ceded to the Honourable East India Company; and whereas some of those territories are contiguous to, and intermixed with, those of Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia; it has therefore been agreed, for the mutual convenience of both States, that certain exchanges of territory should take place; and the British Government hereby transfers to Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia, his heirs and successors, all its rights and claims to the districts and territories mentioned in the annexed Schedule, No. 1; and Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia, for himself, his heirs and successors, hereby transfers to the British Government all his rights and claims of every description to the places mentioned in the accompanying Schedule, No. 2.

Moreover the British Government having resolved to restore to Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao the fort and territory of Jawud, &c., the Maharajah on his part engages, on his recovering that district, to establish such an administration there as shall afford security for the peace of the country, and the prevention of the revival of the predatory system. The Maharajah further engages to recall Jeswunt Rao Bhao, for whose future conduct the Maharajah will be responsible, and will require him to reside at a distance from Jawud, on a provision to be assigned him by the Maharajah either in jaghire or in any other manner His Highness may prefer.

It is further stipulated, that in the event of Hindia and Asseergurh being restored by the British Government to the Maharajah, previous to the entire cessation of operations against the Pindarees, &c., the Maharajah engages that in lieu of the revenues of those districts, which by Treaty have been set aside for the payment of the contingent to be employed against the Pindarees, a third year's tribute on the States of Kotah and Jodhpore shall, in the event of its being required, be assigned for that purpose.

In witness whereof, Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia has hereunto affixed his seal, and Captain Josiah Stewart engages to obtain and deliver to Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, without delay, a counterpart of this engagement, with the ratification of the Most Noble the Governor General.

Done at Gwalior, this twenty-fifth day of June in the year of our Lord 1818, corresponding with the twentieth day of Shaban, 1233 of the Hegira, and with the 7th of Jesht Vud, in the year 1219 of the Arabic era.

No. IX.

ENGAGEMENT between the BRITISH GOVERNMENT and the MAHARAJAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, dated the 6th February 1820.

Whereas the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia agrees to give up for three years the annual payments made by the British Government to himself and certain other persons of his Court, and also the tribute to which he was entitled from the Rajpoot States (for three years), for the purpose of maintaining a body of Auxiliary Horse; and whereas the whole of that amount has already been paid by the British Government to the Maharajah's troops and a considerable balance remains due to the British Government; it has now been agreed between the Maharaja and the British Government that the body of Auxiliary Horse to be maintained by His Highness shall be reduced, so that the abovementioned funds, namely, the annual payments formerly made to the Maharajah and his family and ministers, together with the tribute due from the Rajpoot States, may be fully adequate to the payment of the force.

It is further agreed that, for the liquidation of the debt incurred by the Maharajah to the British Government for the payments already made to the Auxiliary Horse, as well as for the expenses of those Horse until the funds appropriated for their maintenance become available, the following districts shall be made over, from the commencement of the year 1877 Sumbut, to the British Government, viz.—

IN KANDEISH.

1. The Pergunnah of Yawul.
2. Ditto Chopra.
3. Ditto Pachora.
4. Ditto Lohara, 12 villages.
5. Possessions in Gurra Kota and Maltoun, intermixed with those of the British Government, together with the fort of Gurra Kota.

And whereas all the abovementioned districts are intermixed with the possessions of the British Government, it is further agreed that, after the liquidation of the debt due by the Maharajah, the British Government shall either restore those districts to His Highness, or continue to hold them, paying a fair rent for them, or grant to His Highness other lands of equal value, in lieu of them, which may be more conveniently situated, whichever mode may appear best to the British Government.

Done at Gwalior, this sixth day of February, in the year of our Lord 1820, corresponding with 20th day of Rubee-oo-sance, 1235 of the Hegira, and with 7th Magh Vad Suptumee 1220 of the Arabic era.

TRANSLATION of an AGREEMENT between the BRITISH GOVERNMENT and the MAHARAJAH DOWLUT RAO SINDIA, regarding the NIMAR DISTRICTS—1823.

Whereas by an arrangement formerly effected by Major-General Sir John Malcolm, it was agreed that the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia should pay annually the sum of Rupees four thousand and thirty-eight towards the support of certain Grassia Chiefs in Nimar, which contribution not having been paid for upwards of four years, a debt has consequently accumulated to near Rupees twenty thousand; and whereas the pergunnahs of Dhurgaon, Burwye, Sylanee, Poonassa and Kandwa, which adjoin certain provinces belonging to the British Government in Nimar, are now so desolate that the Maharajah does not receive the proper revenue of them, and in consequence of the disorders which prevail in them, great inconvenience is occasioned to the adjacent districts of the British Government in that quarter: Therefore, in order to remove those inconveniences and to provide for the payment of the debt before-mentioned, as well as to secure the punctual discharge for the future of the annual contribution above noticed of Rupees four thousand and thirty-eight, it is hereby agreed by the Maharajah that the aforesaid pergunnahs including their dependencies shall (with the exception of certain long established rights or charitable grants as Nankar Pudarick and Dhermdow) remain in the possession of the Honourable Company.

The British Government consents that, after deducting the amount of the debt mentioned in the preceding Article, and after deducting the annual contribution of Rupees four thousand and thirty-eight, together with the expenses of management, the whole remaining revenue to be collected from the districts abovementioned shall be paid annually to the Maharajah for ever; and as the expenses of management cannot now be correctly ascertained, it is likewise agreed that whatever sum those expenses may amount to during the first year that the pergunnahs aforesaid remain in the possession of the British Government, the same amount shall be considered for ever afterwards the fixed and permanent annual charge on that account.

And whereas certain Grassia Chiefs in Malwa are by former agreement entitled to receive from the Maharajah's Government certain Tanka dues in the payment of which difficulties have been sometimes made by the Maharajah's officers, it is hereby agreed by both Governments that as long as those payments shall be faithfully and regularly discharged, the Grassia Chiefs shall continue to receive them from the Maharajah's kamavisdars, but if at any time the Maharajah's officers hesitate to make the payments in question, it is understood that the British Government shall be at liberty to discharge them and to add the amount of those payments to the deductions already agreed to be made from the revenue of the districts abovementioned.

Done at Gwalior, this 10th day of November 1823, corresponding with the 6th of Rubeeal-awal, in the year 1239 of the Hegira, and with the 8th of Karsick (Shoodh), in the year 1800 Sumbut, or 1224 of the Arabic era.

In the year Soor (Shuru) Sun, 'Araba Assooroon (Ashrin), in the month of Mohurru and on the 25th day, corresponding with A.D. 1824, I request that in the district of Nimar, the undermentioned mahals may be received from the charge of kamavidars and transferred in kamavish (khalsa) to the charge of the English :—

- | | |
|-----------------------|-----------------------|
| 1. Kundwae pergunnah. | 4. Sylanee pergunnah. |
| 2. Burwae. | 5. Dhungaon Mosa. |
| 3. Poonassa, | |

These five mahals are transferred from the aforesaid years in kamavish in order that they may be restored to prosperity and re-peopled. Whatever may be collected shall be paid into the Sircar's treasury year by year; this is exclusive of the Domallagaon, the Padaruk Zumeen, which must be continued according to custom. When the mahals are restored to prosperity, and shall have reached their Kumal Juma, they must be shown (in Mahrattée "Anoon dakwae.")

In the year Kumus (Khams) Assooreen, Moeatein-wo-Aluf, and the 22nd of the month of Suffer, A.D. 1825, the government of the Company having stated that certain mahals are not prosperous, but on the contrary very much depopulated, and requested that they might be transferred to its management to be restored to prosperity; for this reason the following mahals are transferred :

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. Assore (Asir), excepting Hussainpoora, Surbaugh, Soodeepoora. | 6. Deore pergunnah, including the talookas of Tendokerra, Narmon, the pergunnahs of Gower, Jakur, and Sowlate. |
| 2. Bangurh pergunnah. | |
| 3. Moode pergunnah. | 7. Peemplode (Piplod) pergunnah. |
| 4. Belora talooka. | |
| 5. Attode (Altod) talooka. | |

The above seven mahals are from the above-mentioned year transferred to the Company according to its request for the purpose of being restored to prosperity. When they shall have reached their Kumal Juma they shall be shown (in Mahrattée "Anoon dakwunee"). After the Malmuskoor (this includes Sebundee, Nemnook, Durukdar, &c.) shall have been settled, the remainder of the collections, as in other mahals, according to the kistbundee, shall be paid into the Sircar's treasury, always excluding Duorundae, Wurchasun, Paduruke Zumeen, and Gaon Domale, Natkhasgee, Ameene, &c., which must be continued according to custom.

No. XI.

TREATY between the BRITISH GOVERNMENT and the MAHARAJAH JYAJEE RAO SINDIA, dated the 13th January 1844.

TREATY between the HONOURABLE ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY and MAHARAJAH ALI JAH JYAJEE RAO SINDIA, BAHADOOR, and his children, heirs and successors, settled on the part of the HONOURABLE COMPANY by FREDERICK CURRIE, ESQUIRE, and LIEUTENANT-COLONEL WILLIAM HENRY SLEEMAN, by virtue of full powers to that effect vested in them by the RIGHT HONOURABLE EDWARD, LORD ELLENBOROUGH, one of HER BRITANNIC MAJESTY'S MOST HONOURABLE PRIVY COUNCIL, GOVERNOR-GENERAL, appointed by the Honourable Company to direct and control all their affairs in the East Indies; and on the part of HIS HIGHNESS JYAJEE RAO SINDIA by RAO RAM RAO PHALKIA BAHADOOR SHUMSHERE JUNG, DEO RAO JADHOW MAMA SAHEB, DUBEEROOD-DOWLAH MOONSHEE RAJAH BULWUNT RAO BAHADOOR, OODAJEE RAO GHATGIA, MOOLLA JEE, and NARAYUN RAO BHAAO YUMAJEE, Potnuvees, the Sirdars nominated to conduct the affairs of the Government during His Highness minority.

ARTICLE 1.

Every part of the Treaty of Peace concluded by General Sir Arthur Wellesley, K.B., at Surjee Anjengaum, on the 30th December 1803, and of the Treaty of alliance and mutual defence, settled by Major John Malcolm at Boorhanpoor, on the 27th February 1804, and of the definitive Treaty of amity and alliance, with the declaratory Article annexed, concluded by Lieutenant-Colonel John Malcolm, at Moostafapoor, on the 22nd November 1805, and of the Treaty concluded between Captain Robert Close, on the part of the British Government, and Maharajah Ali Jah Dowlut Rao Sindia, on the 5th November 1817, as well as every part of all other Treaties and Engagements between the two States, which may be now in force, except in so far as may be altered by this engagement, is to remain binding upon the two Governments.

ARTICLE 2.

Whereas the late Maharajah Jankojee Rao Sindia engaged to defray all the charges of a force, to be commanded by British officers, and constantly stationed within His Highness' territories, for the protection thereof and the preservation of good order therein, and the cost of such force hitherto has been about Company's Rupees 5,00,000 per annum, and the revenues and receipts set apart and assigned for the maintaining of the said force, together with other revenues now received by the British Government on His Highness' account, amount to the sum of about Company's Rupees 5,46,000; and whereas it is expedient to increase the amount of such force and to make permanent provision for defraying the charge thereof, it is therefore agreed between the British Government and His Highness the Maharajah Jyajee Rao Sindia, that in addition to all the revenues and other receipts already set apart for the purpose of maintaining the said force, or received by the British Government on his Highness' account, the revenues of the districts enumerated and territory described in the Schedule A. to this Treaty shall be appropriated to the maintenance of such force.

ARTICLE 3.

It is further agreed that if the revenues of the districts so enumerated and described in such Schedule A., together with the revenues and payments mentioned in the foregoing Article as set apart for the payment of the said force, or heretofore received on His Highness' account, shall, after defraying thereout all the charges of civil administration, exceed the sum of Company's Rupees eighteen lakhs, the surplus shall be paid over to His Highness Maharajah Jyajee Rao Sindia; and if the said revenues and receipts shall fall short of Company's Rupees eighteen lakhs per annum, the deficiency shall be made good by His Highness.

ARTICLE 4.

And it is further agreed, for the better securing of the due payment of the revenues of such districts enumerated and described in Schedule A., and for the better preserving of good order within the same, that the civil administration thereof shall be conducted by the British Government, in the same manner in which the civil administration of the other districts belonging to the Maharajah, of which the revenues are similarly assigned, is conducted by the British Government for His Highness.

ARTICLE 5.

And whereas there is now due to the British Government the sum of ten lakhs of Rupees, more or less, as may hereafter appear on examination of the accounts, on the score of charges of the contingent force, and a further sum of one lakh, on account of advances made to Her Highness Baiza Bai, and on other accounts, and the charges of the present armament of the British Government may be estimated at ten lakhs (after deducting therefrom the expense of furnishing to His Highness six thousand men, with artillery and stores, free of cost to His Highness, under the provisions of the Treaty of Boorhanpoor), and a further expenditure of five lakhs will be incurred by the British Government in affording compensation for losses sustained during, and in consequence of the late hostilities, and in other charges connected therewith; it is further agreed that His Highness shall pay to the British Government the sum of twenty-six lakhs of Rupees within fourteen days from the date of this Treaty, and in default thereof that the revenues of the several districts enumerated in Schedule B., attached to this Treaty, shall, together with the civil administration of such districts, be made over to the British Government until such time as the said sum of twenty-six lakhs of Company's Rupees shall have been paid, together with interest, at the rate of five per cent. per annum upon the same.

ARTICLE 6.

And whereas the British Government is bound by Treaty to protect the person of His Highness the Maharajah, his heirs and successors, and to protect his dominions from foreign invasion, and to quell serious disturbances therein, and the army now maintained by His Highness is of unnecessary amount, embarrassing to His Highness' government and the cause of disquietude to neighbouring States, it is therefore further agreed that the military force of all arms hereafter to be maintained by His Highness, exclusive of the contingent above provided for, shall at no time exceed nine thousand men, of whom not more than three thousand shall be infantry, with twelve field guns and two hundred gunners, with twenty other guns; and His Highness the Maharajah engages to take immediate measures for the reduction of his army within the number above specified, and the British Government engages on its part to assist His Highness therein, should such aid appear to be required.

ARTICLE 7.

It is further agreed that His Highness will discharge all pay due to the troops disbanded, and also give a gratuity of three months' pay to such of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates of the corps disbanded, as may not be re-enlisted in the contingent or in any new corps formed by His Highness.

ARTICLE 8.

And inasmuch as it is expedient to provide for the due administration of the government during the minority of His Highness the Maharajah, which minority shall be considered to terminate when His Highness shall have attained the full age of 18 years, and not sooner, that is on the 5th Magh Vud Sumbut 1909, or 19th day of January A.D. 1853, it is further agreed that during such minority the persons entrusted with the administration of the government shall act upon the advice of the British Resident in all matters whereon such advice shall be offered, and no change shall be made in the persons entrusted with the administration without the consent of the British Resident acting under the express authority of the Governor-General.

ARTICLE 9.

And it is agreed that the following persons shall, in the first instance, constitute the Council of Regency, and that the first named person shall be President of the same. Rao Ram Rao Phalkia Bahadoor, Shumsher Jung; Deo Rao Jadowh Mama Saheb; Dubeer-ood-dowlah Moonshes Raja Bulwant Rao Bahadoor; Oodajee Rao Ghatgia; Moolla Jee; and Narayun Rao Bhao Yumajee Potnuvees.

ARTICLE 10.

And inasmuch as it is fitting that Her Highness Tara Bai should have a suitable provision now made for the maintenance of her court, it is further agreed that the sum of Rupees three lakhs shall be annually set apart for that purpose, and be at Her Highness' sole disposal.

ARTICLE 11.

And it is further agreed that the British Government shall, as heretofore, exert its influence and good offices for maintaining the just territorial rights of the Maharajah and the subjects of the State of Sindia at present existing in the neighbouring and other Native States.

ARTICLE 12.

This Treaty, consisting of twelve Articles, has been this day settled by Frederick Currie, Esquire, and Lieutenant-Colonel William Henry Sleeman, acting under the directions of the Right Honourable Edward, Lord Ellenborough, Governor-General, on the part of the British Government, and by Rao Ram Rao Phalkia Bahadoor, Shumsher Jung; Deo Rao Jadhoo Mama Saheb; Dubeer-ood-Dowlah Moonshee Rajah Bulwunt Rao Bahadoor; Oodajee Rao Ghatgia; Moola Jee; and Narayun Rao Bhao Yumajee Potnuvees, on the part of the Maharajah Jyajee Rao Sindia, and the said Treaty has been this day ratified by the seal of the Right Honourable Lord Ellenborough, Governor-General, and by that of His Highness Maharajah Jyajee Rao Sindia.

Done at Gwalior, this thirteenth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-four, corresponding with 22nd Zilhuj 1259 Hegira, and ratified the same date.

TREATY between the BRITISH GOVERNMENT on the one part, and MAHARAJAH ALI JAH JYAJEE RAO SINDIA BAHADOOR, and his children, heirs and successors, on the other part; settled on the part of the BRITISH GOVERNMENT by COLONEL SIR RICHMOND CAMPBELL SHAKESPEAR, K.T. and C.B., AGENT to the GOVERNOR-GENERAL in CENTRAL INDIA, by virtue of full powers to that effect vested in him by HIS EXCELLENCY the RIGHT HONOURABLE CHARLES JOHN EARL CANNING, G.C.B., VICEROY and GOVERNOR-GENERAL of INDIA, and one of HER MAJESTY'S MOST HONOURABLE PRIVY COUNCIL, and on the part of HIS HIGHNESS JYAJEE RAO SINDIA by JUGDEO RAO MOHURKUR, COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF, and BALAJEE CHIMNAJEE, Durbar Dewan, nominated by HIS HIGHNESS to conduct this negotiation.—1860.

Whereas a Treaty was concluded on 18th day of January, A.D. 1844, corresponding with 22nd Zilhedge 1259 Hegira, between the Honourable East India Company and Maharajah Ali Jah Jyajee Rao Sindia; and

Whereas, in execution of the declared intention of the British Government to give to the Maharajah, in acknowledgment of services rendered by His Highness in 1857 and 1858, territory yielding a gross yearly revenue of three lakhs of Company's Rupees, it has become expedient to restore a portion of the districts assigned to the British Government by the above-mentioned Treaty; and

Whereas it will be to the advantage of both contracting parties that other portions of the said Assigned Districts be restored to the Maharajah in exchange for the possessions of His Highness, situated in the Bombay Presidency, and to the south of the river Nerbudda, and elsewhere; and

Whereas it has been found inconvenient that the sovereignty of the Assigned Districts should remain with the Maharajah, while their civil administration and management remain with the British Government; and

Whereas it has been declared on the part of the British Government that if the revenue and receipts of the Assigned Districts should fall short of 18 lakhs of Company's Rupees per annum, the deficiency shall not be claimed from the Maharajah, and by the above declaration the provisions of Article 3 have been abrogated; and

Whereas, with reference to the sixth Article, it has been declared that the military force in the Maharajah's service may, with certain limits, be increased; and

Whereas the fifth, seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth Articles of the above-mentioned Treaty relate to matters of a temporary nature, and have been fulfilled, or are no longer applicable to the existing relations between the two Governments;

Therefore it is agreed by the contracting parties that the Treaty of the 13th January 1844 shall be abrogated, and that in its place the following Articles shall be substituted:—

ARTICLE 1.

All Treaties and engagements, between the two Governments, previous to that of the 13th of January 1844, shall, except in so far as they may be altered by this present engagement, remain binding upon the two Governments.

ARTICLE 2.

The British Government restores to the Maharajah from the Assigned Districts now in its possession territory yielding a gross revenue of three lakhs of Company's Rupees per annum, as a free gift and willing acknowledgment of His Highness's services during the years A. D. 1857 and 1858.

ARTICLE 3.

The Maharajah transfers to the British Government in full sovereignty the whole of His Highness's possessions in the Punj Mahals, and to the south of the river Nerbudda, also pergunnah Kunjeea on the Betwa river, on the following conditions:

1st.—That, for the lands transferred by His Highness, the British Government shall give in exchange lands of equal value, calculated, on both sides, on the present gross revenue.

2nd.—That, in lieu of all tributes and perquisites now derived by the Maharajah from the lands to be transferred by His Highness, the British Government shall for the future pay to the Maharajah from the British Treasury at Gwalior an equivalent in Company's Rupees, calculated at the average rate of batta which has prevailed during the last six months.

3rd.—That each government shall respect the conditions of existing leases until their expiry, and that, in order that this may be made clear to all concerned, each government shall give to its new subjects leases for the same terms of years, and on the same conditions as those which they at present enjoy.

4th.—That each government shall give to its new subjects "Sunnuds" in perpetuity, for the rent-free lands, the jaghires, the perquisites, and the hereditary claims (i.e., "Huks" and "Wuttuns") which they enjoy at present under the other government.

ARTICLE 4.

On the same terms and conditions as those specified in the foregoing Article, the Maharajah Sindia transfers to the British Government the whole of His Highness' present rights and interests in both lands and perquisites in the districts of

2nd.—Kandeish.

3rd.—Poonah.

4th.—Sattara.

5th.—Sholapoor.

6th.—Pergannah Beri in zillahs Agra and Muttra.

7th.—His jaghire in zillah Ajmere.

The hereditary Kusba and Dhakilla villages named below are especially excluded from the above transfer, and will remain, as hitherto, in the possession of the Maharajah, and continue with His Highness on the same terms as heretofore—

Names of villages.

1. Kusba Sirigonda, including Velso and Bhingaon.

2. Village Jangaon.

3. „ Pepulgaon.

4. Village Ghosepooree.

5. „ Deoolgaon.

6. „ Kunnari Khair.

7. „ Kusla Patua.

ARTICLE 5.

On the terms and conditions specified in Article 3, the British Government transfers to the Maharajah Sindia, in full sovereignty, the city and fort of Jhansi and lands in their vicinity and on the Pahooj, equal in value to those transferred by the Maharajah under Articles 3 and 4.

ARTICLE 6.

When the calculations based upon the above conditions shall have been completed, the two governments will exchange “letters of transfer” for all the districts which are included in the above propositions, and it is mutually agreed that this exchange of “letters of transfer” shall on no account be delayed beyond 1st May 1861, and that each government shall enjoy the rubbee kist now on the ground.

ARTICLE 7.

On the completion of the above arrangements the Maharajah Sindia will transfer to the British Government the full sovereignty of all the Assigned Districts which shall then remain in its possession.

ARTICLE 8.

With reference to Article 7, the British Government engages to keep, in the place of the late contingent force, a “subsidiary force” constantly stationed within His Highness the Maharajah's territories, the whole expense of which shall not be less than (16) sixteen lakhs of Company's Rupees per annum.

ARTICLE 9.

The military force of all arms hereafter to be maintained by His Highness shall at no time exceed—

Artillery	36 guns with 360 gunners.
Infantry	5,000 drilled soldiers.
Cavalry	6,000 sowars.

This Treaty, consisting of ten Articles, signed by Colonel Sir Richmond Campbell Shakespear, K.T. and C.B., on the part of His Excellency the Right Honourable Charles John Earl Canning, G.C.B., Viceroy and Governor-General of India, and by Jugdeo Rao Mohurkur and Balajee Chimnaje on the part of Maharajah Ali Jah Jyaje Rao Sindia Bahadoor, shall be ratified, and the ratification shall be exchanged at Benares within ten days of the date of signature.

TRANSLATION of a KHUREETA from the MAHARAJAH SINDIA to the GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S AGENT FOR CENTRAL INDIA, dated 9th August 1861.

AFTER COMPLIMENTS,—States that Article 4 of the Treaty of 12th December 1860 secured His Highness the continued possession, as heretofore, of seven villages and two muzrahs in Jamgaon in the Deccan, but His Highness, consequent on the increased friendship between the two governments, and for their mutual benefit, has now consented to the transfer to the British Government in exchange, of these his hereditary villages, as above; and has received equivalents for them on the Pahooj: he therefore requests him (the Governor-General's Agent) to apply to His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General of India in Council, to cancel that part of Article 4 of the said Treaty which refers to the villages in question.

TRANSLATION of a KHUREETA from the AGENT, GOVERNOR-GENERAL, FOR CENTRAL INDIA, to HIS HIGHNESS THE MAHARAJAH SINDIA, dated 14th October 1861.

AFTER COMPLIMENTS,—I have submitted to His Excellency the Viceroy Your Highness' khureeta to me of date 9th August 1861, and I am directed to inform you that your request has been acceded to, that that part of Article 4 of the Treaty of 12th December 1860, which specially reserved to Your Highness the seven hereditary villages and two muzrahs in Jamgaon in the Deccan, may be cancelled, Your Highness having received equivalents for them on the Pahooj.

2. The Governor-General has decided that the best mode of complying with your Highness' request will be to append to the copy of the Treaty, which is in Calcutta, and to the copy which is with your Highness, copies of Your Highness' khureeta to me, and this my reply with the English translation of each of them in the margin. I therefore forward the above-mentioned papers which I beg Your Highness will direct to be appended to the Treaty of 12th December 1860.

ENGAGEMENT executed by MAHARAJAH ALI JAH JYAJEE RAO SINDIA under Article 7 of the TREATY of 12th December 1860, transferring to the British Government the full sovereignty of the districts assigned for the maintenance of the Gwalior Contingent in 1844, remaining with the said Government on the completion of the territorial exchange arrangements provided for by the above named Treaty.

Whereas under Articles 2 and 3 of the Treaty, dated 13th January 1844, between Maharajah Ali Jah Jyajee Rao Sindia and the British Government, certain districts and receipts enumerated and described in Schedule A. appended to the said Treaty, and of which a copy is appended to this deed, were assigned for the maintenance of the Gwalior Contingent:

And whereas certain of these districts, or portions thereof, as detailed in Schedule B. appended hereto, have recently been restored to Maharajah Sindia under the operation of Articles 2 and 5 of the Treaty dated 12th December 1860, subsequently entered into between His Highness and the British Government, and the said Maharajah has engaged by Article 7 of the latter Treaty on the completion of the arrangements provided for therein, to transfer to the British Government the full sovereignty of all the Assigned Districts which shall then remain in its possession :

And whereas the arrangements so provided for have now been completed, and the Assigned Districts and receipts described in Schedule C. appended hereto, remain in the possession of the British Government :

Therefore Maharajah Ali Jah Jyajee Rao Sindia hereby transfers to the British Government the full sovereignty of the districts so enumerated in Schedule C., viz.—

And whereas it is desirable to cede to the Gwalior State lands yielding a land revenue to that amount;

And whereas for reasons of State and for the advantage of both contracting parties, it is desirable to effect certain exchanges of territory between the contracting parties:

This Treaty, consisting of six Articles, has been concluded by Major-General Henry D. TRANSLATION of a KHUREETA from HIS HIGHNESS MAHARAJAH SINDIA, K.S.I., to the address of HIS EXCELLENCY the RIGHT HONORABLE SIR JOHN LAWRENCE, G.C.B., K.S.I., VICEROY and GOVERNOR-GENERAL of INDIA, dated 29th March 1864.

AFTER THE USUAL COMPLIMENTS.—Your friend has become aware that Your Excellency would wish to continue the occupation of the fortress of Gwalior by a British garrison in the event of the maintenance of the Morar cantonment as the Head Quarters of the subsidiary force, and that, with reference to intimation given to your sincere friend by Lords Canning and Elgin, the late Viceroy and Governor-General, that the fort should be made over to your affectionate friend, notwithstanding these assurances, it is the free wish of my heart, and I hereby convey my written and formal consent to the occupation of the fort of Gwalior by British troops as long as the Government of India may deem such to be advisable on the condition that my flag continues to fly from the ramparts, and I am saluted from its guns according to established custom.

That should the Government of India at any time and for any reason or cause decide on withdrawing the garrison of British troops, in such case the fort would be occupied by myself in such force as is deemed sufficient for its security.

That with reference to this subject, I have requested Major Meade, Agent, Governor-General, and Major Hutchinson, the Political Agent, to submit certain requests to Your Excellency, which I hope may meet with favorable consideration.

May I always be considered a well-wisher, and occasionally be favored with accounts of Your Excellency's welfare.

TO THE MAHARAJAH OF GWALIOR.

MY HONORED AND VALUED FRIEND,—I have received with pleasure your Highness's friendly letter, dated 29th March 1864, conveying, on certain conditions, your written and formal consent to the occupation of the fort of Gwalior by British troops as long as the Government of India may deem such to be advisable.

I agree to these conditions, viz., 1st, that Your Highness's flag shall continue to fly from the ramparts of the fort, and that your Highness will be saluted from its guns according to established custom; 2nd, that if the Government of India should at any time and for any reason or cause decide on withdrawing the garrison of British troops from the fort, in such case the fort will be occupied by Your Highness's troops in such force as may be deemed sufficient for its security.

In consideration of Your Highness having consented to the above arrangement and of the friendship which the British Government entertains for you, I, provided it be decided to retain the British troops at Morar, will agree to modify the ninth Article of the Treaty concluded with Your Highness on 12th December 1860, so far as to increase the number of guns which Your Highness is permitted to possess, from thirty-six (36), which is the number fixed in Article 9 of the above Treaty, to forty-eight (48).

"Cavalry.—Six thousand sowars."

I have directed that two complete 9-pounder batteries shall be given to Your Highness from the Agra Magazine.

ARRANGEMENT made by the BRITISH GOVERNMENT between the GWALIOR and RUTLAM STATES—1890.

Whereas the Gwalior Durbar is desirous of constructing a metalled road between the towns of Runija and Kachhrod of Gwalior District, and whereas a portion of this road extending in length to about 9,000 feet will run through land belonging to the Thakur of Namli, a Jagirdar of the Rutlam State, it is expedient that an arrangement between these two States regarding this portion of the road should be made.

The Governor-General in Council has, with the consent of the States of Gwalior and Rutlam, made the following arrangements:—

I. The Gwalior Durbar shall pay to the Rutlam Durbar a sum of Rupees 4,370 (four thousand three hundred and seventy) English currency on conclusion of the agreement.

II. In consideration of this sum the Gwalior Durbar shall have the right to construct a metalled road in the Rutlam territory to the east of the village of Kamer, extending in length to about 9,000 feet and in breadth 150

III. All metal required for construction of the above-mentioned road, and also for maintenance of the same in after years, may be obtained free of charge from the waste land of the village of Kamer in the vicinity of the road and in Rutlam District.

IV. Metal required for construction and future maintenance of a further piece of the same road in the Gwalior State, extending to a length of about six miles altogether beyond Rutlam State limits, namely, $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of Pachlana to 1 mile north of Kamthana, may be similarly obtained from the quarries mentioned in Article III.

V. The Rutlam Durbar shall not enforce any dues on Gwalior goods, except opium, passing through its territory along the road.

VI. This arrangement shall continue in force as long as the road is required by the Gwalior Durbar, or is considered necessary to be maintained in the interest of the public.

MY HONORED AND VALUED FRIEND,

I have already through my Agent in Central India expressed my sense of your Highness's liberal and enlightened offer to place at the disposal of the Government of India a sum payable in five years, aggregating 150 lakhs of Rupees, for the construction of two lines of railway, one from Gwalior to Agra and the other from Indore to Neemuch.

I have now the pleasure to communicate formally to your Highness the acceptance by the British Government of the loan on the conditions stated in the agreements made with General Daly on 19th November 1872 and 11th January 1873.

I understand also from General Daly that your Highness will provide, free of charge, all the land required for the railways, the stations, buildings, &c., and that no transit duties will be levied on through-traffic; also that no royalty or dues of any kind will be charged by your Highness on materials required for the railways either procured from or in transit through your Highness's territories; that the whole of the arrangements as to construction, equipment and maintenance of the lines, and the management of the lines after they are open, as well as plenary civil and criminal jurisdiction within the lands occupied for railway purposes from the date of the land being made over, are to rest exclusively with the British Government; and that the British Government alone has interest in and the receipt and control of the receipts of the lines.

The proofs which your Highness has given of an earnest desire to extend the advantages of railway communication to your country have afforded me much gratification. The expressions of your heartfelt attachment to the British Government which General Daly has reported to me are fully reciprocated.

I beg to express the high consideration I entertain for your Highness, and to subscribe myself your Highness's sincere friend,

SIMLA,

(Sd.) NORTHBROOK.

No. XXI.

AGREEMENT for the security of the SALT REVENUE of British India, in the event of the ABOLITION of the INLAND CUSTOMS LINE, and for the ABOLITION of SALT DUTIES within the GWALIOR STATE, between the BRITISH GOVERNMENT and HIS HIGHNESS the MAHARAJA JYAJEE RAO SINDIA, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., of GWALIOR, his heirs and successors, executed on the one part by LIEUTENANT-GENERAL SIR HENRY DALY, K.C.B., AGENT to the GOVERNOR-GENERAL for the STATES of CENTRAL INDIA, in virtue of the full powers vested in him by the GOVERNOR-GENERAL of INDIA in COUNCIL, and on the other part by the RAO RAJA SHUMSHERE JUNG SIR GUNPUT RAO KHURKEY, K.C.S.I., DEWAN of GWALIOR, in virtue of full powers conferred upon him by HIS HIGHNESS the MAHARAJA—1878.

ARTICLE I.

His Highness the Maharaja of Gwalior agrees that no new salt-works shall be opened within his State; that no works, except those enumerated in Schedule A attached to this Agreement, shall be permitted to be worked, or to continue in existence, in the said State; and that at no work so enumerated shall a greater quantity of salt be manufactured within any year than double the quantity entered in the said Schedule furnished by His Highness the Maharaja, which Schedule shall be accepted as a register. The aggregate quantity manufactured in any year shall not exceed 54,000 maunds.

ARTICLE 2.

Nothing in the foregoing Article shall be held to prohibit the bond fide manufacture, by His Highness the Maharaja, of saltpetre, rasi, sajji, or other saline products other than edible salt, at any of his works now in use for such manufacture and entered in Schedule B attached to this Agreement; but His Highness the Maharaja agrees that no new works of this description shall henceforth be opened, that no edible salt shall be manufactured at any of those now existing, and that no edible salt shall be permitted to pass out of the refineries.

ARTICLE 3.

His Highness the Maharaja agrees to prevent—

- 1st, the export from the State of Gwalior of any salt therein manufactured;
- 2ndly, the import into, and passage through, the said State of any salt other than salt upon which duty has been levied by the British Government.

ARTICLE 4.

Further, His Highness the Maharaja agrees that no tax, toll, or duty of any kind shall be levied within the State of Gwalior on salt upon which duty has been levied by the British Government.

ARTICLE 5.

If any stocks of salt, other than salt manufactured in the State of Gwalior, be found to exist within the territories of such State on the date on which this Agreement comes into force, His Highness the Maharaja agrees, if so requested by the British Government, to take possession of such stocks, and to give the owners thereof the option of either transferring the salt to the British Government at such equitable valuation as may be fixed by His Highness the Maharaja, in concurrence with the Political Agent, or of paying to the British Government such duty, not exceeding two rupees eight annas per maund, on such salt as the Governor-General in Council may fix. In the event of the owners accepting the latter alternative, they shall be allowed to retain the salt on which the said duty may have been paid, but not otherwise.

ARTICLE 6.

His Highness the Maharaja agrees to prohibit the export from his State of bhang, ganja, spirits, opium, or other intoxicating drug or preparation, by all routes and in all directions heretofore barred by the Inland Customs Line.

ARTICLE 7.

In consideration of the due observance of this Agreement by His Highness the Maharaja, and of his proclaiming throughout his State, free trade and transit for all salt manufactured and excised at British salt-works, the British Government agree to pay to His Highness annually in half-yearly instalments the sum of Rupees three lakhs twelve thousand and five hundred (Rupees 3,12,500). This payment to be made at the Gwalior Treasury.

The mode and date of first payment will be arranged hereafter.

ARTICLE 8.

Returns of the salt-works within the Gwalior State, as enumerated in Schedule A, and their approximate outturn, and of the saltpetre and other works enumerated in Schedule B, shall be furnished annually by His Highness the Maharaja to the Political Agent on dates to be hereafter fixed.

ARTICLE 9.

The British Government reserve to themselves the right of revising the above Articles of Agreement should experience prove that they are insufficient for the protection of the British salt revenue.

ARTICLE 1.

There shall be a mutual exchange of correspondence, parcels, money-orders, and India postal notes, between the Imperial Post Office of British India, hereinafter termed the "Imperial Post," and the post offices in the territories of His Highness the Maharaja of Gwalior, hereinafter termed the "Gwalior State Post." This exchange, which shall also include registered, insured and value-payable articles, shall be governed by the rules given in the Indian Postal Guide for the time being. The term "correspondence" shall include letters, post-cards, newspapers, and book and pattern packets.

ARTICLE 2.

Certain selected post offices in British India and in the Gwalior State shall be placed in postal communication with one another, that is, they shall be authorised to exchange mail-bags containing registered and unregistered correspondence and ordinary parcels, but not insured or value-payable articles or money-orders. Some of these offices shall be constituted offices of exchange on the side of British India and on the side of Gwalior State, and these offices shall be the sole medium of exchange for insured and value-payable articles and money-orders, and shall alone be entrusted with the duty of preparing the accounts resulting from the exchange of money-orders and India postal notes.

ARTICLE 3.

Indian postage stamps over-printed with the words "Gwalior State," and embossed envelopes and inland post-cards over-printed with the words "Gwalior State" and also with the Gwalior arms, shall be supplied on indent by the Government of India to the Gwalior State at cost price. They shall be sold by the Gwalior State to the public at the value marked on each postage stamp, post-card, or embossed envelope.

ARTICLE 4.

These over-printed postage stamps, post-cards, and embossed envelopes shall alone be used in the Gwalior State for the prepayment of inland correspondence, and they shall be recognised by the Imperial Post only for inland correspondence posted in any post office or letter-box (whether belonging to the Imperial Post or the Gwalior State Post) within the limits of the State of Gwalior.

ARTICLE 5.

The rates of postage, fees, or commission charged by the Gwalior State Post on all classes of correspondence, paid and unpaid, registered and unregistered, insured and value-payable, on all parcels, and on all money-orders and on all India postal notes, shall not be in excess of the rates charged by the Imperial Post, calculated at the rate of exchange fixed by the Gwalior Durbar under Article 31.

ARTICLE 6.

Responsibility for articles insured and for payment of compensation under the rules given in the Indian Postal Guide for the time being shall rest with the Imperial Post Office while the articles concerned are in its custody, and with the Gwalior State while the articles concerned are in its custody.

ARTICLE 7.

Neither the Imperial Post Office nor the Gwalior State shall be liable to make good the loss of or damage to any uninsured article while in its custody, but it shall be incumbent on the Imperial Post Office or the Gwalior State to investigate every case of such loss or damage occurring within its jurisdiction. But nothing in this article shall be held to supersede the orders passed by the Supreme Government in Resolution No. 1095, dated 18th July 1866, relating to losses occasioned by highway robbery of Imperial mails within the limits of the Gwalior State, or any future orders of a similar nature which may hereafter be issued by the Government of India.

ARTICLE 8.

Articles of all kinds superscribed "On Postal Service," and franked by the signature and official designation of an officer of the Imperial Post or an officer of the Gwalior State Post, shall be exchanged free of all charge as respects postage.

ARTICLE 10.

Inland correspondence, registered and unregistered, received from the Gwalior State Post addressed to any place in British India, or in any Native State which has entered into a postal convention with the Imperial Post, and fully prepaid with the over-printed postage stamps described in Article 3, shall be delivered free of all charge on account of postage.

ARTICLE 11.

Inland correspondence, received from the Gwalior State Post, addressed to any place in British India, or in any Native State which has entered into a postal convention with the Imperial Post but not fully prepaid with the over-printed postage stamps described in Article 8, shall be treated by the Imperial Post as though originally posted in British India, and taxed by the Imperial Post with the usual rates for inland unpaid postage, which shall be retained by the Imperial Post or the Native State, as the case may be, by which delivery of such unpaid correspondence is effected.

ARTICLE 12.

Fully prepaid inland correspondence, registered and unregistered (including correspondence, prepaid by service stamps), transferred by the Imperial Post, shall be delivered by the Gwalior State Post free of all charge on account of postage.

ARTICLE 13.

On inland correspondence, not fully prepaid, transferred by the Imperial Post for delivery through the Gwalior State Post, the latter shall retain the postage it realises.

ARTICLE 14.

Unclaimed and refused inland correspondence shall be exchanged in both directions, but the exchange shall be accompanied by no accounts.

ARTICLE 15.

Fully prepaid foreign correspondence, addressed to any place in the Gwalior State, shall be delivered by the Gwalior State Post free of all charges on account of postage; but if such correspondence be unpaid or insufficiently paid, it shall be delivered on payment of the amount taxed thereon by the Imperial Post, and the amount so collected shall be remitted to the Imperial Office of Exchange.

ARTICLE 16.

On foreign correspondence posted in the Gwalior State, postage can only be prepaid by means of Imperial postage stamps not bearing the over-print "Gwalior State." Postage stamps over-printed with the words "Gwalior State" shall not be recognised in payment of postage on foreign correspondence.

ARTICLE 21.

Prepayment in cash of postage, at the rates published in the Indian Postal Guide, is compulsory in the case of all foreign parcels posted in the Gwalior State. The postage so collected shall be remitted to the Imperial Office of Exchange.

ARTICLE 22.

The Imperial inland money-order rules, as given in the Indian Postal Guide for the time being, shall be adopted by the Gwalior State Post, and the Imperial inland form of money-order application shall be used.

ARTICLE 23.

Money-orders issued by the Gwalior State Post for payment in British India, or in any Native State which has entered into a convention for the exchange of money-orders with the Imperial Post, shall all be sent by the Gwalior State Office of Exchange to the Imperial Office of Exchange. Such money-orders shall be paid in full, free of all charges and without deduction on any account whatsoever. The entire commission on these money-orders shall be retained by the Gwalior State Post.

ARTICLE 24.

Such money-orders shall be paid in full in the Gwalior State, free of all charges and without deduction on any account whatsoever. The entire commission on these money-orders shall be retained by the Imperial Post.

ARTICLE 25.

India postal notes bearing the words "Gwalior State" stamped on them shall be supplied free by the Government of India to the Gwalior State.

ARTICLE 26.

The full value of every India postal note sold by the Gwalior State Post shall be payable in British India at any Imperial Post Office named, and also in any post office or in any Native State which has entered into a convention for the exchange of postal notes with the Imperial Post, no charge being levied for payment.

ARTICLE 27.

If the balance of this account is in favour of the Gwalior State Post, it shall be paid at once by the Imperial Office of Exchange; and if it is in favour of the Imperial Post, it shall be paid by the Gwalior State Office of Exchange immediately after the monthly account current is rendered.

ARTICLE 31.

Payments in adjustment of the monthly account current between the Imperial Post and the Gwalior State Post shall be made in Imperial currency; but as regards money-order and India postal-note transactions with the public, the Gwalior Durbar shall, whenever necessary, fix the rate of exchange for the conversion of Gwalior currency into Imperial currency, and all payments made to or by the Gwalior State Post on account of money-orders and India postal notes shall be in accordance with the rate so fixed.

No. XXIV.

KHARITA, dated Rangoon, the 24th February 1886, from His EXCELLENCY the VICEROY and GOVERNOR-GENERAL of INDIA to HIS HIGHNESS the MAHARAJA SINDIA.

When I had the pleasure of visiting your capital in December last, I informed Your Highness in public Durbar that Her Majesty's Government had determined to restore to you the fortress of Gwalior and the cantonment of Morar.

The arrangements for the evacuation of the fortress are now complete, and it will shortly be handed over to Your Highness's troops. I therefore take the opportunity of addressing to Your Highness this friendly letter, which will be delivered to you by my Agent in Central India, Sir Lepel Griffin, and will serve as a lasting record of the arrangement lately concluded between Your Highness and the British Government.

Your Highness has agreed that the following conditions shall be attached to the transfer of the fortress and cantonment:—

(1) That Your Highness shall in exchange for the cantonment of Morar make over in full sovereignty to the British Government the town and fort of Jhansi.

(2) That Your Highness shall pay to the British Government 15 lakhs of rupees on account of the cost incurred on the fortifications and buildings in Fortress Gwalior.

(3) That the British garrison at present stationed in the fortress and at Morar shall be withdrawn and maintained at such stations as may appear to the Government of India to be convenient, the obligation to assist Your Highness contained in Article 6 of the Treaty of the 13th of January 1844 remaining in force.

On the other hand I have agreed that Your Highness shall be at liberty to raise, in addition to the infantry force which may be entertained by you under existing treaties and engagements, 3,000 drilled infantry soldiers, on the understanding that the regular cavalry in your service is not increased beyond its present strength of 2,000 men. These conditions are in all respects satisfactory; and it is a source of deep gratification to me that a measure to which Your Highness attached so much importance should have been carried out during my tenure of the office of Viceroy. I trust that Your Highness will not fail to recognise in the restoration of the fortress and cantonment a signal proof of the good-will of the British Government and of their confidence in Your Highness's loyalty to the Crown.

No. XXV.

TO HIS HIGHNESS MUKHTAR-UL-MULK, AZIMUL IKTIDAR, RAFI-USH-SHAN, WALA SHIKOH, MOHTASHAM-I-DAURAN, UMDAT-UL-UMARA, MAHARAJ ADHIRAJ, ALIJAH, HISAM-US-SALTANAT, MAHARAJA MADHO MAHARAJ SINDHIA BAHADUR SHRINATH, MANSUR-I-ZAMAN, FIDVI-I-HAZRAT-I-MALIKA-I-MUAZZAMA-I-RAFI-UD-DARJA-I-INGLISTAN, of GWALIOR.

MY HONORED AND VALUED FRIEND,

In December 1886 the Commissioner of Jhansi and Sardar Santaji Rao Temak, on behalf of the British Government and the Gwalior Durbar, respectively, met to arrange for the late exchanges of territory in the neighbourhood of Jhansi.

The following terms were agreed to by both these trusted officers :—

- (1) The villages to be exchanged are those scheduled in the Commissioner of Jhansi's letter No. 1398, dated 27th February 1886.
- (2) The estimate of the annual value of the villages in list B made by the Commissioner, viz., Rs23,648, falling at 6 annas 4 pies the acre, is accepted.
- (3) The small portion of Tori-ki-Sarai, which is west of the Pahuj, shall be included with the Bhandar villages in list A.
- (4) The annual value of the Tori-ki-Sarai land, west of the Pahuj, shall be completed and added to the annual value of the villages in list A.
- (5) Whatever difference between the annual values of the two tracts shall then remain will be made good by a cash payment of twenty years' purchase.
- (6) The British Government will retain the zemindari rights it has acquired in certain patches of land in villages in list A, and its lien upon lands hypothecated for loans under Act XVI of 1882 : provided that the revenue demand on those lands shall be a first charge on them. Should the Gwalior Government desire to acquire the lands or redeem the lien upon them, the British Government will raise no objection.

- (7) Public buildings shall be transferred by either party, as on former occasions, without payment.
- (8) The Bhandar ferry shall be managed by the Gwalior State.
- (9) The Paran Kothi will remain the property of the British Government, but be reserved for the use of the Durbar officials.

I desire now to receive Your Highness's formal acceptance of these conditions and of the subsequent arrangements which gave effect to them.

Further, Your Highness is aware that in the territory recently transferred to the Gwalior Government, proprietary and other rights of landholders and tenants are involved; and I, therefore, trust that Your Highness will give an assurance that the Gwalior Durbar will adhere to the terms of the land settlement effected by the British Government in the ceded villages, and recognise the rights recorded thereat; and that the Durbar will respect all sanads for jaghirs or rent-free grants within the said villages which had been given or admitted to be valid by English authorities; and further that Your Highness will preserve intact all rights recorded as being in existence at the time of transfer in the revenue records prepared under the orders of the British Government.

I desire to express the high consideration which I entertain for Your Highness, and to subscribe myself

SIMLA,
 The 13th June 1888.

Your Highness's sincere Friend,

Viceroy and Governor-General of India.

After the usual compliments.—Your Excellency's friendly letter, containing nine conditions relating to the exchange of territory in the neighbourhood of Jhansi agreed to in December 1886 by the Commissioner of Jhansi, on the part of the British Government, and Sardar Santaji Rao Temak, on behalf of the Gwalior Durbar, and requesting the formal acceptance by this Durbar of the terms specified therein and of the subsequent arrangements which gave effect to them, and further intimating that in the territory recently transferred to the Gwalior Government proprietary and other rights of landholders and tenants are involved, and therefore expressing a hope that the Gwalior

Durbar will give an assurance that it will adhere to the terms of the Land Settlement effected by the British Government in the ceded villages and recognise the rights recorded thereat, and that it will respect all sanads for jagirs or rent-free grants within the said villages which had been given or admitted to be valid by English authorities, and further that it will preserve intact all rights recorded as being in existence at the time of transfer in the Revenue Records prepared under the orders of the British Government, has been received through Colonel P. No. XXVII.

AGREEMENT relating to the SPECIAL LOAN of three and a half CRORES of RUPEES by the GWALIOR STATE to the BRITISH GOVERNMENT—1887.

1. Chandori rupees and Gwalior rupees to be received at actual value as determined by the usual process of assay at the mints.

The remittances when received at the mint will be melted at the rate of from two lakhs to three lakhs a day, and credit will be given for each day's melting according to its assay value (i.e., one rupee for each 165 grains of pure silver), interest to run from the day of melting.

2. The remittances to be made in Chandori rupees and Gwalior rupees in the proportions determined with reference to facility of coinage, that is, Chandori rupees being inferior and the Gwalior rupees being superior to the standard of Government rupees, so many Gwalior rupees should be sent with each lakh of Chandori rupees that, on the two sets taken together, the standard may be, as nearly as convenient, that of the Government rupee.

3. The remittances to be made from the Gwalior station at the cost of the Government of India, but the silver to remain in the custody of a guard, or other official of the Durbar, until arrival at the Mint, when the number of rupees will be counted as speedily as possible, and receipt given for so many Chandori or Gwalior rupees. Hereafter the Mint officials will premelt, assay, and value the silver according to the usual method, and credit be given to the Durbar according to Article I.

4. The remittances to be made at such times, and in such quantities, as may be determined by the Government of India with reference to the speed at which the Mint operations can be proceeded with. But the Government of India to be bound to receive at the minimum rate of two lakhs a day.

5. Government (Keldar) rupees to be received at full value, subject to the limitation of British Indian law that no rupee shall have lost more than two per cent. of weight. Below two per cent. to be taken (according to the system current in India) at bullion value. Such rupees to be paid into the Agra Treasury, and credit to be given from the date on which they are there received.

6. Interest to be paid to the Durbar at the Agra Treasury in Government rupees half-yearly. The date to be determined by the Government of India.

7. The loan to be repayable in yearly instalments of twelve lakhs of Government rupees, the first such instalment to be due as may be hereafter determined.

8. The whole amount of the loan to be three and a half crores of rupees of the Government of India, and the rate of interest to be four per cent. per annum.

(II).—MEDIATIZED CHIEFS IN THE GWALIOR AGENCY.

These are eight in number, including Khaniadhana which was transferred from the supervision of the Political Agent of Bundelkhand to that of the Resident at Gwalior in 1888. The introductory remarks regarding the Central India States contain also some account of these Mediatized States.

1.—AMJHERA.

This State always paid tribute to the paramount power, first to the Muhammadan Governors of Dhar, and afterwards to the Mahrattas. By an Agreement (No. XXIX) mediated by Sir John Malcolm in 1820, it was arranged that Amjhera should pay a tribute of Rupees 35,000 to Sindhia, who was excluded from all interference in the internal affairs of the State. This tribute was one of the items ceded by the Treaty of 1844 with Sindhia for the payment of the Gwalior Contingent, and it is now paid to the British Government permanently by Sindhia under the Treaty of December 1860.

The Raja of Amjhera rebelled in 1857, and his estate was confiscated. It was decided that Sindhia, and not the British Government, had the claim to the territory. Previous to the mutinies Amjhera contributed Hali Rupees 4,000 to the Malwa Bhil Corps. Sindhia now contributes Hali Rupees 20,000 on account of the Gwalior territory and Amjhera.

The revenues of Amjhera are about two lakhs of rupees, the area is 584 square miles, and the population about 60,000.

2.—PARON OR NARWAR.

Through the mediation of Major J. Stewart, Acting Resident at Gwalior, the pargana of Paron and six villages were granted (No. XXX) to Madho Singh of Narwar in December 1818 under the guarantee of the British Government. The Raja had been deprived of his hereditary possessions in Narwar by Daulat Rao Sindhia, and in retaliation he made frequent raids upon Sindhia's territories. The object of the settlement was to put a stop to his plundering expeditions.

Man Singh, the late Raja, who was a nephew of Madho Singh, joined the rebels during the mutinies, but surrendered in 1859 on condition of a free pardon and a suitable maintenance being granted to him. His former possessions were consequently restored to him under the same conditions as before his rebellion, i.e., under British guarantee. For his subsequent services in connection with the capture of Tantia Topi, a jaghir in perpetuity of the value of Rupees 1,000 per annum was sanctioned for Man Singh, but as no land was available in the North-Western Provinces, where he wished to obtain the grant of a village, he received a cash allowance of Rupees 1,000 a year instead.

Raja Man Singh died on the 31st December 1882, and was succeeded by his son Gajendar Singh, then 14 years of age.

The Gwalior Durbar claimed the right of being consulted in regard to the succession, on the ground that the British guarantee had lapsed in consequence of Man Singh's rebellion and the confiscation of his estate, and also on the grounds of custom and precedent. The Government of India however held that the arrangements made with Man Singh in 1859 had the effect of preserving the British guarantee; and accordingly determined that in the particular case, as the succession was one of direct descent and the legitimacy of Gajendar Singh was not in dispute, the Maharaja was not entitled as of right to be consulted. It was at the same time intimated that, with this understanding, the Government of India would not object to the attendance of a Durbar official at the ceremony of installation.

Gajendar Singh is a descendant of the family of Kachhwaha Ajudhya Rajputs, who were established at Narwar before the Mahratta invasion of Central India. He married in 1884 the daughter of the Chief of Sohawal in Baghelkhand. The annual grant of Rupees 1,000 has been given to him in perpetuity by the British Government.

The estate contains 39 villages, and the Raja's revenue is about Rupees 25,000 a year. The management during the minority was in the charge of a Kamdar under the general supervision of the Political Assistant, Guna, but it has since 1886 been carried on by the Raja himself under the same supervision. The population of the estate was 7,984 according to the census of 1891.

3.—BHADAURA.

The five villages originally constituting this grant (No. XXXI) were made over by Maharaja Daulat Rao Sindhia through the mediation of the British Resident to Raja Man Singh in 1820, on condition that Man Singh would put a stop to the depredations committed by one Sohan Singh Girasia, and would prevent theft. The grant comprised the quit-rent holding of villages yielding at that time an annual revenue of Rupees 2,300, half of which the Raja was to keep for himself, the other half being paid to Sindhia. The family are Sisodiya Rajputs, and held most of their present possessions before the Mahrattas came into Central India.

Man Singh was succeeded by Mohan Singh, who died in 1876, leaving as his successor Madan Singh. Madan Singh died in 1882, when his only son Madho Singh, the present Raja, then six years of age, was acknowledged by the British Government as his successor.

The estate consists at present of ten villages, and yields a revenue of about Rupees 7,000. It was managed during Madho Singh's minority by a Kamdar under the general supervision of the Political Assistant, Guna. Madho Singh was installed in 1886 with the sanction of the Government of India. The population of the estate is 3,111 according to the census of 1891.

The succession to the Chiefship was, in the cases of Mohan Singh and Madan Singh, recognised by the British Government without reference to the Gwalior Durbar, the relation of the estate to Sindhia being marked only by the presence of the Gwalior Vakil at the installation ceremony. The Gwalior Durbar has never interfered in the affairs of the estate, and boundary disputes between Bhadaura and Gwalior have always been determined by British officers.

Besides the villages originally granted by Sindhia, this estate includes the village of Bhadaura, which was granted by the Emperor Shah Jahan to the Umri family in A.D. 1634, and made over by them to the family of the present holders; and also the Rai Baisi granted by Raja Chhatar Singh of Narwar in A.D. 1731.

4.—KATHAUN.

This grant (No. XXXII) of three villages, yielding annually Rupees 4,000, was made to Thakurs Bhim Singh, Pirthi Singh Ramchandrar, and Chandarbhan in 1825, through the mediation of the British Resident at Sindhia's Durbar, on condition that they would serve the Government faithfully and protect the high road. The estate is now in the hands of Thakur Hargayan Singh, who succeeded in 1883 at the age of 18.

Its area is about 5 square miles, with a population of about 8,000 and a yearly revenue of about Rupees 7,000.

5.—SIRSI.

Maharaja Daulat Rao Sindhia at first granted three-fourths of the revenue of the taluka of Sirsi to Bharat Sah in 1820, on condition that he would pay into the Gwalior Treasury the remaining one-fourth, and honestly discharge the duties entrusted to him by reducing the Girasias and others to obedience. In 1837 a fresh Sanad (No. XXXIII) was granted to Dewan Hindu Singh of Sirsi by Maharaja Jankoji Rao Sindhia, by which the payment of one-fourth of the revenue of the district to the Durbar, in accordance with the terms of the sanad of 1820, was remitted with certain conditions, and the Dewan agreed to provide thirty sowars and seventy footmen when required without pay for the first three months, but the Durbar has since dispensed with the fulfilment of this condition. The grant is guaranteed by the British Government.

Hindu Singh was succeeded by Bikramajit, who died in 1872, when the succession of his son Bijai Bahadur, then seven years of age, was recognised. The management of the jaghir, which yields about Rupees 4,000 annually, was entrusted to a Kamdar under the superintendence of the Political Assistant, Guna. Dewan Bijai Singh, who was weak mentally and physically, died in March 1891, leaving no sons. He had been entrusted with the management of his estate in 1886.

The succession of his younger brother, Kunwar Mihrban Singh, aged about 20, was sanctioned by the Government of India. He was also direct heir of the late Chief, being a lineal descendant of the original grantee. No nazarana was taken on this occasion either by the Government of India or by the Gwalior Darbar. The population according to the census of 1891 is 4,679.

6.—RAGHUGARH.

The Chauhan Rajputs of Raghugarh are known by the name of Khichi, and are one of the oldest families in Malwa. In 1780 Madhoji Sindhia stripped the family of their possessions and imprisoned the Raja, Balwant Singh, and his son Jai Singh. From that time there was perpetual feud between Sindhia and the Khichi clan, it being the object of the latter to devastate Raghugarh and to make it an unprofitable possession, until Sindhia should be compelled to restore it to the family. Jai Singh maintained the war with Sindhia till 1818 when he died, leaving his title to be disputed by two claimants, Dhaukal Singh and Ajit Singh. With these claimants a Settlement

(No. XXXIV) was made in 1819 through the mediation and under the guarantee of the British Government, by which Sindhia gave them the fort and town of Raghugarh and lands in their vicinity, supposed to yield an annual revenue of Rupees 1,42,848-8, with a provision that any revenue derived from these lands which exceeded Rupees 55,000 should be paid to the Gwalior Government, who, on their part, were to make good any deficiency. One hundred of the dependants of the Khichi family were also enrolled in the Gwalior Contingent in 1823. The jaghir never yielded so much as Rupees 55,000, and the result of the above plan was that an annual balance was shown against Sindhia, which was advanced to the Khichis from the British treasury. Up to 1828 the Durbar paid these balances, but thereafter they demurred on the grounds that if the jaghir were properly managed it would yield more than Rupees 55,000, and that the Khichis realised more revenue than was credited in the accounts.

The matter was complicated by disputes in the family, and at last in 1843, with the consent and by the mediation of the British Government, it was arranged that the original agreement should be replaced by separate engagements with the three principal members of the family—Bijai Singh, Thakur Chhatarsal, and Ajit Singh. The Durbar on granting these fresh sanads stipulated for the payment of a nazarana of Rupees 20,000, to which Bijai Singh and Chhatarsal consented.

Garha.—A Sanad (No. XXXV) was accordingly granted to Bijai Singh by which he received 52 villages (having now an estimated revenue of Rupees 12,000) selected from the Khichiware lands and the right to certain collections specified in the sanad, on the understanding that he would continue to serve the Government as he had done up to that date, abstain from creating disturbances, not encourage robbers committing crimes in the territories of the British Government and Gwalior State, afford no protection to criminals, and establish police posts in his districts for the protection of travellers.

Bijai Singh died in 1880, and his son Balbhadar Singh, then 13 years of age, was recognised by the British Government as his successor. The jaghir, which is known as the Garba estate, was managed during the minority by the Dewan under the general superintendence of the Political Assistant, Guna. Balbhadar Singh was installed on the gadi in January, 1886, with the sanction of the Government of India. The population of the estate is 10,854 according to the census of 1891.

Dharnaunda.—Chhatarsal also received a sanad similar to the one granted to the Garha Chief, by which he was given, on the same conditions, 32 villages yielding Rupees 9,000. Chhatarsal was succeeded by Mangal Singh and he by Bharat Singh, who died in 1877, when his son Bhim Singh, then 18 years of age, was recognised as the Thakur of Dharnaunda.

Raghugarh.—A sanad similar to the two last mentioned was offered to Ajit Singh on condition that he relinquished his turbulent habits, abstained from plundering, and paid up the arrears of debt which he owed to the Gwalior Durbar; but he showed himself so faithless and advanced claims so impracticable and absurd that all negotiations with him were suspended, and it was contemplated at one time to employ the Gwalior Contingent to reduce him to submission.

Ajit Singh was succeeded in 1857 by Jaimandal Singh, the present Chief. The estate consists of 120 out of the 204 villages originally granted to his family. They are not held under any sanad but merely on the strength of the original Agreement (No. XXXIV).

The revenue is about Rupees 25,000 and the population 18,148 by the census of 1891. The estate has been much hampered by the large dowry which was given with the Raja's daughter on her marriage with the Chief of Baroda (Sheopur) in 1875.

7.—SHEOPUR-BARODA.

The ruling family of Sheopur-Baroda are Gor Rajputs. Raja Radhika Das, who succeeded his father Kishore Singh, died in 1827, and was succeeded by his son Balwant Singh, who died in 1865. Balwant Singh was succeeded by his son Bijai Singh, the present Chief.

The Chiefship was conquered by the Mahrattas about 1809, but some portion was retained by Raja Radhika Das till 1820, when he was confirmed in the possession of 23 villages by a grant from Daulat Rao Sindhia (No. XXXVI).

In 1830 Balwant Singh received a grant of 12 villages from Jankuji Rao Sindhia under guarantee (Nos. XXXVII to XL). In 1857 the whole estate was confiscated for rebellion, but was restored in 1859 through the mediation of the Resident (No. XLI).

Note.—It is not very clear what occurred exactly. The Chief claims that after 1809 he still retained 23 villages by force of arms, and ignores the grant of 1820. Had this been the case, the kaubliyat would not have been executed. The wording of it shows, however, that Radhika Das had been able to maintain some rights in Baroda.

The revenue of Baroda is about Rupees 50,000; and the population is estimated at 20,000. The area is said to be 158 square miles.

8.—KHANIADHANA.

Although owing allegiance to the British Government from the time of the Peshwa's cession of his sovereign power in Bundelkhand in 1817, the Chief of this State never executed any written engagement till the year 1862, when it was considered expedient to embody the terms of his allegiance in a Sanad (No. XLII) before granting him the privilege of adoption, which was conceded in 1862 (No. XLIII).

The jaghir of Khaniadhana originally formed part of the Orchha State, having been granted by Udat Singh to his younger brother Aman Singh about the year 1703 A.D. After the dismemberment of the Orchha State by the Mahrattas, the Peshwa granted a sanad for the jaghir to Amir Singh Aharwali in 1751. Thereafter the sovereignty over Khaniadhana was for many years the subject of dispute between the Mahratta State of Jhansi and Orchha, and after the lapse of Jhansi the British Government inherited the dispute. The jaghirdar indeed claimed absolute independence, both of the British Government and of Orchha; but in 1862 it was decided that, like the Hasht-Bhaya jaghirs (see Bundelkhand in Vol. V), the jaghir of Khaniadhana was directly dependent on the British Government, on the grounds that it had undoubtedly formed a part of the Mahratta conquests in Bundelkhand, and had been granted to Amir Singh by the Peshwa to whose rights the British Government had succeeded, and that for half a century at least Orchha had exercised no sovereign rights or jurisdiction whatever in Khaniadhana.

Raja Guman Singh, who succeeded his father in June 1863, executed a Deed of allegiance (No. XLIV). He died in 1869 and was succeeded by his son Chhatar Singh, then a boy seven years of age. During his minority the State was managed by the widow of the late jaghirdar, aided by the old officials of the State. Chhatar Singh was invested with full powers in 1885. Nazaranas are taken by the British Government at the rate of a quarter of a year's net revenue on direct succession and half a year's net revenue on succession by adoption.

At the Delhi Assemblage (1877) Chhatar Singh received the title of Raja as a personal distinction.

The Khaniadhana State was transferred from the control of the Political Agent in Bundelkhand to that of the Resident in Gwalior in the early part of 1888.

In October 1888 the Chief ceded (No. XLV) full jurisdiction short of sovereign rights in the land which he had agreed in 1884 to give in the Khaniadhana jaghir for the Jhansi-Bhopal section of the present Indian Midland Railway. As the circumstances of the jaghir were deemed exceptional, compensation to the amount of Rupees 8,353-10-9 was paid in 1890 for the lands so acquired. It was at the same time intimated that this payment must be treated as a special case, and not as forming a precedent.

The area of Khaniadhana is 84 square miles; the population 14,871 by the census of 1891; and the revenues are about Rupees 22,000. There is a military force of 1 gun, 2 gunners, 7 cavalry, and 100 infantry.

No. XXIX.

THE AGREEMENT of ROWJEE SAE AJEET SING JEE, RAJA of AMJHERRA, mediated by MAJOR-GENERAL SIR JOHN MALCOLM BAHADUR—1820.

I allow on the part of myself, my descendants, and the servants of the State that the long established tribute of the district when it was formerly flourishing was Halee Sicca Rupees 35,000, and that sum used to be paid to His Highness Dowlut Rao Sindia's Government. But latterly anarchy and confusion have almost ruined my district, and the Circar having benevolently considered its consequent decrease of revenue has settled that tribute, agreeably to the following detail, shall be paid to the jaghirdar of His Highness Dowlut Rao Sindia, Jye Sing Rao Ghatkee Sirjee Rao, or to whomever His Highness may order, being at a rate corresponding with the expected improvement of my district, viz.—

" " 1878	.	.	.	"	24,000
" " 1879	.	.	.	"	26,000
" " 1880	.	.	.	"	28,000
" " 1881	.	.	.	"	30,000
" " 1882	.	.	.	"	32,000
" " 1883	.	.	.	"	34,000
" " 1884	.	.	.	"	35,000

The country improving, the above sums will be yearly given. The Rupees are Halee Siccas, the accustomed percentage shall be allowed between the currency and the Salim Sahi Rupees. For and after the year 1885 Sumbut the full tribute of Rupees 35,000 to be given regularly. The tribute to be paid in two equal kists, half in Maugh Sood Poonum, half in Jeyt Sood Poonum, being old established usage, and likewise each year's tribute detailed above to be paid in two kists and in the same proportions. If the whole or any part of a kist is not paid when due, one and a half month law to be given, and at the expiration of that time I agree to the Circar's appropriating to itself lands or villages whose revenues are equal to the deficient sums, the revenue of such seized lands or villages to be afterwards credited to the tribute and to that kist for whose deficiency they have been taken; such lands or villages shall never be claimed by me or my descendants. It would be wrong to do so. But no persons, horsemen or karkoons, belonging to the Government of His Highness Dowlut Rao Sindia to be jaghirdar or any kamaisdar shall be allowed to remain in my district.

25th October 1820.

On the part of MAHARAJA DOWLUT RAO SINDIA BAHADOOR on the subject of tribute of the AMJHERRA DISTRICT, JEY SING RAO GHATKEE SIRJEE RAO being Jaghirdar.

Through the medium of Major-General Sir John Malcolm, Jey Sing has written on behalf of himself and his descendants that I and my servants, whoever they may be, shall in no way interfere with the family concerns of the Rajah, the conduct of his Government, or in the affairs of his district: we shall dispute on no such points.

The Circar in its goodness, considering the deteriorated state of the district, has settled the tribute as follows in details:—

	Halee Rupees.
For the year 1877 Sumbut	22,000
" 1878 "	24,000
" 1879 "	26,000
" 1880 "	28,000
" 1881 "	30,000
" 1882 "	32,000
" 1883 "	34,000
" 1884 "	35,000

This is the tribute to be paid annually as detailed for these eight years in Halee Siccas, and for 1885 of the Sumbut, and ever afterwards, the full established tribute of Rupees 35,000 shall be paid.

The tribute to be paid in two equal kists, as has obtained from time immemorial, one in Maugh Sood Poonum, the other in Jeyt Sood Poonum; besides this we shall demand no other money, whether for military or any other expenses. If I do so I shall act incorrectly, and moreover none of my troops or horse or karkoons shall remain in the district of Amjhera.

25th October 1820.

TRANSLATION.

Be it known from HIS HIGHNESS MAHARAJA JUNKOJEE RAO SCINDIA ALIJAH to DEWAN HINDOO SING DHUNDERA, of SIRSEE—1837.

Your petition has been received. You say that you have received Taluka Sirsee under a Sunnud, which specifies that the grant was made for service, and requires that an account of the revenue thereof be rendered annually; that three-fourths of the yearly receipts be retained by you, and one-fourth paid to the State; that you are responsible for peace being kept amongst Grassias and other (offenders); and that failure in the conditions of the grant would lead to its being forfeited. You represent that the estate is worth only Rupees 4,000 and no more, and beg that, as the State had consented to not receiving the fourth part of the receipts up to this time, the same indulgence may be continued for the future; that the estate having been granted for service independently of the one-fourth demanded, you were prepared to do service and to pay without fail the fourth of the income on the whole amount should it be more than Rupees 4,000 (per annum).

That 30 horse and 70 footmen will be ready to serve wherever ordered, getting no allowances for the first three months of service. That you would not misbehave in any way and would not take part with, but deliver up all, thieves, freebooters, murderers, and dacoits, whether of your estate or others coming there from the Durbar or foreign territory. That you would co-operate with Durbar troops acting against disturbers of the peace, thieves, and other offenders, and that you would be responsible for the payment of compensation for robberies proved (to have occurred) within your State.

Enquiry will be made as to the jumma of Talooka Sirsee. The fourth part will not be demanded from it up to Rupees 4,000. In case of its exceeding that amount the said part will be taken on the whole jumma. Come to do service whenever called to do so. Keep down thieves, disturbers of the peace, and murderers as promised; be loyal to the State, and act up to your other obligations as above stated. If you fail to do so, the estate will not be suffered to continue in your possession. Raise no objections to the continuance of the sayer chowkee stationed of old within your estate. Dated 14th Sawun Budee, Sumbut 1894.

BIJEY SING JEE JOG.

Lalla Mohunlool, your vakeel, has made a petition at Gwalior to the following effect :—

In Sumbut 1877, or Sun Ishera Meatein, the Government granted two hundred and four villages, yielding a revenue of one lakh forty-two thousand eight hundred and forty-eight and a half rupees, situated in the vicinity of Ragoogurh, to the Kheechee Chiefs as the means of supporting themselves and their families. After this a karkoon on the part of the Sircar, accompanied by a mootasuddee on the part of the British Government, measured the lands and fixed their value; fifty-two villages, yielding a revenue of Rupees 15,000, were selected and allotted to us. With the exception of the barra sayar we were granted all the duties hitherto carried to the credit of Government under the head of chota sayar, the bazar collections, and the duties levied on the sale of cattle: I now earnestly beg that new Sanads from the present year may be granted to us.

In compliance with this application the Sircar has granted you a new Sanad for the fifty-two villages, yielding a revenue of Rupees 15,000 which were selected from the Kheechee lands, yielding a revenue of one lakh forty-two thousand eight hundred and forty-eight and a half rupees, situated in the vicinity of Ragoogurh, granted in Summut 1877, or Sun Ishera Meatein, the revenues of which were estimated by a karkoon and a mootasuddee on the part of the British Government. The fifty-two villages yielding a revenue of Rupees 15,000 with the right to the chota sayar duties, and those levied on the sale of cattle formerly carried to the credit of Government, have been conferred again upon the Raja.

TRANSLATION of KABULIAT, given to MAHARAJA DOWLAT RAO SINDHIA by RAJAH RADHIKA DAS of SHEOPUR BARODA, acknowledging the grant of twenty-three villages, dated 1st Cheyt, Sudi Samvat 1887.—1820.

To Shri Maharajahdhiraj Shri Maharajah Shri Alijah Bahadur Subadarji Shri Dowlat Raoji Sindhia.

From Shri Raja Radhika Dasji.

After usual compliments.—The following Kalambandi has been executed to the Sarkar.

1. Sheopur town and its Pargana came into the possession of Sarkar, while Baroda and other villages continued in our possession. These were, however, not sufficient for our maintenance, I, therefore, came to the Sarkar and represented that the maintenance was insufficient and asked that arrangements might be made. Thereupon the Sarkar kindly granted Baroda and other villages, both Asali and Dakhili, numbering twenty-three in all, for the maintenance of self, brethren, and Kamdar, and I accepted them with pleasure. Upon the revenues of these villages I and my brethren will try to maintain ourselves, and serve the Sarkar, when required, and will not entertain other thoughts.

Whereas I had made common cause with the faithless troops called "Sahebzada" and created disturbances in the Sheopur Pargana, and collected rent, both in cash and in kind, from every village, and taken money from the Mukasdar of Shri Sarkar at Sheopur to satisfy the Sahebzada troops, I have therefore assigned the revenue of the villages to the Mukasdar of Sheopur towards the satisfaction of that expenditure, and have also come and asked the Sarkar to forgive the offence I had committed in having collected troops, and created disturbances, and realized rent in cash and in kind, and on this the Sarkar, having considered our prayer, has kindly forgiven us. We will act agreeably to the orders of the Sarkar, and if we show any backwardness, we bind ourselves to repay the money and grain with interest.

The Sarkar has kindly granted twenty-three villages, including Baroda and others, for the maintenance of myself, brethren, and Kamdar. We, my brethren and the Kamdar, will try and maintain ourselves upon the revenues of these villages and serve the Sarkar when required. If we create disturbances, lay waste any land, or cause loss in Sheopur town or in Sheopur pargana, the Sarkar may confiscate the land it has granted. If any of our brethren create any disturbance we engage ourselves to satisfy them.

If any person creates a disturbance in the Sheopur fortress, or in the Sheopur pargana, we will, with our force, side with the Kamashdar and serve the Sarkar.

Formerly John Baptiste and his lady agreed to grant us thirty-one villages and a ikrarnama (deed) was executed to that effect. This deed is now to be considered null and void. The Sarkar has now kindly given us twenty-three villages—Baroda and others, including Asali and Dakhili, which we accept. The following is the detail of the villages.*

The above five articles executed with the Sarkar are correct. We will conform to what is written, and will not dispute it.

TRANSLATION of KABULIYAT, given to MAHARAJAH JANKUJI RAO SINDHIA, by RAJAH BALWANT SINGH of SHEOPUR BARODA, dated KARTIK SUDI, 1st Samvat 1887—1830.

From Shri Rajah Balwant Singhji,

To Shri Maharajahdhiraj Shri Maharajah Shri Alijah Bahadurji Subadar Shri Jankuji Rao Sindhia.

After compliments.—Whereas twenty-three villages of Baroda, etc., in pargana Sheopur had been assigned for the maintenance of my deceased father, Rajah Radhika Dasji, and his brethren, after the pargana of Sheopur had been taken possession of by the Sarkar, and whereas a kabuliyat had been given to the Sarkar by my predecessor, on the Cheyt Sudi Ekam Samvat 1877, to which I agree. But as, however, the grant was insufficient for our maintenance, I therefore represented the matter to Major Stewart, Resident of the English Government at Gwalior. At his intercession the Sarkar has kindly made an additional grant of twelve villages from the pargana of Sheopur, at present yielding a revenue of rupees 7,000 for our maintenance, with effect from Samvat 1887. I have accepted this. Now I and my brethren and others will try to maintain ourselves from the revenues of the twenty-three villages given us previously and twelve villages granted us now—total 35 villages, and will serve the Darbar faithfully. None of the brethren, etc., are to create a disturbance in the fortress or in the pargana. If anybody so acts we engage to satisfy him, but if he does not listen, we will not claim right of inheritance to the land assigned by the Sarkar for maintenance.

We engage not to make a further demand beyond the grant now made by the Sarkar. Therefore this kabuliyat is written and is correct. If any miscreant will attempt any disturbance of peace in the fortress of Sheopur or pargana, we engage to side with the Mukasdar, and take severe notice of his conduct.

The Sarkar has granted us twelve villages, of the estimated revenue of ten thousand rupees, but at present yielding rupees 7,000 only. We engage to improve their capabilities, so as to raise the rent to that amount.

TRANSLATION of a KHAT from the CHIEF of KANNYADHANA, dated 26th October 1888.

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your khat of 20th instant, being a reply to one from me dated 16th idem, and requesting that the transfer to Government of civil and criminal jurisdiction over the Kannyadhana land taken up for the Jhansi and Bhopal Railway may be communicated in few words, and with reference thereto beg to state that I hereby make over to the Imperial Government civil and criminal jurisdiction over the land in Kannyadhana ceded for the railway.

II.—INDORE AGENCY.

(I)—INDORE.

THE Holkar family who rule at Indore are Sudras of the Dhangar or shepherd caste. The first of the Holkar family who rose to eminence was Malhar Rao who was born about the end of the 17th century, and was one of the most distinguished leaders in the first Mahratta invasion of Northern India. He died at the age of 76 and was succeeded by his grandson Mali Rao, who died insane nine months after his accession. The pious Ahalya Bai, the mother of Mali Rao, then took the management of affairs and appointed as the commander of her army Tukaji Holkar, who belonged to the same caste, but was in no way related to Malhar Rao. For many years he served Ahalya Bai with the most devoted fidelity. Ahalya Bai died in 1795 and was not long survived by Tukaji Rao, after whose death the power of the house of Holkar was nearly extinguished by quarrels in the family and by the dissensions which distracted the Mahratta confederacy at the close of last century.

The fortunes of the family, however, were restored by Jaswant Rao an illegitimate son of Tukaji Holkar, who in 1802 defeated the united forces of Sindhia and the Peshwa near Poona. The conclusion of the treaty of Bassein, by which the subordination of the Peshwa to the British Government was firmly established, defeated Jaswant Rao's hopes of possessing himself of the person of the Peshwa. In the following year, 1803, when Sindhia and the Raja of Berar combined against the British, Holkar promised to join the confederacy. But on the actual outbreak of hostilities he kept aloof and apparently intended to take advantage of the war to aggrandise himself at Sindhia's expense. His schemes were, however, rendered hopeless by the peace with Sindhia which ensued upon the conclusion of the treaty of Sarji Anjangaon; and Holkar, after making a series of inadmissible proposals for an alliance, seems then to have hastily determined unaided and alone to provoke hostilities with the British. In the war which followed Holkar was completely overthrown. He was pursued by Lord Lake across the Sutlej, whither he had retired in the hopes of forming a combination with the Sikhs against the British Government, and on 24th December 1805 he signed a Treaty (No. XLVI) on the banks of the Beas, by which he was stripped of a large portion of his territories.

The accession of Lord Cornwallis marked a change in the policy of the British Government, and it was considered expedient to withdraw from the connection formed with some of the minor Rajas in the conquered provinces to the west of the Jumna. Sir George Barlow was guided by the same policy notwithstanding the remonstrances of Lord Lake, who not only considered that the British Government was pledged to respect its engagements with these Chiefs, but also that the alliance with them interposed a strong barrier against the future encroachments of the Mahrattas. In pursuance of his policy, however, Sir George Barlow caused a declaratory article to be added in February 1806 to the treaty of December 1805 relinquishing to Holkar the districts of Tonk, Rampura, and other districts forming the ancient possessions of the Holkar family, which at one time it had been the intention of Government to cede to Sindhia in lieu of the annual grant of four lakhs of rupees assigned under the treaty of 1805 (No. VI Article 7) to that Chief. By Article 4 of the treaty with Holkar the district of Kunch in Bundelkhand was assigned as a life-grant to Bhima Bai Sahiba, daughter of Jaswant Rao Holkar. This lady died in November 1858, and the district of Kunch then reverted to the British Government. A pension of Rupees 20,000 a year was assigned for life to her grandson Govind Rao Bolia for the support of the old retainers of the family; but as Govind Rao did not devote this money to the purpose for which it was intended, the grant was resumed and the retainers pensioned for life by the British Government.

Soon after the conclusion of the treaty of 1805 Jaswant Rao Holkar became insane. He died in 1811 leaving a son Malhar Rao, during whose minority the State was torn by the most violent dissensions. Tulsa Bai, the favourite concubine of the late ruler, secured herself in the Regency. In entering on the Pindari war it was the policy of the Marquess of Hastings to put a stop to the predatory system by a revival of the political alliances which had been abandoned in 1805. The weakness of Holkar, which formed an excuse for connivance at Pindari depredations, necessitated the intervention of the British to restore his Government and to subdue his mutinous army. Proposals for an alliance were on the point of being offered when Tulsa Bai secretly expressed a desire to place the young Holkar and his government under the protection of the British power.

While negotiations were pending, however, information was received of the probable outbreak of hostilities with the Peshwa, and a hostile bearing was immediately assumed by Holkar's Darbar. It is probable that Tula

Bai would have concluded the alliance with the British, but a sudden revolution was effected by the mutinous army, the Regent was seized and barbarously murdered, and the Pathan Chiefs who headed the military faction, having pledged themselves to adopt the cause of Baji Rao, broke off the negotiations. Holkar's army sustained a complete defeat at Mahidpur, and on the 6th January 1818 the Treaty of Mandsaur (Mundisore) was concluded (No. XLVII), by which the Mahratta supremacy over many of the Rajput Chiefs, including Udaipur and Jaipur, was transferred to the British Government; the engagement between the British Government and Amir Khan was confirmed; four districts rented by Zalim Singh of Kota were ceded to him; Holkar lost all his possessions within and to the south of the Satpura hills; and his remaining territories came under the protection of the British Government. By Article 6 of the treaty Holkar transferred the fort of Sindwa to the British Government. But it was restored in 1856 in consideration of a payment of Rupees 16,000 for the construction of a bridge over the Gohi Nadi, and on the conditions that no alteration would be made in the existing customs duties on the Agra and Bombay road, and that the residents of Sindwa were not allowed to suffer by the transfer of the fort to Holkar.

The anarchy and confusion which prevailed in Holkar's territories previous to the conclusion of the treaty of Mandsaur had completely ruined the finances of the country. Tantia Jogh, Holkar's minister, set himself zealously to effect their recovery. Occasional loans were made to him by the British Government on the security of the Kunch jagir and the Partabgarh tribute, by which means the minister was enabled to discharge the arrears of the disbanded troops and other pressing demands. Of the troops retained a portion was set apart for the formation of the Mahidpur Contingent, others were sent into the districts, and only a select body of about 500 cavalry was retained at the capital, together with a sufficient force of infantry.

Two insurrections broke out in the year 1819 which added greatly to the difficulties of the minister's situation and served to retard the settlement of the country. One was occasioned by an impostor personating Malhar Rao Holkar, and the other by the pretensions of Hari Rao Holkar, cousin of the Maharaja. The impostor, whose real name was Krishna Kunwar, assembled a considerable force to the west of the Chambal, and kept the field for some months, supported by a body of Arab and Makrani mercenaries from the Guzarat border; but he was at length encountered by the Mahidpur Contingent, and his party broken and dispersed. He then fled to Kota, and being recognised by an agent of Holkar's government at that place, he was seized and brought to Indore where he was kept in confinement for some time, but he was ultimately pardoned and set at liberty on account of his youth and his being a mere instrument in the hands of others. The insurrection of Hari Rao Holkar was less formidable; for soon becoming sensible of the folly of his enterprise he relinquished it and threw himself on the generosity of his young cousin, who, it is said, was disposed to pardon him but was dissuaded from his purpose by Tantia Jogh, who deemed it imprudent that he should be left at liberty to disturb the peace of the country. He was accordingly kept under confinement.

Serious disturbances broke out on the Rampura frontier in 1821, fomented by the Thakur of Bhatkheri and others, which were not finally quelled until the beginning of the following year and after the employment of the contingent under the guidance of a British officer. The results of the operations were that the Bhatkheri Chief's misconduct was punished by the sequestration of that portion of his jagir which he held under Holkar's government; that Bhairur Singh, another of the leading insurgents, delivered himself up under the promise of subsistence; and that Ajit Singh, the Chief of the band of Sondhia plunderers, was sent with some of his companions to Sondhwara for a year's close confinement. Again towards the end of 1822 it became necessary to employ a detachment of British troops for the reduction of the fort of Barkhera, in which a body of insurgents had assembled and were committing various excesses in the neighbouring districts.

In 1826 an Agreement (No. XLVIII) was made with Holkar, Dhar, Dewas, and other States in Malwa securing to the British Government the exclusive right to purchase opium grown in Malwa, but as the result of this arrangement was unsatisfactory the monopoly was abandoned in 1829 and a transit duty was levied instead upon the opium in its passage through the British territories to the sea coast. The extent of poppy cultivation has greatly increased since the abandonment of the monopoly.

In the month of June 1829 the Begu Thakur, a feudatory of Udaipur, took possession of Holkar's district of Nandwas. The invader was expelled by a body of Holkar's troops, but the Thakur about a year after the first aggression again seized the same district, and was again driven off by Holkar's troops and the contingent. The Udaipur State was held responsible for the Thakur's aggression, and a demand of Rupees 24,000 in payment of the expenses incurred by Holkar in repelling the first attack was made upon the Maharana. This compensation was not paid until eight years had elapsed after the occurrences for which it was claimed. For the loss and expenses incurred by the second aggression of the Thakur no compensation was ever obtained to the dissatisfaction of the Indore Darbar.

Malhar Rao Holkar died in October 1833 at the age of twenty-eight. He left no issue, but his widow and his mother adopted a child who was said to be of the same caste and lineage as Malhar Rao. The British Government made no objection to this adoption, but at the same time did not bind itself to support the arrangement if it should appear to be illegal or subversive of the rights of any other party or contrary to the wishes of the majority of the Chiefs and followers of the Holkar State. It was acknowledged simply as the spontaneous and unopposed act of the government of Indore, in which the people seemingly acquiesced. The child, between three and four years of age, was publicly installed on 17th January 1834 under the title of Martand Rao Holkar. The adoption of Martand Rao, however, proved to be a device of the mother of Malhar Rao Holkar for the purpose of keeping the power in her own hands during a long minority. It was not indeed acceptable to the people who were in favour of the succession of Hari Rao Holkar, of whom mention has been already made. Hari Rao had been thrown into prison by his cousin in 1819 for rebellion, and been ever since kept in rigorous confinement. He was released on the night of the 2nd February 1834 by a powerful body of his partisans, and received a ready welcome from the troops and people. The policy of non-interference prevented the Resident* from giving active support to Martand Rao, although his installation had been acknowledged by the British Government. Serious disturbances followed. The wealthy merchants fled from Indore, trade was suspended, and the marauding Bhil tribes infested the roads and plundered many villages. As Hari Rao evidently had the popular voice on his side, and it was necessary to put a stop to the anarchy which prevailed, it was decided to support him, and he was eventually escorted into Indore by a detachment of the contingent under command of a British officer and was formally installed on the 17th April 1834. Martand Rao was banished from the country and granted an allowance of Rupees 500 a month on condition of his resigning all claims to the succession.

Note.*—No separate Political Officer is attached to the Indore State. Its affairs as well as those of the two branches of Dewas and of the mediatized estates in the Indore Agency, are under the immediate political supervision and control of the Agent to the Governor-General for Central India, who has his head-quarters at Indore.

The long imprisonment of Hari Rao had unfitted him for government. The management of affairs was left in the hands of his minister Rewaji Phansia, whose oppressive and unpopular measures revived the hopes of Martand Rao's party. On 8th September 1835 an attack was made on the palace for the purpose of assassinating the Maharaja and his minister. The attempt was unsuccessful, and resulted in the slaughter of the whole of the assailants.

At this juncture Hari Rao applied to the British Government for aid, but it was refused on the ground that the engagement to maintain the internal tranquillity of the country depended on the condition that the measures of its government were not directly or indirectly the cause of disturbance, and because the grant of assistance would require a continual interference in the internal affairs of the State, inconsistent alike with the position of Holkar and the policy of the British Government.

In 1841 the Maharaja adopted as his heir and successor Khandi Rao, a boy of thirteen years of age, distantly related to the ruling family. Hari Rao died on 24th October 1843 at the age of forty-eight. Warned by the evils which resulted from the policy pursued on the accession of Martand Rao, the British Government took immediate measures to proclaim Khandi Rao as the acknowledged successor to the gadi and to make it known that no other claims would be recognised. Khandi Rao died on 17th February 1844. He was never married, and there was no lineal heir to the State and no person who had a legitimate right to adopt.

The nomination of a successor was therefore declared to rest exclusively with the British Government, and the Resident, Sir R. Hamilton, was instructed to make the selection in such a way as to show that it was manifestly the sole act of the British Government. The mother of Hari Rao Holkar, who was greatly respected by the people and had been associated with the Resident in the administration before Khandi Rao's death, pleaded the claims of Martand Rao, but Government refused to select him, and intimated their intention of nominating the younger son of Bhao Holkar if he should be found on enquiry to be the most eligible. The Resident thereupon declared in full Darbar the desire of the British Government to perpetuate the State of Holkar by the selection of a successor from amongst those eligible to such distinction; that the Mah Sahiba had pointed out the younger son of Bhao Holkar as a fit successor; and that the Governor-General, having a great respect for the Mah Sahiba, had determined to place him on the gadi. Three days thereafter, without waiting for instructions, the Resident installed the boy with all the formality of a hereditary Chief. For this serious departure from his instructions the Resident was severely censured and informed that by his proceedings an opportunity had been lost to Government of marking an important line of policy. In a letter, dated 9th November 1844, to the young Chief the Governor-General explained the conditions on which the State was conferred on him. This letter (No. XLIX) was declared to have the force of a Sanad, and the Maharaja was required to present a nazar of 101 gold mohars on its delivery.

Martand Rao Holkar died without issue at Poona on 2nd June 1849, and with his death ended the intrigues which from time to time endangered the peace of the country during the rule both of Hari Rao Holkar and his successor.

Tukaji Rao Holkar attained his majority in 1852, and was entrusted with the entire management of the affairs of the State.

Previous to the mutinies of 1857 Holkar contributed Rupees 1,11,214 annually to the United Malwa Contingent, and Rupees 7,862 to the Malwa Bhil Corps. The Malwa Contingent proved faithless during the mutinies and was pronounced extinct in February 1858. No new corps has been organised in its place, its duties being performed by troops of the line. The British Government contributes Rupees 9,828 annually to the Malwa Bhil Corps.

An offer was made to Holkar in 1860 to make good the expenditure incurred by him in supplying the place of a portion of the Mahidpur Contingent which had mutinied in 1857, and the Agent to the Governor-General was directed to give credit to the Indore State for this in settling the accounts of the Maharaja's contribution towards the maintenance of the Malwa Contingent. Holkar at first declined the offer on the ground that he was bound to assist the Government, but three years later preferred a claim for compensation on account of the whole of the expenditure incurred by him in entertaining extra levies during the mutiny, amounting to Rupees 3,06,992-8-3. This claim was admitted without question and paid by annual instalments equal to the amount of tribute annually due by him.

In recognition of Holkar's services in the mutiny, he was permitted to capitalise his contributions towards the Mahidpur Contingent and the Malwa Bhil Corps, and in 1865 he signed an Agreement (No. L) to pay a sum of Rupees 23,81,520 on this account in ten years by half-yearly instalments of Rupees 1,19,076.

An annual payment of Rupees 30,000 is made to Holkar by the British Government as compensation for his share of the district of Patan which was made over in 1818 to Bundi.* The Maharaja also receives through the British Government a tribute of Salim Shahi Rupees 72,700 on account of Partabgarh,† but he has no supremacy over that State. Previous to the commutation of his payments he received credit for this tribute as part of his contribution towards the Malwa Contingent; it is realised from Partabgarh one year in arrears. He further receives through the Central India Agency the yearly tribute of Rupees 85,000 (Salim Shahi) from the mediatized State of Narsingarh in the Bhopal Agency. But this tribute gives him no other rights of supremacy over the Narsingarh State.‡

In 1864 Holkar agreed (LI) to cede free of charge all lands required specially for railway purposes; to compensate owners for land and buildings taken up by the line; to give full civil and criminal jurisdiction over this land to the British Government; and to remit all transit duties on through traffic. Certain conditions regarding the surrender of Indore subjects within railway limits were at the same time agreed to by the British Government. These conditions were embodied in the same Memorandum (No. LI).

In 1869 Holkar offered a loan of a crore of rupees to the British Government for the construction of a railway from Khandwa to Indore. The offer was accepted and the terms of the loan were finally settled in the following year by a formal Agreement (No. LII). Holkar wished to levy royalties on the materials used for the construction of the railway, but as the imposition of these dues was not in accordance with Article 11 of the Agreement, Government was unable to consent to the proposal. The management of the line on behalf of Government was made over to the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway Company in January 1885.

In 1872 Holkar was required to relinquish the manufacture of arms in his own territory and their importation from abroad, on the ground that the accumulation of arms of precision and cannon in the Indore arsenals could not be justified for the purpose of internal safety or by the necessity of external defence.

In 1861 the Government of India, deeming it advisable to make Holkar's possessions and its own more compact, had authorised Sir Richmond Shakespear, Agent to the Governor-General in Central India, to institute negotiations for an exchange of territories with this object. Holkar agreed to cede a number of scattered villages in the Deccan and five in the North-Western Provinces for lands of equal value in the districts of Satwas-Nimawar and Nimar. The actual transfer of the lands was finally concluded in 1868, but the adjustment of the accounts in connection with the exchanges was not finally settled till 1881, when a Kharita (No. LIII) was sent to Holkar by the Government of India, intimating the conclusion of the negotiations and their approval of the arrangements that had been made. An account of these is given in the memorandum by Sir Henry Daly, forwarded to the Maharaja with the Kharita. The pargana of Barwai in Nimar, which contains valuable forests and iron mines, was included in the lands transferred to Holkar on the condition that he abolished all transit duties on the trunk road between Indore and Khandwa. For the iron works which had been established at Barwai Holkar paid Rupees 50,000 in 1868.

By Article 6 of the treaty of Mandsaur concluded in 1818, Holkar had ceded to the British Government all his territories and claims of every description whatever within and south of the Satpura range of hills, but no exact demarcation of boundary was attempted till 1864, and its final settlement was only concluded in April 1873. In 1877 as an act of grace and to commemorate the assumption by Her Majesty of the title of Empress of India, it was determined to make over to Holkar a portion of this territory, comprising an area of 360 square miles on the Satpura frontier of the district of Khandesh.

In 1878 a Postal Convention (No. LIV) was made with Holkar to facilitate the interchange of correspondence between the Imperial Post and the Indore State Post.

In 1880 the British Government, having acquired a virtual salt monopoly, by the purchase of the salt sources of Rajputana, addressed the several States of Central India in which salt was not produced, proposing to them the abolition of the duties which they levied on salt passing through their territories, and offering at the same time to compensate them for any loss which their revenues might suffer in consequence. Holkar consented (No. LV) to these proposals in 1881, on condition of receiving as compensation for his concession 45,000 maunds of salt annually from the British Government, to be delivered by them at Indore on payment of Rupees 2-12-0 per maund, the selling price of salt at Indore being then over five rupees per maund. This compensation represented four times the amount of revenue which Holkar had derived from the abolished duties. Similar agreements were concluded with other States, and it soon became clear that, in consequence of an increased consumption, Government was in a position to reduce its own tax on salt. The price of salt consequently fell, and Holkar complained that the value of the compensation made to him in kind had been seriously affected and asked that it might be paid in cash. Both the justice and the propriety of the claim were questionable, but the Government of India conceded his request, and accordingly a supplementary Agreement (No. LVI) was concluded on 12th December 1883, under which the State receives Rupees 61,875 per annum in lieu of the original payment in kind.

In 1891 the Indore Darbar agreed to cede, on the same terms as those arranged in 1864 (vide supra), all land required for a new railway to be constructed by the Gwalior State from Ujjain to Bhopal via Tarana (Indore). Shahjahanpur, Shujawalpur, and Sehore (see Gwalior), as well as the land required for a line to be carried from Ratlam to Godhra through the States of Indore, Sailana, and Jhabua. The first of these lines is now being surveyed, and the second is being rapidly constructed (1892).

There is no special extradition agreement with Indore. As in the case of Gwalior the procedure is governed by the provisions of the Extradition Act and rules framed thereunder.

Tukaji Rao Holkar died at Indore on the 17th June 1886. In 1862 he was granted a Sanad (No. LVII) guaranteeing to him the right of adoption. In 1861 he was created a Knight Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India; and at the Delhi Assemblage, on the 1st January 1877, he was made a Councillor of the Empress, and, as Councillor of the Empress, a Companion of the Order of the Indian Empire.

He left two sons, the elder of whom, Shivaji Rao Holkar, who was born on the 12th November 1859, succeeded him. He was created, in 1887, a Knight Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India. He visited England in 1887 on the occasion of the Jubilee of the Queen-Empress. His younger brother died in July 1890.

The population of Holkar's territories is 1,099,990 souls according to the census of 1891. The area is 8,400 square miles. The revenue of the State from all sources is estimated at about seventy-six lakhs of rupees. In 1890 the military establishment of the State consisted (including irregulars) of 6,128 infantry, 2,231 cavalry, 5 batteries artillery, and about 50 guns in addition; also 741 gunners. Of these forces, 500 cavalry have been placed at the disposal of the Government of India for Imperial service. The Chief's ordinary salute is 19 guns, and the present Maharaja has a local salute of 21 guns within his own territory.

(II)—DEWAS.

[SENIOR AND JUNIOR BRANCHES.]

The relations of the British Government with the States of Dewas may conveniently be described here, not that these States are next in importance in Central India to Indore, but because their geographical position and the fact that they are under the immediate supervision of the Agent to the Governor-General, bring them for political purposes into close connection with the group of the Indore Treaty and Mediatized States.

Dewas, as at present constituted, consists of two branches, known as the Senior and the Junior Branch. They form, to all intents and purposes, two perfectly distinct States, although for certain administrative objects they work in co-operation.

The Chiefs of both branches are equal in rank, power, and authority. The first Chiefs were two brothers, Tukaji and Jiwaji, who came with the first Peshwa, Baji Rao, into Malwa, and on the division of that province they obtained possession of Dewas, Sarangpur, and several other districts, yielding a nominal revenue of Rupees 2,42,900, but subject to a yearly payment of Rupees 26,000 to several Girasia Chiefs. To their revenue was added an assignment of the tribute of certain districts to the amount of Rupees 78,922, and at a later date the province of Hamirpur in Bundelkhand yielding Rupees 75,000 a year, as well as the district of Kandoba in the Doab.

For thirty years before the British occupation of Malwa, the Chiefs of Dewas had been plundered and oppressed by Siudhia, Holkar, and the Pindari Chiefs, and were deprived of most of the tributary payments, as well as of Hamirpur, Kandoba, and other districts; but in 1818 the two Chiefs then in possession, Tukaji, the grandson of the Chief of the same name, and Anand Rao, his cousin, the adopted son of the grandson of Jiwaji, both of whom are mentioned before, were by Treaty (No. LVIII) taken under British protection.

By Article 7 of this treaty the two Chiefs agreed to "act by an union of authority and to administer their affairs through one public minister;"

by degrees this union has been relaxed ; the territories granted in common were divided in 1841 ; and, as remarked above, the two Branches are now virtually separate States with distinct lands, revenue, and administration. The last matter determined in this connection was the apportionment between the two States of jurisdiction in the city of Dewas and in the town of Sarangpur. The latter arrangement was completed in 1889.

In 1828 the Chiefs of Dewas made over to the administrative charge of the British Government (No. LIX) the pargana of Bagod, an outlying district in Nimar which they could not efficiently control. The pargana has been placed, for administrative purposes, within the limits of the Bhopawar Political Agency, and is immediately under the Political Agent's supervision. The annual surplus revenue of the pargana, after payment of all charges of administration, is paid to the Chiefs of Dewas. A survey and settlement of the pargana was commenced in 1890.

By the treaty of 1818 the Dewas State was required to provide a contingent of 50 horse and 50 foot, to be doubled when the revenues improved. In 1827 the contingent was raised to 75 horse and 200 foot, which, with Holkar's contingent of 400 horse, formed the Eastern Malwa Contingent. On the amalgamation of the Eastern and Western Malwa Contingents the obligation to supply a quota of troops was commuted to an annual contribution of Rupees 33,022-2-0. This sum is now (1892) the only military contribution paid by the Dewas State and is equally divided between the two Chiefs.

In 1864 the Chiefs of Dewas agreed (Nos. LX and LXI) to make over free of cost to the British Government lands that might be required for railway purposes ; to allow compensation for private property taken up ; to cede full jurisdiction short of sovereign rights ; and to remit all transit and other duties on goods passing by rail through their territory. The line of railway has not as yet been carried through any portion of Dewas territory, and these concessions have consequently not been utilised hitherto. But in 1890 both States agreed to cede free of cost all land required for a new line to be constructed from Ujjain in Gwalior to Bhopal, passing in part through their territory (see Gwalior). This line is now (1892) being surveyed.

In 1881 both Chiefs agreed (No. LXII) to remit all transit duties on salt passing through their territories ; and to compensate them for the loss thereby incurred Government engaged to deliver at Indore to each Chief one hundred maunds of salt free of cost. But when the payment in cash to Holkar was substituted in 1883 for the payment in kind, it was considered advisable to put all the Chiefs in Central India on the same footing, and accordingly a supplementary article (No. LXIII) was added to the original agreement, by which it was stipulated that the Government should pay to each of the Dewas Chiefs a sum of Rupees 412-8-0 annually in lieu of the original compensation in kind.

In 1885 the Chiefs of both branches abolished all transit duties within their territories with the exception of the duty on opium.

In 1862 the Chiefs of Dewas received Sanads (No. LXIV) guaranteeing to them the right of adoption. They had both rendered good service during the mutinies of 1857.

The Dewas Darbars have large powers of jurisdiction on the criminal side, but their proceedings in heinous cases are submitted to the Political authorities.

DEWAS.

[SENIOR BRANCH.]

Tukaji Puar, one of the Chiefs who was taken under British protection in 1818, was succeeded in 1824 by his adopted son Rukmangad Rao, commonly known as Khasia Sahib.

He died in 1860, and his adopted son, Kishnaji Rao, then about 23 years of age, was recognised as his successor. Kishnaji Rao married a daughter of Sindhia.

From the time Kishnaji Rao took charge of his State his affairs began to fall into disorder and his debts increased annually; he attempted to remedy matters by making over the management of affairs to his adoptive mother, but her administration was not successful. The debts rose to ten lakhs of rupees, and in 1875 it became necessary to place the State under a Native Superintendent and to assign a suitable allowance to the Chief. In March 1881 the greater portion of the debts of the State having been paid off, and the Chief having given proofs of improvement, he was permitted to associate himself in the work of the administration with the Superintendent, Rao Bahadur Tantia Gore, whose designation was altered to that of Diwan.

Tantia Gore resigned his post in 1883, and Pandit Sarup Narayan was appointed to succeed him. Under his administration many salutary reforms were introduced and the debts of the State were gradually liquidated. Sarup Narayan retired in 1885, and an arrangement was made under which Rao Raja Sir Dinkar Rao, K.C.S.I., endeavoured to manage the State through the Raja. Sir Dinkar Rao relinquished the task in June 1886, and there was no alternative but to revert to the form of administration sanctioned by the Government of India in 1881. Vishnu Keshav Kunte was accordingly appointed as Superintendent, with control of the administration subject to the immediate supervision of the First Assistant of the Agent to the Governor-General at Indore. His position was similar to that held by Tantia Gore in 1881. The first object was to free the State from debt, and this had been nearly accomplished by the end of 1891.

The revenue of the State is about $3\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs of Rupees; the area 155 square miles; and the population, according to the census of 1891, is 82,389 souls. The State maintains (1890) a military establishment, including irregulars, of 70 horse, 594 foot, 2 guns classed as serviceable, and 13 artillerymen. The Chief receives a salute of 15 guns.

2. DEWAS.

[JUNIOR BRANCH.]

Anand Rao Puar, the Chief of the Junior Branch, adopted in 1837 Haibat Rao by whom he was succeeded. No. XLVIII.

SUBSTANCE of an ENGAGEMENT in Persian between the BRITISH GOVERNMENT and MAHARAJAH HOLKAR'S GOVERNMENT regarding Opium—dated 18th February 1826.

ARTICLE 1.

The British Government engages to take annually from Maharajah Holkar's government 5,000 Surat maunds of pure opium in cakes, each maund consisting of four punseerees and each punseeree weighing 401 Onjein Halee Rupees, or 391 new or 407 old Furrackabad Kuldar Rupees; and to pay for the same at the rate of 30 Furrackabad Kuldar or Onjein Halee Rupees. If a higher price than this should be given for purchases from others, the Maharajah's government shall be entitled to a similar price. The said quantity of opium to be delivered and weighed in all November at the Honourable Company's godowns at Indore or Mahidpore as may be desired by the Company's Opium Agent. Whatever quantities the Opium Agent or his deputies may object to as adulterated, damp, or otherwise faulty, shall not be taken, but pure and prime opium such as the Agent is in the practice of purchasing from the merchants of Malwa shall be taken.

ARTICLE 2.

The British Government will pay the Maharajah's government for the opium as above stipulated in three equal instalments—the first on the 1st January, the second on the 1st of March, and the third as soon as the opium has been delivered and weighed.

ARTICLE 3.

The Maharajah's government engages to confine the cultivation of poppy in his territories within an extent calculated to yield a quantity not exceeding in any year 6,000 Surat maunds of dry opium. Of this produce 5,000 maunds are to be delivered to the British Government, and the remainder to be appropriated by the Maharajah's government for necessary purposes.

ARTICLE 4.

If a diminution should take place in the cultivation of poppy within the Maharajah's territories, or the crops be damaged by inclemency of weather, and the Maharajah's government finds itself in consequence unable to complete the stipulated quantity of 5,000 maunds from the produce of its own territories, and the same should be made clearly manifest to the Company's Opium Agent, in such case, and provided the Opium Agent should be able to make purchases in the Malwa markets at Rupees 30 per punseeree, the Maharajah's government will complete the stipulated quantity by purchases in the markets. But if the Opium Agent should be unable to purchase in the markets at that price, then the Maharajah's government will not be required to make up the deficiency, notwithstanding which the British Government will gratuitously, in consideration of the intimate union subsisting between the two governments, make up to the Maharaja's Government the difference to the full price of 5,000 maunds at Rupees 30 the punseeree as stated in the 1st Article.

ARTICLE 5.

The Maharajah's Government engages to prevent to the best of its power the exportation of opium from his territories not having the sanction of the British authorities, and to confine the sale of opium for internal consumption in his territories to vendors under its license. Any quantities passing in or out that may be stopped of their own motion by the officers and agents of the Maharajah's Government shall be delivered over to the Company's Opium Agent, and the Maharajah's Government shall receive two-thirds of the value of the same rated at Rupees 30 per punseeree, or less in proportion to its quality if of inferior quality. The British authorities moreover shall be at liberty to cause to be stopped and to appropriate any opium herein prohibited which they may discover passing to and fro in the Maharajah's territories, and for all such the Maharajah's Government shall receive one-third of the value rated according to the quality as above stated.

ARTICLE 6.

The British Government being anxious that the Maharajah's government should sustain no loss from this arrangement whether in transit collections or otherwise, but on the contrary being desirous of obliging and benefiting it, agrees to give it at the end of the year in addition to the price of the opium as settled in the first Article a bonus of Rupees five per punseeree on the quantity therein stated, provided it shall have observed faithfully the conditions of this engagement.

ARTICLE 7.

This engagement shall hold good as long as the British Government may deem it expedient to maintain special arrangements for the control of Malwa opium.

This engagement, consisting of seven Articles, is settled at Indore this 18th day of February 1826, A.D., corresponding with the 10th of Rujub 1241 Hegira, and the 11th of Magh Soodee 1882 Sumbut, by Mr. Gerald Wellesley, Resident, &c., on the part of the British Government, and Etul Punt Tantea Jogb, &c., on the part of the Maharaja's Government, and in confirmation thereof counterparts, ratified with the seal and signatures of the Governor-General in Council and the Maharaja, shall be exchanged between the contracting parties.

No. XLIX.

TO HIS HIGHNESS MAHARAJA TOOKAJEE.

After compliments,—Your Highness' letter dated 5th July last has been duly received. In that letter allusion is made to the death of His late Highness Khundee Rao, which had been reported to me by the Resident at Indore, and it is stated that the ceremonies customary on the occasion had been duly performed. Your Highness further remarks that at the conclusion of the period of mourning you had been, by the great kindness of the British Government, installed as successor to the vacant guddee; and Your Highness proceeds to state that it will be your aim and object so to conduct the duties of the office to which you have been called as to promote the welfare and happiness of the people of the Holkar State.

The intelligence of the early death of the late Maharaja was a cause of much grief to me. By that event the guddee of the Holkar State became vacant, there being no one of the Holkar family remaining entitled to succeed to the principality or to adopt an heir to the guddee.

It became therefore necessary for the Governor-General to make an arrangement for the administration of the government of the Holkar principality.

Having an earnest desire to promote the interests of the Chiefs and people of the State, and to preserve the honour and prosperity of the principality, the British Government determined on this occasion to make such an arrangement as would conduce to the accomplishment of these ends and would at the same time, it was believed, be agreeable to the feelings of the remaining members of the family of the late Hurree Rao Holkar and of the Chiefs and nobles of the principality.

Actuated by these motives, I was induced to direct the British Resident at Indore to nominate Your Highness to the occupation of the vacant guddee.

I have every confidence that Your Highness will, to the utmost of your endeavour, administer the duties of the government in which you have been thus installed in a manner befitting your high station, and with a becoming impression of the importance of the interests which will on your coming of age be entrusted to your care.

It is the intention of the British Government in thus bestowing on Your Highness the principality of the Holkar State, that the Chiefship should descend to the heirs male of Your Highness' body lawfully begotten, in due succession, from generation to generation.

Until the period of Your Highness coming of age the affairs of the government will be administered in your behalf, as at present, by a competent Regency acting under the general superintendence, and in all matters of importance the instructions of the British Resident, who will make arrangements for the education of Your Highness during your minority in a manner suitable to Your Highness' future high destinies.

All existing engagements with other Chiefs and States made by the Chiefs of Holkar and in force at the time of the death of the late Maharaja will continue binding on Your Highness and on Your Highness' Government.

No. LIII.

TO HIS HIGHNESS MAHARAJ ADHIRAJ RAJ RAJESHWAR SAWAI TOOKAJEE RAO HOLKAR, BAHADUR, G.C.S.I., C.I.E., INDORE.

MY HONORED AND VALUED FRIEND,

The Agent to the Governor-General in Central India has at length been able to report to me the conclusion of the negotiations for the exchange of territory which have been so long pending between Your Highness and the Government of India.

I have now the pleasure to inform Your Highness that I approve and confirm the transfer to the possession of Your Highness of the 231 villages in Taluka Nimawar, and the 176 villages in the district of Nimar, of which the names, revenues, and other particulars are given in schedules A and B of the memorandum by Lieutenant-General Sir H. Daly enclosed in this letter.

That memorandum correctly summarizes the results of the negotiations, and I feel assured that Your Highness will not fail to perceive, in the constant desire to meet Your Highness' wishes which has been evinced by my predecessors throughout the course of the negotiations, evidence of that friendly spirit which I am confident will ever characterize the relations of the British Government with Your Highness' loyal and distinguished family.

I beg to express the high consideration I entertain for Your Highness, and to subscribe myself

*Dated SIMLA,
The 25th May 1881.* }

Your Highness' sincere friend,
(Sd.) RIPON,
Viceroy and Governor-General of India.

MEMORANDUM OF TERRITORIAL EXCHANGES effected between the GOVERNMENT OF INDIA and HIS HIGHNESS MAHARAJA HOL- KAR, G.C.S.I., from 1861 to 1880.

Whereas the Government of India deemed it advisable to obtain from His Highness Maharaja Holkar, by exchange of territory, the proprietary rights held by His Highness in certain lands in the Deccan, negotiations to effect an exchange of territory were commenced in 1861 by Sir Richmond Shakespear, Agent to the Governor-General for Central India.

2. The lands in which His Highness ceded proprietary rights were—

- 9 villages of Taluka Chandore.
- 6 villages in Poona Collectorate.
- 3 villages in Ahmednagar Collectorate.
- 3 jaghire villages in Ahmednagar Collectorate.
- 1 jaghire village in Khandesh Collectorate.
- 1 jaghire village in Sholapur Collectorate.
- 6 jaghire villages in the Bulandshahar District of the North-Western Provinces.

3. The lands given in exchange in full sovereignty by the Government of India were—

231 villages in Taluka Nimawar, of which were—

Khalsa villages	134
Quit-rent „	55
Rent-free „	42

176 villages in the District of Nimar, of which—

- 113 were villages in Pergunnah Barwai.
- 32 were villages in Pergunnah Dhargaon.
- 30 were villages in Pergunnah Kasrawad.
- 1 Mandlesur.

4. Schedule A attached gives the names of all the villages noted above, together with the revenue as fixed by agreement for each.

5. Schedule B gives the gross and net revenue as finally fixed and agreed to by the contracting parties of the lands given and taken in exchange, as well as the Huqs, cash payments, etc., debitable to each.

6. The following is the detail of the negotiation step by step :—

The Satwas-Nimawar Pergannah was transferred to His Highness Maharaja Holkar on 23rd June 1861. No equivalent in land or cash was received until 31st July 1865 on which (date) the Chandore estate was taken over from Maharaja Holkar.

The Nimar Pergannahs were transferred to the Maharaja on 23rd October 1867, and the Bulandshahar jaghire taken over from His Highness on 27th October 1867.

The Poona * villages were not taken over till the 30th November and 1st, 2nd, and 3rd December 1868, and the Ahmednagar * villages till 29th January and 6th June 1868.

* Wabgaon Estate.

The jaghire villages in the Deccan were taken over in February 1867, January and April 1868, and March and September 1872.

7. The concessions made to the Maharaja in the course of the Satwas-Chandore exchange were as follows :—

I.—In exchange for the proprietary right in nine villages in the Deccan, His Highness received 231 villages in Satwas-Nimawar in perpetuity.

II.—The Government of India accepted the Maharaja's own valuation of Rupees 33,214-15-8 for his nine villages, although this sum was in excess of what he had already agreed to accept, and obviously included several items which the Government of India would be unable to recover.

III.—The district of Satwas-Nimawar was valued at the amount of its land revenue only, the abkari revenue being excluded from the calculation.

The net gain to the Maharaja on this account was Rupees 2,156-10-6 a year.

IV.—The claim to a deduction of Rupees 3,209 from the amount of Holkar's Deshmookhi huqs in commutation of service was waived, and the total amount of these huqs, Rupees 11,410, was credited to the land instead of to the cash account to which they properly belonged.

V.—No interest has been claimed on account of the deferred payment to the Government of India of revenues of Satwas-Nimawar, which, without giving any equivalent, the Maharaja enjoyed from June 1861 to July 1865. The annual land revenue derived from the district by the Government of India before transfer was Rupees 28,872. The revenue for the four years therefore would amount to Rupees 1,15,488, and on this sum several years' interest has been foregone.

VI.—In August 1872 the Government of India yielded to the Maharaja's request to be credited with the sum of Rupees 5,835-15 on account of repairs to Public Works alleged to have been made at his expense in Chandore after the transfer of that estate to the Government of India.

VII.—Finally the capitalization of the Maharaja's annual contribution towards the maintenance of the Mehidpur Contingent and the Malwa Bheel Corps, which it was originally intended should be treated in close connection with the territorial exchanges, was in 1865 carried out separately at a loss to the British Government of rather more than 5½ lakhs of rupees.

8. The corresponding concessions made to the Maharaja in the course of the Wabgaon exchange were as follows:—

I.—In exchange for the proprietary right only in fourteen villages in the Deccan and five villages in the North-Western Provinces, the Maharaja obtained rights of sovereignty over 176 villages in Nimar.

II.—The value of the Maharaja's villages, on his own computation, amounted to Rupees 38,072 a year. The total revenue of the Nimar lands transferred to His Highness was Rupees 47,701.

III.—Abkari revenue was not included in the valuation of Nimar lands.

IV.—The lapsed jaghire of Chota Kasrawad, with a land revenue of Rupees 2,099 a year, was conceded to the Maharaja.

V.—No charge was made to His Highness on account of Government buildings at Mandlesur of the value of Rupees 13,225.

VI.—No interest has been claimed on account of deferred payment to the Government of India of the revenue of villages which the Maharaja did not give up for some time after he received possession of the Nimar Pergannabs. Moreover, the Nimar Pergannabs were handed over to Maharaja Holkar under a light assessment at the expiry of the settlement, and the re-assessment since made has given the Indore Durbar three or four times the revenue which the Government of India received from the districts, and three or four times the value of Holkar's hereditary lands and huqs in the Deccan.

9. As shown in Schedule B, the annual amount due by the Indore
* Government. Durbar on account of excess of land made over is Rupees 5,285-6-4.* This sum will be deducted † Halee. annually from the sum of Rupees 30,000† paid by the Government of India on account of Kesorai

My Vakeel, Ram Rao Narain, forwarded to me your perwannah to his address, dated 19th May 1864, together with the memorandum of four conditions regarding cession of land for Railways. I have learnt all particulars, and am much gratified that a Railway line is going to be brought to this part of the country. In conformity with your wishes, I give my consent to all these conditions, but beg to remark that my State is small, and to express my hope that the British Government, taking into consideration the smallness of its resources, will continue its support and favour as it has done heretofore.

PAPER of CONDITIONS in regard to RAILWAYS in RAJPUTANA.

1st.—That the necessary extent of land, averaging 200 feet in breadth, for the construction of the Railway line, stations and bond fide Railway purposes, shall be given up by the Native State, free of all cost.

2nd.—All necessary compensation, for accruing loss to owners of lands, houses, gardens, etc., in the land ceded, to be defrayed and borne by the Chief of the State out of his own funds, in the manner done by the British Government in regard to the Railway within their own territories.

3rd.—That full jurisdiction in such land, short of sovereignty rights, shall be made over absolutely to the British Government.

4th.—That all transit and other duties on goods passing through shall be surrendered. However duties on goods breaking bulk and being conveyed to and from the Railway may be charged at the usual rates, or according to a fixed tariff to be settled hereafter?

My Vakeel, Gopal Rao Luchmun, has forwarded to me your perwannah, No. 745, dated 19th May last, giving cover to the memorandum of four conditions on which land for Railways is to be ceded.

It has given me much satisfaction to learn that the railroad is to be established in this part of the country. As it is a source of much pleasure to accede to the wishes of the British Government, I hereby give my consent to the four conditions mentioned above.

NOTE.—As to the conditions, see above under No. LX.

ADOPTION SUNNUD granted to the CHIEFS of DEWAS—1862.

Her Majesty being desirous that the governments of the several Princes and Chiefs of India who now govern their own territories should be perpetuated, and that the representation and dignity of their houses should be continued, I hereby, in fulfilment of this desire, convey to you the assurance that, on failure of natural heirs, the adoption by yourself and future rulers of your State of a successor according to Hindu law and to the customs of your race will be recognized and confirmed.

Be assured that nothing shall disturb the engagement thus made to you so long as your house is loyal to the Crown and faithful to the conditions of the treaties, grants, or engagements which record its obligations to the British Government.

A similar Sunnud was granted to the Chief of Dhar.

(III)—MEDIATIZED CHIEFS IN THE INDORE AGENCY.

There are altogether fourteen Mediatized Chiefs in the Indore Agency. Of the sixteen holdings which were described in the earlier editions of this work, four have been now omitted, namely Raghugarh, Kursi Jalaria, Punghat, and Bhoja Kheri, while two more holdings have been added, Uni and Borkhera.* Some further account of the relations of the estate-holders to the British Government will be found in the introductory remarks prefixed to these Narratives.

1. PATHARI.

The Thakur of Pathari receives a tankha of Rupees 4,835 from Dewas under a Settlement (No. LXV) mediated by Captain Borthwick and Sir John Malcolm in 1818. The Thakur, with whom the original engagement was formed, was Mahabat Singh. This tankha is paid direct from the two States of Dewas, and the Thakur is bound not to interfere in its collection in any of their villages. The Thakur also holds a certificate from Mr. Johnston (No. LXVI), Assistant to the Resident at Indore, dated 2nd December 1837, which states that he holds his estate from the Puar Rajas on an istimrar tenure, and that he has been in the habit of referring to the Resident at Indore all questions regarding his tankha dues from Dewas and other places. Zorawar Singh, to whom this certificate was given, was the son of Mahabat Singh. The present Thakur is Bakhtawar Singh, son of Pirthi Singh. He succeeded in October 1887.

The Thakur of Pathari also holds 12 villages† under the Dewas Chiefs at a fixed rent, eight from the senior and four from the junior branch. The latter are regarded as formally guaranteed.

* NOTE.—Of the four Estates of which accounts do not now appear in this Section—

- (1) Raghugarh was confiscated for rebellion in 1857. A branch of the family still holds the Barkhera Estate.
- (2) Kursi Jalaria is described under the titles of Kharsia and Jhalera—No. 13 and No. 14 in the Bhopal Agency (vide infra).
- (3) Punghat has been transferred to the Central Provinces Administration.
- (4) Bhojakheri is mentioned as Barkhera among the Mediatized Chiefs of the Western Malwa Agency.

The precise status of Uni, Borkhera, and other Estates in this Agency has only lately come to light.

Under Dewas (Junior Branch).

9. Rudarwas.
10. Parbatipura.
11. Gopalpura.
12. Hirapur.

The question to whom the Thakur is bound to furnish reports of crime was long in dispute. The Chiefs of Dewas demanded such reports, but the Thakur disputed their right to receive them, and stated that he would furnish them only to the Agent to the Governor-General. In 1887 it was held by the Agent to the Governor-General that, in the guaranteed estate of the Thakur, jurisdiction vests in the Central India Agency to which the Thakur is bound to report; while in villages that are not guaranteed the jurisdiction vests in the Darbar, to which the Thakur should report criminal occurrences within their limits.

The Thakur also receives tankhas of Rupees 2,687 from Sindhia, and Rupees 1,145 from Holkar, for which he holds sanads.

2. BORKHERA or BORKHEDA.

Thakur Amar Singh of Borkhera, in the Dewas State (Junior Branch) receives a yearly tankha of Rupees 484-8-0 from the Dewas State, Senior Branch, and a similar tankha of Rupees 283-4-0 from the Dewas State, Junior Branch. The family holds no sanads authorising these grants, but a parwana dated the 19th November 1818 (No. LXVII), addressed by Sir John Malcolm to Thakur Zalim Singh, grandfather of Amar Singh, the present Thakur, and at that time head of the family, shows that the Thakur then enjoyed certain money payments from the State of Dewas. The amount of the payment as stated above is not entered in the parwana, but has since been ascertained. For the realisation of these dues the Thakur was, under the said parwana, directed to apply to the local revenue officials and not to make exactions from the State villages.

It was decided by the Government of India in 1889 that the parwana of 1818 should be included in this book.

3. BAGLI.*

The Thakur of Bagli is a dependent of Sindhia. Under a Settlement (No. LXVIII) effected by Sir John Malcolm in 1819, Thakur Zalim Singh and his son Bhim Singh received Piplia and eight other villages on a quit-rent of Rupees 5,562 a year, and five other villages on a quit-rent of Rupees 909. The quit-rent for these villages is paid by the Thakur direct to the Gwalior Darbar. The Thakur keeps a vakil in attendance on the Agent to the Governor-General, whose communications he receives direct.

* Malcolm's "Malwa," Nos. 9 to 12 of Schedule No. III.

In October 1864 the Thakur agreed to make over, if necessary, lands for railway purposes, on the terms agreed to by the Dewas Chiefs, as described in the narrative of those States (see Dewas.)

The late Thakur, Subhag Singh, died in June 1866, having adopted Raghunath Singh, a distant relative descended from a common ancestor. Doubts were expressed by Sindhia as to the validity of the adoption, but enquiry showed that it was perfectly genuine. Raghunath Singh was therefore formally recognised as Thakur of Bagli by the British Government on his paying to Sindhia nazarana amounting to one-fourth of the net revenue of the fourteen guaranteed villages. The jama of sixty-nine unguaranteed villages held by the Thakur was raised by Sindhia from Rupees 7,251 to Rupees 10,001. An Agreement (No. LXIX) was also signed by the Thakur in 1870, in which he recorded his obligation to acknowledge Sindhia's superiority and do service accordingly.

The revenue of the Bagli Thakurat is estimated at Rupees 60,000; and its population, in 1891, was 14,675.

4. KARAUDIA.*

To Thakurs Zalim Singh and Hate Singh the following tankhas were guaranteed through the mediation of Major Henley:—

From Sindhia (No. LXX)	. . .	Rupees	700
„ „ (No. LXXI)	. . .	„	2,100
„ „ (No. LXXII)	. . .	„	160
„ Bhopal (No. LXXIII)	. . .	„	401
Total Rupees			3,361

They were bound to render service, and to abstain from levying the tankhas directly from the villages and from the commission of crime.

Umed Singh, son of Zalim Singh, died on 26th October 1880, and was succeeded by his nephew and adopted son Chain Singh, then 16 years of age, who is now in the enjoyment of the tankhas guaranteed to Zalim Singh.

Debi Singh of Arnia, the son of Hate Singh, receives the tankhas guaranteed to his father.

At the expiration of the term of each instalment the Thakurs are furnished with a parwana addressed to the local officials of Sindhia, Holkar, and

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 19 of Schedule No. II.

Bhopal, from the office of the Agent to the Governor-General, to enable them to realise their tankhas. A wakil on the part of the Thakurs remains in attendance on the Agent to the Governor-General at Indore.

In the year 1838 Thakur Zalim Singh and Hate Singh, his brother, obtained from Sindhia, as blood-money, the village of Kheri Rajpura. This village was for some time held conjointly by Chain Singh, the grandson of Zalim Singh, and Khuman Singh, the son of Hate Singh; but disputes arising between them it was ordered by the Agent to the Governor-General that Khuman Singh should undertake the entire management of the village during his lifetime on condition of paying to Chain Singh his share, namely Rupees 350 annually, free of all charges. Khuman Singh is responsible for the payment of all dues, etc., in connection with the village, and it has been determined that on the death of either Khuman Singh or Chain Singh fresh arrangements for the disposal of the property shall be made. The Engagement of 1839 regarding the village of Kheri Rajpura (No. LXXIV) is guaranteed. Chain Singh also holds the village of Karaudia under the Indore Darbar.

The villages of Jamgod and Kheria were given by Sindhia under a sanad dated A.H. 1240, on a quit-rent of Rupees 400, to Zalim Singh and Bhim Singh. Chain Singh now holds Kheria. Jamgod is in the possession of Raghunath Singh (grandson of Bhim Singh) who succeeded his father Unkar Singh on the latter's death in May 1884. Chhatar Singh, brother of Zalim Singh, obtained from Sindhia the village of Razapur on quit-rent; and Tej Singh, another brother, obtained from Sindhia 1,000 bighas of land in the village of Koel Kheri under Ujjain.

5. TONK.

The present Thakur, Nirpat Singh, who was recognised as the successor of his father Balwant Singh in 1869, receives under sanads from Sindhia and Holkar the following tankhas:—

From Sindhia (No. LXXV)	.	.	Rupees 4,457	0
„ Holkar (No. LXXVI)	.	.	„	112 8
Total, Rupees			4,569	8

It has been the practice of the Agent to the Governor-General at Indore to grant the Thakur a parwana to enable him to realise the tankha from Sindhia's local officials.

The Thakur also receives a tankha of Rupees 4,570 from the two Chiefs of Dewas. No sanads for this tankha are produced, but the Thakur holds a letter dated 5th December 1837 (No. LXXVII), from Mr. P. Johnston, Assistant Resident, Indore, relating to the payment.

Nirpat Singh holds under sanads from Sindhia five hundred bighas of land in pargana Tonk, and the village of Murmia in Unchaud pargana at a quit-rent of Rupees 201. He also holds under a sanad from Holkar six bighas of inam land in Indore pargana.

6. PATHARIA.

Bhim Singh, brother of Zalim Singh of Karaudia, obtained the village of Patharia in the pargana of Unchaud from Sambhaji Rao Angria on a quit-rent of Rupees 701 in the year 1839. The engagement (No. LXXVIII) is guaranteed, and the Thakur is bound to render service and to pay the quit-rent in two instalments. The present Thakur is Raghunath Singh, who succeeded his father Unkar Singh in May 1884.

This Thakur also receives a tankha (No. LXXIX) of Rupees 66-8 from Holkar. The family house is situated in Karaudia.

7. UNI.

The ancestor of Thakur Daulat Singh held the villages of Uni, Bharkia, and Tamolia in the Dewas State, Junior Branch. In 1841 Colonel Borthwick, Assistant to Sir John Malcolm, mediated between the Darbar and the Thakur Hindu Singh, grandfather of the present Thakur, an arrangement for the continuance of the estate to the family. It was settled that the Thakur should hold Uni and Bharkia in perpetuity on payment of quit-rents of Rupees 501 and Rupees 401 per annum, respectively, and Tamolia, then assessed at Rupees 451, on a rent subject to increase according to the usage of the pargana.

This settlement proved inoperative as the State was averse to the grant of perpetual leases and the Thakur would accept nothing less than that which his ancestors had enjoyed. On Thakur Hindu Singh's death his son Gopal Singh also declined to accept the villages on any other than quit-rent tenures, and the dispute continued until 1876 when Sir H. Daly, the Agent to the Governor-General in Central India, ruled that the Thakur should be placed in possession of his ancestral village of Uni on istimrari tenure as settled by Colonel Borthwick in 1841, and that the villages of Bharkia and Tamolia should be held by the Thakur on life leases. On Thakur Gopal Singh's death in 1883 the Raja of Dewas resumed Bharkia and Tamolia. Since then the Thakur Daulat Singh has been endeavouring to regain possession of these two villages, and the State has intimated its willingness to lease them to the Thakur at reasonable rents.

8. DHANGAON.*

This settlement was mediated by Major Henley and secured the following grants—

From Sindhia (No. LXXX)	. . .	Rupees 1,484
„ Holkar (No. LXXXI)	. . .	„ 56

The original recipient was Nihal Singh, the father of Makund Singh and grandfather of Hamir Singh, the present Chief. Makund Singh also received from Sindhia a grant of thirty-six villages in Harda and Hindia, subject to a payment of Rupees 1,001. No copy of the engagement is forthcoming; but on the cession of the districts under the treaty of 1860 the tankha became payable to the British Government. Dhangaon is now under the jurisdiction of the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.

9. SINGHANA†

This settlement also was mediated by Major Henley who arranged that the Thakur should receive yearly payments amounting to Rupees 352, vis.—

From Sindhia (see footnote to No. LXXX)	Rupees 240
„ Holkar (see footnote to No. LXXXI)	„ 112

The claim on Sindhia was transferred to the British Government with the Harda district. Only Rupees 56 are now paid as Holkar's share.

Anup Singh, with whom the settlement was made, was succeeded by Bakh-tawar Singh, who died in 1871. He was succeeded by his nephew Daryao Singh, the present Chief, then thirteen years of age.

10. BAI.‡

According to the settlement made by Sir John Malcolm in 1819, it was arranged that Parbat Singh and Raghunath Singh should maintain

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 14 of Schedule No. II, and No. 31 of Schedule No. III.

† Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 15 of Schedule No. II, and No. 32 of Schedule No. III. The amount of tankha given by Malcolm is Rupees 852, but this is probably a misprint.

‡ Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 24 of Schedule No. III.

the security of the Simrol pass, and receive the taxes on merchandise passing through it which were levied in Ahalya Bai's time (No. LXXXII). In conformity with this document the zamindars held 25 bighas of inam land and the village of Karinda on a quit-rent of Rupees 30. But it appears that in lieu of the taxes on merchandise the zamindars now get a cash payment of Rupees 750 and pay to the Indore Darbar an annual sum of Rupees 52-10 on account of sardeshmukhi dues. No documents are forthcoming to show when this new settlement was effected or by whose mediation.

The late Thakur Hari Singh died in 1880 and his widow adopted Manrup Singh, who is the present Thakur.

The settlement of the Teza Tarwi's claim was effected by Sir John Malcolm on 25th January 1819. The Holkar State agreed to entertain in its service seven of the Tarwi's adherents and to give him two villages on rent, subject after the seventh year to a payment of one rupee per bigha, on condition that the Tarwi made no further collections on passengers and goods between Mhow and Jam, and was responsible for the prevention of robberies.

No copy of this engagement is forthcoming, but the Indore Darbar have produced an Engagement (No. LXXXIII) written by Kaisha Paima and Ajha, the nephews of Teza Tarwi, whereby they bind themselves to enter the service of the Darbar and to hold themselves responsible for the protection of the country within certain limits. The Darbar state that for this service they get Rupees 50 a month direct from the Darbar treasury. The circumstances in which the settlement of Sir John Malcolm was modified have not been clearly ascertained.

The present Thakurs are Umeda, Lalchand, and Chitar (1892).

12. DHAORA GANJARA.†

This settlement was effected by Sir John Malcolm and was similar to the above settlement with the Teza Tarwi of Men. No copy of the engagement is forthcoming; but the Indore Darbar Records contain a document (No. LXXXIV) under which Rupees 55 a month are granted as remuneration for the protection of the roads between Simrol Ghat and Sigwar.

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 26 of Schedule No. III.

† Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 27 of Schedule No. III.

The Darbar also state that Maharaja Hari Rao Holkar granted an additional allowance of Rupees 25 a month for some other service to be performed by the recipient, thus making the total cash payment Rupees 80 monthly, exclusive of certain dues levied by the Tarwi from passengers and on merchandise.

The present (1892) Thakurs are Badichand, Bhima, and Somlia, grandsons of Bhima Tarwi; and Lachhman, nephew of Kishna, who died in 1869.

13. KAYATHA.

By an Engagement (Note to No. LXV) mediated by Captain Borthwick in 1818 the Thakur receives Rupees 1,427 a year from the two Chiefs of Dewas. The present Thakur (1892) is Sheodan Singh, son of Durjan Lal.

14. GAGRONI.*

On the decline of the Mughal power in Malwa a Rathor Rajput from Marwar obtained possession of the district of Zirapur Machalpur which he held till the conquest of Malwa by the Mahrattas, when his possessions fell to the share of Holkar. Being dispossessed he commenced plundering the country with such effect that Holkar was compelled to grant him Gagrani and several adjacent villages. With his descendant, Thakur Raghunath Singh, a settlement (No. LXXXV) was mediated in 1820, by which the villages were confirmed to him subject to a payment of Rupees 1,500 a year.

On the death of Raghunath Singh, the legitimacy of his eldest son, Fateh Singh, was disputed. His claims were eventually set aside, and a younger son, Suraj Mal, was recognised. Suraj Mal died on 24th June 1862, leaving no children and without adopting an heir. As there was no legitimate heir of Raghunath Singh living, the Thakurat lapsed to Holkar, who settled on the widow and mother of Suraj Mal an annual allowance of Rupees 1,800 for life. The widow of Suraj Mal died in 1869, leaving a daughter Amarbai, who died in 1871; neither took any allowance from the Darbar, but on the death of Amarbai the Darbar paid her funeral expenses amounting to Rupees 1,020.

You have been from of old in the receipt of tunkha and bhet from the pergunnah, but the mehal has been plundered by the Soubahs and others of Sindia and Holkar, and the revenue thereof has decreased. The following are the villages from which grass tunkha, bhet, etc., used to be paid to you yearly during the time of the late Kirkerdeh Khundoo Scindeh, Sirboh Gungajee Punt Aba, and Ramchunder Mahadeo Naik Parauchpeh, viz.—

Be it known to the present and future amlahs, chowdherees, and canoon-goes of pergunnah Ashta that as Thakoor Zalim Sing and Hutteh Sing used to receive from of old a maintenance from the aforesaid pergunnah, the Circar was pleased to sanction the continuance of the undermentioned amount for their maintenance to be paid through the amlahs of the above pergunnah in three instalments year after year, from 1227 Fuslee, and that in order to enable the said Thakoor to receive the money, a Sunnud bearing my seal and signature, and dated 8th Rujjub in the 13th year of my reign, corresponding with 1226 Fuslee, was granted to Thakoor Zalim Sing through Captain William Bayley. TRANSLATION of a DEED of SETTLEMENT executed by MULHAR RAO HOLKAR SOUBADAR through RUGHOO GUNGADHUR, KAMAISDAR of PERGUNNAH INDORE, to RUGHONATH SING, son of TEK CHUND, and KISREE SING, son of BEJOY SING, ZEMINDARS of PERGUNNAH BAE, TALOOKA MUDHARNEE—1226 A.H.

The above pergunnah was desolated and is now being improved by the Circar. An enquiry respecting the zemindaree of the pergunnah was made, but no papers have been found. Agreeably, however, to what you verbally stated the following settlement is made :—

1. The following duties used formerly to be levied on travellers on account of zemindar and chowkies.

Exclusive of duties on travellers, sayer duties were levied from tradesmen at the rate of two annas on every loaded bullock, sheep, camel, &c.

Sayer duty of one anna and not more was levied on every company of travellers or traders at the following five chowkies, viz.—

| 1. Nachunbore. | | 3. Arveh Khal. |
| 2. Bhowroba. | | 4. Chorur Nuddee. |
| | 5. Amlee. | |

According to the above scale, duties at the rate of three annas may be levied on tradesmen on account of zemindar and chowkey; and duties at the rate of one anna may be taken on every company of travellers; a duty also of one anna and a half may be levied on every animal carrying the baggage of the traders; but nothing more than the above should be collected. All duties must be levied according to the rate settled by the mediation of General Sir John Malcolm. You shall make good the loss which any man may sustain in any place from Sumrore village ghant to the borders of Gooloo at the time of his coming or returning. You shall always be in attendance and serve the Circar heartily and carefully.

2. The village which you state to have been from of old in your possession in zemindaree tenure, and the lands which you claim to hold for the purpose of cultivation are as follows :—

You have said that you hold the village of Gazeeda and 25 beegahs of land situated in cusba Bae; you may now improve the said village and cultivate the lands, and from the income thereof you may support your family and children: but after the institution of an enquiry such settlement in respect thereof shall be made as may be deemed proper:—

3. The following is the settlement made :—

One-fourth of the sum fixed to be paid to the Circar shall be given to the zemindar. If you settle aheerees or graziers and others in the village, you will receive a percentage at the rate of Rupees 5 per cent. on the amount to be paid by them to the Circar on account of pasture.

4. It is necessary to make an enquiry whether or not the cess "damee" is due to the zemindar, and whether or not pesheush is payable by the zemindar; for this purpose it is necessary that you should produce the old receipts which you hold. After enquiry a settlement will be made, and until such settlement is made you may take two rupees on every village. One rupee only should be taken on a village yielding Rupees 25 a year, but on a village paying Rupees 50 you may take two rupees as mentioned above.

5. No duties on account of zemindar and chowkey, as above detailed, shall be levied from persons holding a letter of the Circar exempting them from payment of duties. If any tradesman holds an engagement of the Circar the duties should be levied from him with reference to that engagement.

You will keep the tradespeople satisfied by making the usual allowance in their cases. In respect to pilgrims you shall act in consonance with the orders of the Circar. The settlement having been thus made you shall serve the Circar with fidelity, and improve the said pergunnah by bringing the tenants and settling them in the pergunnah. You shall protect the traders, travellers, and passengers, so that they may not sustain any loss. You shall levy duties according to the above settlement which has been made with reference to your verbal statement. After the records have been referred to, such rules in regard to the levying of duties and the payments of peshchush shall be laid down as obtained during the time of the late Bai Saheba.

(III).—BHOPAL AGENCY.

1. BHOPAL.

Bhopal is the principal Mussalman State in Central India, and ranks next in importance to Hyderabad among the Muhammadan States of India. The ruling family was founded by Dost Muhammad, an Afghan in the service of Aurangzeb. He was nominated superintendent of the district of Bairsia, and he took advantage of the revolutions which followed the death of the Emperor to establish his independent authority in Bhopal and the neighbouring country. He died about 1723 at the age of sixty-six. On his death Sultan Muhammad Khan, his legitimate son, then a minor, was put in power by the Pathan Chiefs; but the cause of Yar Muhammad Khan, an elder but illegitimate son, was espoused by the Nizam, and Sultan Muhammad was compelled to abdicate in favour of Yar Muhammad. The latter had four sons, by the eldest of whom, Faiz Muhammad Khan, aged eleven, he was succeeded. The claims of his uncle Sultan Muhammad Khan were again brought forward by a powerful party, but in the contest which ensued Sultan Muhammad Khan was defeated and was obliged to accept the grant of Rahatgarh for himself and his descendants, and to renounce all claims to the sovereignty of Bhopal and all interference with the affairs of the State.

At this time the Peshwa Baji Rao, while returning from Delhi, demanded in the name of the Emperor the restoration of the territories usurped by the Pathans of Bhopal, and the Nawab was compelled by treaty to relinquish all his possessions in Malwa except a few towns, being confirmed by the Peshwa in his remaining possessions in Gondwara.

Faiz Muhammad Khan, who was of weak intellect, nominally ruled Bhopal for thirty-eight years. He left no issue and was succeeded by his brother Yasin Muhammad, who survived only a few days and was succeeded by his brother Hayat Muhammad Khan, during whose weak administration the real power remained in the hands of his ministers.

Towards the close of the 18th century the Bhopal territories were overrun by plundering bands of Pindaris and were also invaded by Raghuji Bhonsla. At this time Wazir Muhammad, son of the Nawab's cousin, Sharif Muhammad Khan, who when a mere youth had fled from Bhopal after an unsuccessful rebellion (in which his father had been killed) against the power of the minister, returned to Bhopal as a soldier of fortune. He was the means of saving his country from destruction by the Mahrattas, and he became the founder of the branch of the Bhopal family which has since ruled in the State. For many years he carried on a petty warfare with the Mahrattas, in the course of which he reconquered most of the territories which had been lost to Bhopal. But his power and abilities excited the envy and jealousy of Ghaus Muhammad, the son and successor of Hayat Muhammad Khan, who, to strengthen himself against Wazir Muhammad, invited the armies of Sindhia and Nagpur to occupy the country and agreed to pay to Sindhia an annual tribute. From this time Ghaus Muhammad sank into obscurity, and though he long survived and enjoyed the titular dignity of Nawab he had no influence in the government of the country, nor were his claims ever agitated in the discussions which subsequently arose regarding the succession to the Bhopal State.

Wazir Muhammad's first efforts, made about the year 1809, to obtain the assistance and mediation of the British Government in his struggles with the Mahrattas were unsuccessful. He was compelled for self-preservation to league himself with the Pindari leaders. In 1812 a combination was made between Sindhia and Raghuji Bhonsla to crush him, and Bhopal was besieged by their united armies towards the close of 1813. Wazir Muhammad made a gallant defence during a siege of nine months, and the Mahrattas were compelled to retire unsuccessful. Sindhia was making active efforts to renew the siege in the following year, but he was restrained by the interference of the British Government, who began to see cause for less reliance on the friendship of Raghuji Bhonsla, and to value more the importance of Bhopal as a means of checking the depredations of the Pindaris. The connection of Wazir Muhammad with the British Government, however, never ripened into any formal engagement during his lifetime.

Wazir Muhammad died in 1816 and was succeeded by his second son Nazar Muhammad with the consent of all parties and among others of the elder son, Amir Muhammad Khan, who was disqualified by vicious excesses. Nazar Muhammad was married to the Kudsia Begam, daughter of Ghaus Muhammad.

One of the first measures taken by the British Government at the commencement of the Pindari war in 1817 was the formation of a close alliance with Bhopal. The Pindari leaders had long found a secure retreat in the Bhopal State, and it was chiefly by their help that the Nawabs of Bhopal had been able to resist the attacks of Sindhia and the Raja of Nagpur. But the connection with these freebooters was distasteful to the Nawab, and tolerated only from inability to control them. Nazar Muhammad therefore gladly accepted the British alliance. An agreement was made with him on conditions proposed by himself, with the addition of an engagement to give the British Government the service of his troops. No formal treaty was executed, but the correspondence (No. LXXXVI) which passed in 1817 was declared to have the force and validity of a treaty. The conditions of this engagement were faithfully fulfilled, and they were made the basis of the formal Treaty (No. LXXXVII) of perpetual friendship and alliance concluded with the Nawab in 1818 by which his State was guaranteed; he agreed to furnish a contingent of 600 horse and 400 infantry; and he received five districts in Malwa as a reward for his services, and to enable him to maintain the contingent. The grant of these districts was subject to an assignment of Rupees 6,000 a year on their revenues to Khandi Rao, the former manager, which provision was guaranteed by the British Government, No. LXXXVIII being the sanad granted in 1818 to Khandi Rao by Sir John Malcolm. The town and fort of Islamnagar, which had passed from the possession of the Nawab, were also restored to him.

Shortly after the conclusion of the treaty Nazar Muhammad was accidentally killed by the discharge of a pistol by the hand of his brother-in-law, Faujdar Khan, a child eight years of age. Nazar Muhammad was a gallant soldier, an enlightened ruler, and a firm ally of the British Government. He left one daughter, the Sikandar Begam. It was arranged with the consent of the Bhopal nobles and the sanction of the British Government that he should be succeeded, under the Regency of the Kudsia Begam, by his nephew Munir Muhammad Khan, son of his elder brother Amir Muhammad Khan, who had resigned his claims when Nazar Muhammad Khan became Nawab in 1816; and that Munir Muhammad Khan should marry the Sikandar Begam. In 1827 Munir Muhammad Khan endeavoured to assert his authority but was resisted by the Regent, and he eventually resigned his claim to the Sikandar Begam's hand and to the succession in favour of his younger brother, Jahangir Muhammad Khan, receiving as compensation a jagir of Rupees 40,000 a year which was guaranteed by the British Government. This arrangement was effected in concert with the Chiefs of the State, who claim by custom a limited privilege in the selection of their ruler.

The Kudsia Begam, anxious to retain the power in her own hands, long delayed on various pretexts the celebration of the marriage of her daughter with Jahangir Muhammad Khan. But finding her endeavours to secure the countenance of the British Government to her retention of the administration during her life fruitless, the Begam at last yielded and the marriage was celebrated on 18th April 1835. This however did not put an end to the family dissensions, the Begam still hoping to evade the actual resignation of power and the Sikandar Begam entertaining ambitious views of her own. In 1836 a plot of the Nawab Jahangir Muhammad Khan to seize the person of the Kudsia Begam was discovered. He was arrested and put under restraint, but effected his escape on 2nd April 1837, and being joined by a large party of his followers, raised the standard of rebellion. Although Government admitted the Nawab's claim to be just, and although it had been recognised by Government and by the Kudsia Begam on the supersession of his elder brother, yet formal interference was declined. The Nawab was defeated and compelled to seek shelter behind the walls of Ashta. After the siege of this town had lasted for some months without any decisive result, the Kudsia Begam and the Nawab accepted the proposed mediation of the British Government. An Agreement (No. LXXXIX), which was afterwards countersigned by the Governor-General, was concluded between them on the 29th November 1837, by which the Nawab was left in charge of the administration, and the Kudsia Begam received a life-jagir of Rupees 60,000 a year with which the Nawab pledged himself not to interfere.

The Kudsia Begam died on 17th December 1881, and the jagir lapsed to the State. Her personal property, amounting to nearly 15 lakhs, was inherited by her grand-daughter Shah Jahan Begam, daughter of Sikandar Begam. The Nawab and the Sikandar Begam also executed an agreement in 1837 not to design or commit injury to each other; but while approving of this agreement Government considered it to be of too private a nature to admit of its formal ratification.

The Nawab was installed in power on 29th November 1837. The reconciliation with the Sikandar Begam, however, was not sincere, and shortly after the Nawab's accession she retired to live with the Kudsia Begam at Islamnagar. The Nawab died on 9th December 1844, having previously executed a will to the effect that his illegitimate son Dastgir should succeed him in power, and that his daughter Shah Jahan by the Sikandar Begam should be married to a descendant of Wazir Muhammad Khan of pure blood.

The will in favour of Dastgir was set aside, and several plots to place him in power failed. The British Government recognised the succession of Shah Jahan in the same manner as, on the death of Nazar Muhammad Khan, it had admitted the claims of Sikandar Begam; and it was decided that the future husband of Shah Jahan, who was to be selected from the Bhopal family with a view to the amalgamation of the two branches descended from Ghaus Muhammad Khan and Wazir Muhammad Khan, should be Chief of Bhopal; and that in the meantime Faujdar Muhammad Khan, brother of Kudsia Begam, should act as Regent, receiving co-operation from the Sikandar Begam. The arrangement did not work well, and eventually Faujdar Muhammad Khan resigned his office and Sikandar Begam was appointed Regent in February 1847.

The Sikandar Begam conducted the administration with great vigour and ability. She abolished the system of farming the revenue and made settlements directly with the heads of villages; regulated the assessments of the estates of the jagirdars; abolished monopolies of trades; brought the mint under her direct management; re-organised the police; and made arrangements for the liquidation of the debts of the State.

In July 1855 Shah Jahan Begam was married to Bakshi Baki Muhammad Khan of Bhopal. He did not belong to the Bhopal family. Indeed there existed no member of the family with whom the Shah Jahan Begam could contract an eligible marriage; and as the nobles of Bhopal, although willing to submit to the Begam, were not prepared to acknowledge as ruler of Bhopal anyone who did not belong to the ruling family, some modification of the arrangements made in 1844 became necessary. It was eventually decided that Shah Jahan Begam should be the Chief of the State, her husband being only titular Nawab, and that Sikandar Begam should continue to act as Regent till Shah Jahan Begam should reach the age of twenty-one.

Sikandar Begam, however, was dissatisfied with her position. She complained of the recognition of her late husband as Chief of Bhopal, she being sovereign in her own right, and of the consequent recognition of her own daughter during her lifetime. Government, however, having recognised the claims of Shah Jahan Begam could not set them aside; but Shah Jahan Begam voluntarily resigned her right to rule during her mother's lifetime. Accordingly in 1859 Her Highness the Sikandar Begam was proclaimed ruler and the Shah Jahan Begam her heir, the succession remaining with Shah Jahan's children.

The Sikandar Begam was always steadfastly attached to the British Government. For her services during the mutinies of 1857 she received in 1860 a grant (No. XC) of the pargana of Bairsia, which had been confiscated on account of the rebellion of the Dhar State (see Bhopawar Agency); and in 1861 she was created a Knight Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India. In 1862 a Sanad of adoption (No. XCI) was conceded by the Government of India. The Begam liberally rewarded with jagirs those of her own subjects who rendered good service in the crisis of 1857.

In 1863 the Sikandar Begam resolved to proceed on a pilgrimage to Mecca, and she requested that an engagement might be given to the effect that no new orders of the British Government would be carried out in Bhopal till her return. The Begam was told that, as it was impossible to foresee events, so it was impracticable for the British Government to comply with such a request; but she was assured that, unless imperatively necessary in the interest of the Bhopal State and its absent ruler, and in the interest of public peace and good order, no such orders would be issued nor any interference allowed with the arrangements she had made for the administration of Bhopal; and that, in the event of the issue of such orders being absolutely necessary, an intimation of their exact nature would be forwarded to her. The Begam was also assured that, in her absence, the protection of the British Government would be extended to the Shah Jahan Begam.

The Sikandar Begam died in October 1868, and Shah Jahan Begam then assumed the administration. At her request her daughter, Sultan Jahan Begam, then about 8 years of age, was expressly recognised by the British Government as her heir (No. XCII). Bakshi Baki Muhammad Khan, the husband of the Shah Jahan Begam, died in 1867; and in 1871 she married Maulvi Sadik Hasan. The same honours were paid to him as were enjoyed by her first husband, and he received the title of Nawab.

The Sultan Jahan Begam was married in 1874, with the consent of Government, to Ahmad Ali Khan, a youth of almost the same age as herself. He is of the same tribe as that to which the Bhopal family belongs, namely, the Mirazi Khel, but is not a member of the family. The Sultan Jahan Begam had four children by this marriage—Bilkis Jahan Begam, born 25th October 1875; Muhammad Nasirulla Khan, born 8th December 1876; Obaid-ulla Khan, born 2nd November 1878; and Asaf Jahan Begam, born 3rd August 1880. Of these the last three are still living (1892), but the eldest, Bilkis Jahan Begam, died in 1886—an event which was rendered especially unfortunate from the fact that the circumstances attending it served to accentuate the estrangement that had arisen between Her Highness the Begam and her daughter and acknowledged heir, the Sultan Jahan Begam.

In 1840 the Bhopal contingent was reformed, and the Nawab agreed to increase the yearly tribute paid for its maintenance from Rupees 1,30,000 to Rupees 1,38,000. The contingent was again reorganised in 1849, and a Treaty (No. XCIII), supplementary to article 6 of the treaty of 1818, was concluded with the Sikandar Begam, by which the annual contribution for the perpetual maintenance of the contingent was raised to Rupees 2,00,000, on condition that the whole liabilities of the State for the contingent were henceforth to be limited to that sum. The contingent mutinied in the rebellion of 1857, and since its dissolution its duties have been taken partly by troops of the line and partly by the Bhopal Battalion, which was raised in 1859. To this arrangement, which is practically a modification of the supplementary treaty of 1849, the Begam formally assented in 1862 (No. XCIV). The Battalion is a military police corps, but is liable to be called on to serve in any part of India, and in 1878, at the Begam's suggestion, it was sent to take part in the Afghan Campaign.

Besides the contribution for the Battalion, the Bhopal Darbar pays annually Rupees 5,000 for the support of the Sehore School established by Major Henley in 1818.

In 1863 the Begam of Bhopal appealed against the exercise of jurisdiction by the Political Agent in respect of cases where British subjects, Native or European, were either plaintiffs or defendants, as a violation of the 9th Article of the Bhopal Treaty of 1818; and claimed the right, under certain arrangements* made (without the authority or knowledge of the Government of India) with the Political Agent in 1847, to try in her own courts British

2nd.—In new and recent cases when offenders, after the perpetration of a crime, fly to the Bhopal territory, and the thanadars or police of the British Government get correct information of their having done so, they will follow the offenders into the Bhopal territory and apprehend and deliver them to the Bhopal local thanadar; they will not in such cases be at liberty to arrest subjects guilty of offences within her territories and the surrender of British subjects guilty of such offences when apprehended in British territories.

The claim, however, was not admitted; she was told that the principle underlying the Treaty of 1818 was contained in Article 3, which declares that the Bhopal Government will act in subordinate co-operation with the British Government and acknowledge its supremacy; that the 9th Article referred to the authority of the Nawab of Bhopal over his own subjects within his own territory and not to British subjects; that this was apparent, first, from the correspondence which took place when the treaty was concluded, and which showed that the object of the clause was to guarantee to the Nawab that the British courts of justice would not be introduced into his territories, and, secondly, by the omission of all reference to European offenders who had a right to be tried in a certain form and under certain conditions which the East India Company had no authority to compromise or surrender; that the arrangement of 1847 was never sanctioned by the Government of India, and contained a stipulation which was entirely inadmissible, viz., that British subjects charged with offences in Bhopal, if arrested in British territory, should be handed over to the Bhopal authorities for trial and punishment; but that the British Government would not be unwilling to act upon that arrangement in so far as it was consistent with Act VII of 1854 (since repealed) in the case of escaped offenders who were subjects of Bhopal. The law and procedure to and bring away offenders without the knowledge of the officials of the Bhopal State; but if the British officials in the pursuit of such offenders happen to reach a place within the Bhopal State, where, owing to there being no thana, or being wild and uninhabited, no assistance can be obtained, then they may arrest the offender and take him with them, giving however due notice of their proceedings to the nearest thana of the Bhopal State. The officials of the Bhopal State in similar cases can in like manner enter the British territories and act similarly.

Criminals in heinous cases only will be delivered up by the two Governments. The above rule applies only to such offenders.

3rd.—The crimes which are considered heinous by Colonel Sleeman and the Resident, Indore, are the following:—

- | | |
|--|--|
| No. 1. Wilful murder. | No. 9. Robbery of a child, male or female. |
| " 2. Wounding with the intent of murder. | " 10. Robbery of Government property. |
| " 3. Cutting and wounding wilfully. | " 11. Giving poison with the intent to murder. |
| " 4. Entering a house, or boat, or tent, with the intention of theft and plunder, accompanied by wounding. | " 12. Thagi. |
| " 5. Highway robbery. | " 13. Cattle-lifting. |
| " 6. Dakaiti. | " 14. Aiding and abetting in sati. |
| " 7. Setting fire to one's house. | " 15. Giras. |
| " 8. Forceful possession of a woman's body with or without adultery. | " 16. Paranch (incendiarism). |
| | " 17. Breaking jail. |

4th.—In cases of less importance the authorities of the district where the offender conceals himself will cause his arrest, as in heinous cases, on the information furnished to them by the plaintiff, and the case will be disposed of by the Court of the district in which the offender was apprehended; he will not in such cases be made over for trial to the authorities of the district in which the offence was committed.

be followed by British officers in questions relating to extradition are now defined by Act XXI of 1879 as amended by Act X of 1882.

The contribution of Rupees 12,000 per annum formerly paid by the Bhopal State for the construction and repair of roads within its territory was remitted in 1872, on the understanding that the Begam would keep in proper repair the roads already made and spend a reasonable sum annually in opening up others. In accordance with the recent policy of Government the maintenance of those sections of the Sehore-Dewas road and of the Sehore-Biaora road which lie within the limits of the Bhopal State was entrusted to the Darbar, with certain conditions, in 1888.

In 1877, on the occasion of the Delhi Assemblage, a salute of 17 guns within British India was accorded to the Nawab Consort, and later in the same year the order of the Imperial Crown was conferred on the Kudsia Begam and the Shah Jahan Begam. The latter had already been created a Knight Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India in the year 1872.

In 1879 it was proposed by the Bhopal State to establish opium scales at the new settlement of Shahjahanabad near Bhopal with a bounty on all opium brought there for weighment. Conditional sanction to this arrangement, which was at first tentative for three years, was accorded in the following year by the Government of India; and the scales are still in use.

In 1880 an Agreement (No. XCV) was concluded between the Government of India and the Bhopal State for the construction of a line of railway from Hoshangabad to Bhopal, the State paying 50 lakhs of rupees on that account and receiving in perpetuity any profits which might accrue on that sum. Certain provisions of this Agreement were modified by a supplementary Agreement (No. XCVI), dated the 30th June 1887. In 1888 the management of the Railway was transferred, by order of the Government of India, from the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company to the Indian Midland Railway Company. In 1890 a further supplementary Agreement (No. XCVII) was executed by the Government of India and Her Highness the Begam of Bhopal, providing that the profits accruing or the losses incurred on the Bhopal section of the Railway should be divided in perpetuity between the British Government and the Darbar in proportion to the capital contributed by each party at the close of the period for which the accounts should be made up. Civil and criminal jurisdiction was (No. XCVIII) ceded in 1888 by Her Highness the Begam to the British Government on this line.

In 1891 the Begam consented to give the land for a new line of Railway running from Ujjain in Gwalior via Sehore to Bhopal, designed to connect the Rajputana and Indian Midland systems. The line for the new Railway is now (1892) being prospected (see Gwalior).

In 1881 an Agreement (No. XCIX) was concluded by which the Bhopal State abolished the levy of transit duties on salt passing through its territories, and the British Government agreed to pay as compensation an annual sum of Rupees 10,000.

For some years previous to 1885 the administration of the Bhopal State had suffered chiefly owing to the ill-advised interference of the Begam's husband in public affairs, the Begam having retired behind the pardah. The British Government, after repeated expostulation, was at length reluctantly obliged to interpose. The Nawab was deprived of his title and salute, and forbidden to interfere in any way with the transaction of public business. The Begam was at the same time advised by the Government to nominate, to assist her in the conduct of public affairs, a responsible minister who should be approved by the Governor-General in Council. It was the wish of the Government that a Native Minister should be appointed, but the Begam pressed for the nomination by the Viceroy of a British Officer, and Colonel Ward of the Central Provinces Commission was finally, in June 1886, selected for the post. He reverted to the Central Provinces Administration in December 1888, and a native gentleman named Muhammad Imtiyaz Ali was chosen by Her Highness the Begam with the approval of the Government of India to succeed him.

The ex-Nawab Sadik Hasan died in February 1890. At the time of his death the Government of India had under consideration the Begam's request that the honours of which he had been deprived in 1885 might be restored to him, and it was subsequently decided that in official correspondence he should be referred to as "the late Nawab Consort."

On the occasion of Lord Lansdowne's visit to Bhopal in November 1891 Her Highness the Begum and her successors were exempted from the obligation to present nazars at interviews with the Viceroy (No. C).

The area of Bhopal is 6,784 square miles; the revenue is estimated at about 27 lakhs of rupees; and the population as shown by the census of 1891 is 947,214. The military establishment maintained by the State consisted in 1890, including irregulars, of 2,030 infantry, 803 cavalry, and 69 guns, of which six are classed as serviceable. There are also 296 artillery men. Of these forces the Darbar has offered to place 500 cavalry at the disposal of the Government of India for Imperial Service. The Begam is entitled to a salute of 19 guns; but within her own territories the salute is 21 guns.

AGREEMENT with NUZZUR MAHOMED KHAN in 1817.

TRANSLATION of a letter from MR. JENKINS to NUZZUR MAHOMED KHAN, the NAWAB of BHOPAL, dated 13th October 1817.

The written proposals of your vakeel Enayet Musseeh, dated 22nd January 1817, or 4th of Rubbee-ul-Awul 1232 A. H., specifying the conditions on which you were desirous of placing your State under the protection of the British Government, have, as you know, been for some time under the consideration of His Excellency the Governor-General. Though hitherto unanswered they have not been overlooked, and I am now instructed to communicate to you His Excellency's assent to them.

The following is an exact transcript of the proposals in question :—

PROPOSALS of HUKHEEM ENAYET MUSSEEH, CONFIDENTIAL AGENT of NUZZUR MAHOMED KHAN, the NAWAB of BHOPAL, agreeable to the wishes of his principal; dated 22nd January 1817, corresponding with the 4th of Rubbee-ul-Awul of the Hegira.

ARTICLE 1.

"The fort of Nuzzurghur, commonly called Seermow or Goolgaon which is situated near Bhilsa, shall be delivered over to the British Government as a permanent cantonment and depôt for grain, &c.

ARTICLE 2.

"We will use our utmost endeavours to assist in the collection of supplies of cattle, grain, and all other necessary articles for the use of the British troops, at the market prices.

ARTICLE 3.

"Agreeable to the orders of the British Government, we will also abstain from all intercourse and correspondence with the Pindarees and all the plundering Afghans of Hindostan.

ARTICLE 4.

"After we are taken under the protection of the Company we shall have no occasion to enter into engagements and correspondence with the other Chiefs and Rajahs of Hindostan; but in trifling affairs, relating to the administration of the Government, it will be continually necessary to correspond with the neighbouring Zemindars and Chiefs, in which cases, as a previous reference to the British authorities and the obtaining permission might occasion delay, after having concluded any petty transaction of this kind, we will communicate the same to the nearest British authority.

ARTICLE 5.

“After being taken under the protection of the Company we will submit to the British Government all our claims and pretensions on other Rajahs and Chiefs in order that the Company may effect a favourable settlement of the same; or even should we suffer a little loss in this way, we will out of respect to the English Government quietly submit to it.

ARTICLE 6.

“With regard to money stipulations for the payment of the British troops, the case is this, that for the last two years the revenues realized by us from our country have not exceeded one lakh and twenty-five thousand Rupees; on which we have with difficulty subsisted. How therefore can we contribute any sum towards the payment of British troops? Let the Company excuse us on this point. But the fort of Nuzzarghur with some villages dependent on it, some of which are flourishing and the others deserted, shall be delivered into the hands of the Company; and when by the assistance of the British Government we shall attain our wishes, we shall never be found deficient in rendering every service in this respect in our power.”

The only additional stipulations which the Governor-General requires from you are that you will zealously co-operate with your troops against the Pindarees and their abettors, according to the advice of the officers of the British Government; that you will admit the British troops at all times into your territory; and that all articles of supply for them shall be purchased and pass through your territories free of duties. In the present condition of your territory and resources the British Government does not require you to contribute anything to the payment of its expenses, but it must be understood that after any eventual increase of your dominions accompanied by the improvement which the restoration of tranquillity may be expected to effect in your resources, you will be ready to contribute in a fair proportion according to your ability.

On these conditions the British Government engages to protect and guarantee your dominions against all enemies, and to recover and restore to your possession such parts of your territories as have been seized and occupied by the Pindarees. You may besides expect such other marks of its favour and kindness as circumstances may put in its power to confer upon you and your own good conduct may merit.

I am authorized by the Governor-General to inform you that it is only necessary for you to signify to me, in your reply to this letter, your assent to the above conditions, to render you at once the ally and to entitle you to the immediate and permanent protection of the British power. But your reply must be distinct and unequivocal.

The British Government has now unalterably determined to suppress the predatory power of the Pindarees, and to destroy and prevent the revival of the predatory system in every part of India. The British armies are advancing from every quarter into Malwa for this purpose. Every State must therefore declare itself either friend or foe. Those even who do not co-operate zealously in this cause will be viewed and treated as enemies. Your professed and approved attachment to the British Government has entailed on you the peculiar enmity of the Pindarees and rendered you deserving of every assistance and support, whilst the local position of your territories, in the vicinity of the Pindaree positions, the bravery of your troops, and the energy of your personal character are calculated upon as enabling you to become a most useful auxiliary in the approaching crisis. Your conduct on this occasion will have the most powerful influence on your future fate, and the Governor-General has no doubt that you will stand the test.

I send this letter through Colonel Adams, and I have to request you will transmit your reply to it through the same channel. On receiving your reply, which must be early, and I cannot doubt will be direct and satisfactory, the Colonel will inform you of his wishes regarding the employment of your troops, and concert with you the necessary measures for the protection of your country, the occupation of the fort assigned for a dépôt, and the supply, &c., of the British troops which will advance across the Nerbudda into your territories. I shall be obliged by your furnishing Colonel Adams with every information on these topics, and you will of course consider his suggestions on all points as those of the British Government.

To NUZZUR MAHOMED KHAN, of Bhopal, written the 23rd
December 1817.

Sir John Malcolm duly communicated to me the correspondence which had passed between him and you and the substance of his personal conferences with your agent the respectable Enayet Shahzad Musseeb, and I have been informed by Lieutenant-Colonel Adams of the junction of a body of your troops, both horse and foot, with his division and of the satisfaction he has derived from their conduct. These circumstances have amply confirmed the opinion I have always entertained of your friendship and attachment to the British Government, and I request you to be assured that a corresponding feeling towards you has always existed in my mind.

In consequence of your letter to Sir John Malcolm stating that you had written to Mr. Jenkins to declare your assent to the terms proposed to you by that gentleman under my authority, I awaited a communication from Mr. Jenkins of that letter and the execution and exchange of a regular engagement comprising those conditions, according to the wish you had expressed, before I signified my formal sanction of them. The late disturbances at Nagpore, which the signal triumph of our arms will soon suppress, having prevented the completion of those arrangements, I deem it proper no longer to delay a direct communication of my unqualified confirmation of the assurances you have received from Brigadier-General Sir John Malcolm and Mr. Jenkins. Your knowledge of the reliance that may always be placed on the assurance of a British officer has however supplied the place of that formal sanction, and the just confidence in my friendship which led you at once to proceed in execution of the terms settled with Sir John Malcolm and Mr. Jenkins has afforded me a high degree of satisfaction. You have already begun to experience the benefits of your alliance with the British Government by the recovery of some of the districts from which the Pindarees were expelled, and you may rely on my unremitting attention to your interests and to the augmentation of your prosperity and resources, as far as circumstances may enable me to indulge this disposition, in the firm confidence that your conduct will be such as to merit every degree of favour.

With regard to the future payment of a portion of the charge of the British troops that may be employed in the protection of your territories, a point on which you have expressed some anxiety, I have only to assure you that whatever may be ultimately arranged in that respect will be framed in a spirit of the utmost liberality and with a due advertence to the pecuniary situation and means of your Government. On this subject be at ease.

A regular treaty shall be hereafter prepared and duly exchanged and ratified; but in the meanwhile I request you to consider this as having the full force of such an instrument.

Whereas the Right Honourable the Governor-General of India in Council, upon learning the existence of the dissensions which had arisen between me and my beloved son the Nawab Nuzzur-ood-dowlah Jehangir Mahomed Khan, addressed his orders through Mr. Secretary Macnaughten to Mr. Lancelot Wilkinson, Agent of Bhopal, in regard to the bestowal by His Lordship of the guarantee of the Government of India for the security of my life and of my private jaghire on my consigning the reins of government of the Bhopal State to the Nawab; and whereas the Agent duly communicated the above in a khureeta to my address; and Whereas it was ever my heartfelt aim to obey the orders of the British Government in every respect: I have therefore consigned the whole management of the affairs of the Bhopal State into the hands of my son the Nawab. TRANSLATION of a KHUREETA from HER HIGHNESS the NAWAB SECUNDER BEGUM of BHOPAL, dated 29th May 1862, to address AGENT, GOVERNOR GENERAL for CENTRAL INDIA.

After compliments,—Your letter, No. 339, dated 1st May, acquainting me with the arrangements which have superseded those formerly in force in respect to the contingent, has duly reached me, informed me of what I was previously ignorant, and removed the doubts from my mind which I had wished cleared away. Your letter states that the Supplementary Article of the Treaty of 1818, dated 29th November 1849, fixed at two lakhs of Rupees the annual contribution of the Bhopal State for the perpetual maintenance of a contingent of all arms commanded by British officers, for the security of the Bhopal Government; on this account a force of British European troops was stationed at Sehore, which by reason of damage to discipline was subsequently removed to Saugor and Mhow in order that a force, efficient and powerful be always available to afford support to the Bhopal Government in lieu of the former contingent; that the Bhopal levy and Central India Horse will be available for the ordinary duties of the former contingent. Although by this disposition there is an apparent difference from the terms of the said agreement with regard to the late contingent, yet in reality it is a practical fulfilment of the terms of the Supplementary Article; for greater security and support is afforded to the Bhopal government by the presence of European troops at Saugor and Mhow than was provided for by the former arrangement.

Under these circumstances it is most desirable that there should be no ground for misconception, and that the views of the Bhopal Government should coincide with those of the British Government. My friend, when these words of sound advice were well understood by me, viz., that the British Government in lieu of former arrangements had by the existing disposition of troops taken upon itself more efficient measures for the security and protection of the Bhopal State, they imparted perfect satisfaction to me; in truth the new disposition is in accordance to my views and has removed all grounds for anxiety or misconception.

Dated Indore Residency, the 11th April 1892.

From—R. J. CROSTHWAITE, Esq., C.S.I., Agent to the Governor General in Central India,

To—Her Highness NAWAB SHAH JAHAN BEGAM, G.C.S.I., C.I., of Bhopal.

MY ESTEEMED FRIEND,

When His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India visited Your Highness at Bhopal in the month of November last, His Excellency was pleased to inform Your Highness that you and your successors would be exempted for the future from the obligation to present a nazar at interviews with the Governor General. His Excellency moreover told Your Highness that, as a mark of good will and in token of the regard entertained for Your Highness by the Government of India, he was glad to have an opportunity to make this announcement.

No written communication on this subject having yet been made to Your Highness, I am now authorised to convey to you in writing the announcement in question, and I am pleased to be the means of conveying to Your Highness information of this gratifying nature.

(II). MEDIATIZED CHIEFS IN THE BHOPAL AGENCY.

UNDER this Agency, besides twenty-one Chiefs or Thakurs whose relations with their immediate superior have been mediated and guaranteed by the British Government, there are three petty Chiefships, Kurwai, Muhammadgarh, and Maksudangarh, immediately dependent on the British Government itself. The Political Agent has also charge within certain limits of isolated districts belonging to the States of Gwalior,* Indore,† Tonk,‡ and Dewas.§

Chiefs immediately dependent on the British Government.

1. KURWAI.

This Chiefship was founded by an Afghan named Muhammad Dalil Khan, a Firoz Khel of the Tirah or Khaibar district, and a contemporary of Dost Muhammad of Bhopal with whom he was at one time in alliance for the division of their common acquisitions in Central India. He first entered the service of the Raja of Datia in Bundelkhand; and afterwards, about 1726, that of the Raja of Basoda who is now one of the Mediatized Chiefs in the Bhopal Agency. On the death of the Chief of Kurwai he seized the State. On the death of Nawab Muhammad Dalil Khan the State was divided between his sons, the elder, Muhammad Izzat Khan, receiving Kurwai, and the younger, Ahsanulla Khan, receiving Muhammadgarh and Basoda.

Kurwai during the decline of the Mughal Empire obtained power and dominion equal if not superior in extent to that of Bhopal, but suffered great spoliation at the hands both of the Mahrattas and Pindaris. In 1818 the Chief applied to the Resident at Bhopal for protection against the oppression of Sindhia's local officials in the neighbouring districts, and it was arranged that he should remain in the undisturbed possession of his territory.

In 1820 Muhammad Akbar Khan, an illegitimate son of Nawab Hurmat Khan, the successor of Muhammad Izzat Khan, seized the State. The legitimate son of the Nawab, Iradat Muhammad Khan, applied to the British † In Indore, Gagrani, which was originally a guaranteed Chiefship (see Malcolm's Report on Malwa, No. 41 of Schedule No. III), but lapsed to Holkar in 1862 on failure of heirs, Zirapur, Machalpur, Sundarsi, Kantapur, and Satwas-Nimawar.

Government, but it was not considered advisable to disturb the arrangements which existed previous to the introduction of British supremacy into Malwa; through the intervention, however, of the British Government a compensation in the shape of an annuity of Rupees 6,000 per annum was paid to him on his formally abandoning his claim to the gadi.

Muhammad Akbar Khan died in 1843, leaving two sons, Muhammad Muzaffar Khan and Muhammad Najaf Khan. The Nawab had wished to set aside the elder son, but Government would not accede to this request, and Muhammad Muzaffar Khan succeeded. He died in 1858 without male issue, but leaving a grandson, his daughter's son by the Nawab of Basoda. Government ruled that Muhammad Najaf Khan had a preferential claim and recognised him as Nawab.

In 1874 Muhammad Najaf Khan, being then fifty years of age and having no male issue, selected his grandson Munawar Ali Khan, son of his eldest daughter and a child about five years old, as his heir. The Government of India in accordance with the wish of the Chief sanctioned the succession.

Muhammad Najaf Khan died on the 15th January 1887, and was succeeded by Munawar Ali Khan. His father Mazhar Ali Khan was appointed to carry on the administration of the State during the minority. Munawar Ali Khan has attained his majority, but it is still (1892) considered advisable to continue the same arrangement. Several members of the Kurwai family, outside the ruling branch, draw pensions from the Kurwai revenues under the supervision of the Political Agent, Bhopal. They reside at Sehore, Sironj (Tonk), and other places in the neighbourhood.

The Chief pays no tribute or tankha to any State. He holds what may be considered a constructive guarantee from the British Government for the independence, security, and continuance of his possessions (No. CI). All matters connected with the succession to Kurwai are regulated by the British Government.

The Kurwai Darbar abolished transit duties within their territory on the 1st of June 1884.

Civil and criminal jurisdiction on the lands occupied by the Indian Midland Railway was (No. CII) ceded by the Kurwai State to the British Government in 1888. In 1890 the Government of India sanctioned as a special case the payment to the Chief of Rs. 10,880-12-6 on account of the land taken up for the Railway.

The area of Kurwai is 162 square miles ; the population, according to the census of 1891, was 21,575, and the revenue about Rupees 50,000. The military force consisted in 1890 of 2 guns classed as serviceable, 16 gunners, 12 horsemen, and 190 infantry. The Chief receives a salute of nine guns.

2. MUHAMMADGARH.

This State was originally part of Kurwai, and was given as a portion to a younger son of the Chief. It pays no tribute to any State, and is directly dependent on the British Government. The present Chief is Hafiz Kuli Khan, who is about sixty-five years of age (1892).

In 1875 the daughter of the Nawab was married to Mian Yasin Muhammad Khan of Bhopal, a son of Nawab Faiz Muhammad Khan, who was great uncle to the Shah Jahan Begam of Bhopal.

On the 1st June 1884 the Chief abolished transit duties within his territories.

The area of Muhammadgarh is 80 square miles ; the population in 1891 was 4,712 ; and the revenue is about Rupees 7,000.

3. MAKSUDANGARH.

This estate, which originally formed part of the estate of Raghugarh, (one of the Gwalior Mediatized Chiefs), was granted to Raja Bairi Sal about the year 1816 by Colonel Jean Baptiste on the part of the Maharaja Sindhia. It does not possess a British guarantee. Since the establishment of the Bhopal Agency, however, the internal administration of the estate has invariably been conducted under the supervision of the Political Agent, Bhopal ; and boundary disputes have been settled by the Boundary Settlement Officer of the Agency without interference on the part of the Gwalior Darbar, to which, moreover, it pays no tribute.

In 1880 the administration of the estate having fallen into disorder owing to the death in October 1879 of the Regent, and the incapacity of the Chief, a Native Superintendent was nominated by the Bhopal Political Agent with the concurrence of the Maharaja Sindhia, and the appointment was finally sanctioned by the Government of India. Since then the administration of the estate has been carried on by the Superintendent under the direct supervision of the Political Agent of Bhopal, to whom the accounts and all matters of importance are regularly submitted.

In 1891 the population was 14,370; the revenue is about Rupees 31,000; and the area is about 81 square miles.

Mediatized and Guaranteed Chiefships.

1. BASODA.

The position of this Chiefship, which was originally part of Kurwai, and which is allied with the Kurwai family, is that of a subordinate of Sindhia though it pays no tribute to the Darbar. In his relations with the Darbar, the Basoda Chief receives the countenance and support of the Political Agent for Bhopal, within whose local jurisdiction the estate lies, and who since 1822 has exercised the same general authority in the affairs of this Chiefship as in those of the guaranteed Chiefs subject to his control. Heinous criminal offences are reported to the Political Agent, in whose court they are tried with the aid of assessors. The Political Agent is also the referee in all cases of dispute arising between the Gwalior Darbar and the Nawab.

The late Chief, Asad Ali Khan, was at one time minister of Bhopal, but was removed to Benares on account of his intrigues in favour of Dastgir, the illegitimate claimant of the succession in Bhopal. He was released in 1858 on payment of a fine of Rupees 25,000. Asad Ali Khan died in 1864 and was succeeded by his eldest son Amar Ali Khan, the present Chief, then thirty-four years of age. It has been his habit for some time past to travel every year in Europe and Asia. During his absence his elder son, with the consent of the Government of India, carries on the administration of the estate.

On the 1st June 1884 the Nawab abolished all transit duties within his territories.

The area of Basoda is 68 square miles; the population 6,735 in 1891; and the revenue about Rupees 7,000.

2. TAPPA.

This estate, which consists of twelve villages in the Gwalior pargana of Sonkach, was granted by Maharaja Daulat Rao Sindhia (No. CIII) in 1822 to Thakur Rup Singh, Girasia of Tappa, under a mediation effected by Major Henley, the Political Agent in Bhopal, through the offices of Major Close, the Resident at Gwalior.

The estate continued in the possession of the family of the original grantee till the demise in March 1865, without issue, of his last surviving descendant Thakur Kishor Singh, a youth of nineteen years of age. The mother and widow of the deceased Thakur then proposed the adoption of Takht Singh, a distant relative of the latter and descended from a common ancestor, as heir to the jagir. The Gwalior Darbar concurred in this proposal on the condition that the adopted heir should pay to the Darbar the prescribed nazarana of one-fourth of the net revenue of the estate. The succession of Takht Singh was thereupon recognised by Government, and the estate was made over to the young Thakur in 1877.

The population of Tappa was 847 according to the census of 1891, and the revenue is about rupees 3,000 a year.

3. RAJGARH.

The power of the Umats, an inferior class of Rajputs, was established in the district known as Umatwara in the seventeenth century by two brothers, named Mohan Singh and Parsuram, who assumed the titles of Rawat and Diwan, and made a division of their possessions, the Rawat retaining five villages in excess of the portion of the Diwan as an acknowledgment of his superior birthright. The ancestors of the family, who were proprietors of large herds of camels, came from Mewar in A.D. 1442. Out of the division abovementioned which took place in 1681 arose the separate Chiefships of Rajgarh and Narsingarh. On the Mahratta conquest of Malwa about 1770 the Umats were compelled to submit in common with other States, but they appear to have obtained unusually easy terms. The Rawat became tributary to Sindhia and the Diwan to Holkar. Tribute was imposed on each in equal proportions. The amount appears to have varied between Rupees 65,000 and Rupees 85,000 a year.

In 1818 the Chief in possession of Rajgarh was Nawal Singh, who succeeded to the gadi by the assassination of his brother. On the introduction of the British authority into Central India the mediation of the British Government was exercised to effect an arrangement for the payment of the tribute due to Sindhia. Talain and several other villages were made over to Sindhia in payment of all his claims against the Rawat and a written Agreement (No. CIV) was executed by the Rawat giving to the British Government alone the right to mediate in the affairs of the principality. Another Agreement (No. CV) was mediated between the Rawat and the Puar of Dewas for the settlement of the Rawat's claims on the Dewas district of Sarangpur. These claims were to a share in the land revenue amounting in some villages to a fourth and in others to a third, a corresponding share in the sayar and transit duties, and an indefinite proportion of rent-free lands in every village. The claims on the land revenue were commuted to an annual payment of Bhopal Rupees 4,101, and the other claims to a payment of Rupees 1,001.

In 1831 Rawat Nawal Singh committed suicide, and was succeeded by his nephew Moti Singh. At his urgent entreaty Sindhia restored Talain on the condition (No. CVI) that he would pay the former tribute of Rupees 85,000.

In 1846, in consequence of the mismanagement of Moti Singh, the British Government interfered to settle the administration of Rajgarh. This was ostensibly undertaken by Khok Singh, the uncle of the Chief, aided by Ram Lal as Diwan, who indeed was the virtual manager. The latter in November 1847 accidentally lost his life, and the territory was then placed under the management of an officer subordinate to the Political Agent at Bhopal. The Chiefship was restored to Moti Singh in 1856 free of debt, on the express understanding that the revenue leases which had been made for twenty years should be maintained.

In 1871 Moti Singh openly announced his conversion to the Mussalman religion and took the name of Muhammad Abdul Wasih Khan. He received the title of Nawab from the British Government in 1872. In 1875 he went on a pilgrimage to Mecca.

In 1880 the State abolished all transit duties on salt passing through its territories (No. CVII) and received as compensation from the British Government 150 maunds of salt annually, to be delivered at Indore free of cost. In 1881 this compensation was, in common with the payments in kind made to other States in the same circumstances, commuted to an annual payment of Rupees 618-12-0 (No. CVIII).

Nawab Muhammad Abdul Wasih Khan died in October 1880, and was succeeded by his son Bakhtawar Singh, who, notwithstanding his own adherence to the Hindu faith, retained all the Muhammadan officials appointed by his father. He died in November 1882, when his son, Bal Bahadur Singh, aged 24 years, succeeded him. On the occasion of Bal Bahadur Singh's installation the young Rawat and other members of the Rajgarh family were, by the help of the Chiefs of Narsingarh and Khilohpur, again admitted to the brotherhood of their caste—a concession which the late Chief had shown much anxiety to secure. In November 1885, on the occasion of the Viceroy's visit to Indore, the hereditary title of Raja was conferred on the Rawat.

On the 1st January 1884 the Rajgarh State abolished all transit duties within its territory, with the exception of that on opium (No. CIX).

The Raja pays a tribute of 85,000 Chanderi Rupees to Sindhia on account of Talain Pargana, and also 1,050 Kota Rupees to the Jhalawar Chief for Kalipit. He receives from Sindhia Hali Rupees 3,187 annually. Reports of crime are furnished by the Darbar to the Political Agent, and the tribute to Sindhia is paid through him.

The area of Rajgarh is 642 square miles; the population, according to the census of 1891, was 118,749; and the revenue is about Rupees 3,50,000. The military force consisted in 1890 of 240 cavalry, 360 infantry, and 2 serviceable guns with 12 gunners. The Chief receives a salute of 11 guns.

4. NARSINGARH.

Parsuram, the founder of the Rajput State of Narsingarh, succeeded his father Ajab Singh in 1660 as minister to the Rawat of Rajgarh. In 1681 he compelled the Rawat to divide his territory with him; Narsingarh thus became a separate Chiefship.

In 1819 Chain Singh succeeded his father Subhag Singh as Chief of Narsingarh. Owing to a difference with the Political Agent at Sehore, he attacked the British forces near that place, and was killed in the engagement. Chain Singh's widow adopted Hanwant Singh who died in March 1873, when his grandson Partab Singh, then 23 years of age, was recognised as his successor. On this occasion Holkar demanded succession nazarana, but his claim was not admitted by Government.

Partab Singh died without issue in April 1890, and was succeeded by his uncle Mahtab Singh, the present Chief, with the consent of the Government of India.

The hereditary title of Raja was conferred on the Chief and his heirs by the Government of India in May 1872.

Narsingarh pays a tribute of Hali Rupees 85,000 to Holkar under the mediation (No. CX) of the British Government. The Chief receives a tankha of Hali Rupees 1,200 from Sindhia, and another of Rupees 5,102 from Dewas under British mediation (Note to CV). The tankha from Sindhia is paid through the Political Agent and that from Dewas direct; no deductions are made from these tankhas.

In 1880 the State abolished all transit duties on salt passing through its territories (No. CXI) and received as compensation from the British Government 150 maunds of salt annually, to be delivered at Indore free of cost. In 1881 this compensation, in common with the similar payments in kind made to other States, was commuted to an annual money payment of Rupees 618-12-0 (No. CXII).

On the 1st January 1884 the Narsingarh State abolished all transit duties within its territory with the exception of that on opium (No. CXIII), and in the same year he contributed Rupees 56,000 towards the construction of the Biaora-Sehore Road which passes through his capital.

The area of Narsingarh is 720 square miles; the population in 1891 was 113,985; and the revenue about Rupees 4,00,000. In 1890 the military establishment consisted, including irregulars, of 318 cavalry, 450 infantry, 8 guns classed as serviceable, and 24 gunners. The Raja has offered to place the services of himself and all his people at the disposal of the Government of India for Imperial purposes. The Chief receives a salute of 11 guns.

5. KHILCHIPUR.

The first member of the Khilchipur family who settled at the capital was named Ugar Sen; he founded the Khilchipur branch of the Khichi clan of Rajputs in the year 1544, being compelled to leave his ancestral home at Man Gagrion by the Emperor Humayun of Delhi. The representative of the family accorded allegiance to the Mahratta rulers and became tributary to Maharaja Sindhia in the year 1793.

On the death in 1819 of Diwan Durjan Sal, Chief of Khilchipur, his mother and widow placed in power a youth named Balwant Singh, whose claim to the succession was inferior to that of many other members of the family and particularly of Aman Singh. The different claimants appealed to the Gwalior Darbar, which requested that the case might be decided by the British Government. Aman Singh was proved to be the nearest heir, but as he was at feud with the other branches of the family, it was decided in 1819 (No. CXIV) that his infant son Sher Singh should succeed under the nominal supremacy of the elder Rani, the mother of Durjan Sal. On this occasion the Gwalior Darbar voluntarily remitted the nazarana which they were entitled to claim.

Sher Singh was succeeded in 1869 by his nephew Amar Singh, then aged thirty-five, whose adoption had previously been recognised by the Gwalior Darbar and confirmed by the British Government. The title of "Rao Bahadur" was conferred on the Chief in April 1873 as a hereditary distinction by the Government of India.

The Chief pays a tribute of Hali Rupees 13,138 to Sindhia (No. CXV of 1844) through the Political Agent at Bhopal. In 1884 he remitted all transit dues except those on opium.

The area of Khilchipur is 204 square miles; the population by the census of 1891 is 37,869; the revenue is about Rupees 2,50,000. The military establishment maintained in 1890 consisted of 45 horsemen, 202 infantry, 2 guns, and 12 gunners. The Chief receives a salute of 9 guns.

6. LARAWAT (LAPSED STATE).

In 1818 this Chiefship was granted (No. CXVI), under the mediation of the British Government, to Vithal Rao Puar. The deed conferred on the grantee the shares of Dhar and Dewas in the district of Sundarsi. In 1834 on the death of Vithal Rao Puar, the succession of his son Madho Rao was not disputed; but when the latter died in 1849, leaving illegitimate sons only, the estate was claimed as a lapse by Dhar. It was decided that the estate was an escheat and lapsed to Dhar and Dewas. The estate was, however, continued for life in 1850 to the eldest illegitimate son Ramchandrar Rao, subject to an annual payment to Dhar and Dewas of Rupees 1,000 under the joint Sanad (No. CXVII) of the Dhar and Dewas Darbars. The tribute was paid in the following proportions:—

Dhar	Rupees	666	10	8
							<hr/>

Owing to the incapacity of Ramchandrar Rao, Larawat was taken under British management, the surplus revenue after payment of all charges being made over to him. He died in November 1879, when under the terms of the Sanad of 1850 (No. CXVII) the estate lapsed to the Chiefs of Dhar and Dewas.

The taluka was formally made over to these Darbars on the 9th March 1880, under an arrangement that its revenue was to be distributed in the same proportion as was the tribute formerly paid by the deceased Puar, viz., two-thirds to the Dhar Darbar and one-third to Dewas.

A subsistence allowance of Rupees 200 per month was granted by Dhar and Dewas, at the instance of the Government of India, to Vithal Rao Puar for the support of himself and the remaining members of the family, and was paid through the Bhopal Political Agency. Vithal Rao died without issue on the 16th September 1887, but left two widows and six other dependents. For the support of these persons the Dhar and Dewas (senior branch) States pay (1892) through the Political Agent, Bhopal, a monthly allowance of Rupees 98 in fixed proportions, on the understanding that each stipend will lapse on the death of its present recipient.

The area of the estate is 30 square miles; the population 2,900; and the revenue Rupees 7,000.

7. PATHARI.

The Nawab is a descendant of Dost Muhammad, the founder of the Bhopal family. He formerly held certain villages in the Rahatgarh district of which he was deprived by the Maharaja Sindhia. But in 1794 the estate was, through the mediation of the British Government (No. CXVIII), restored to Haidar Muhammad Khan, being composed of the villages included in the estate as at present constituted. The present Nawab Abdul Karim Khan succeeded his father Haidar Muhammad Khan in 1861, being then five years of age. He pays no tribute to any State.

In 1871 the mismanagement of the Nawab's mother who had been appointed Regent compelled Government to take the estate under management during the unexpired portion of the minority of the Nawab. Its finances are in an unsatisfactory condition, and its affairs still require (1892) the close attention of the Political Agent of Bhopal.

On the 1st June 1884 the Nawab abolished all transit duties in his State.

The area of Pathari is 22 square miles; the population (1891) is 4,762; and the estimated revenue is Rupees 12,000.

8. AGRA BARKHERA.*

The Thakur receives, under a Settlement (No. CXIX) made with Thakur Nirbhaj Singh in 1818 a tankha of Rupees 300 from Kurwai through the Political Agent of Bhopal. He holds a grant of twelve villages in Sindhia's territory, and pays annually Rupees 1,001 as quit-rent direct to Sindhia (No. CXX). The family also held the grant of twenty-eight villages in the Sironj district under British recognition; but these, as well as the grant from Sindhia, were confiscated for the rebellion in 1857 of Chhatar Sal, who was then Thakur. The sanads were lost during the rebellion, but copies of them were subsequently discovered, and these have been verified and acknowledged by the Gwalior Darbar (Nos. CXXI to CXXVI).

By Sanad No. CXXI certain hereditary village rights are granted to the Thakur; by Sanad No. CXXII he received three villages in jagir to defray his palki expenses; by Sanad No. CXXIII he receives an annuity of Rupees 75 from three villages in the Shamshabad pargana; by Sanad No. CXXIV he receives a tankha of Rupees 444 a year. Sanad No. CXXV is a confirmation by Jankoji Rao Sindhia of the grants made to the Thakur in the foregoing sanads by Daulat Rao Sindhia. Sanad No. CXXVI is a grant of five villages on an istimrari tenure of Rupees 1,501.

The villages included in Sindhia's territory were restored and re-granted by the Government in July 1859 to Balwant Singh. In his administration the Thakur is subordinate to the Political Agent alone, who exercises a close supervision over his affairs.

Thakur Balwant Singh, who was old and decrepit, died on the 14th December 1891, and was succeeded, with the sanction of the Government of India, by Baldeo Singh, then about 18 years old. The administration of the Thakurate for the present (1892) remains under the control of the Political Agent owing to the debts contracted by the late Thakur.

The revenue of Agra Barkhera is about Rupees 7,000; and the population in 1891 was 7,406.

9. DHABLA DHIR AND KAKAR KHERI.*

The Thakur, Chand Singh, receives the following tankhas which are paid through the Political Agent of Bhopal, none of the States being allowed to make any deductions from them:—

From Holkar (No. CXXVII)	Rupees	600
„ Sindhia (No. CXXVIII)	„	2,800
„ „ (No. CXXIX)	„	150
„ Dewas (No. CXXX)	„	100
„ Bhopal (No. CXXXI)	„	600
	Rupees	4,250

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 12 of Schedule No. II, and No. 29 of Schedule No. III.

The Thakur in addition to these tankhas holds the grant (No. CXXXII) of three villages in Shujawalpur (Gwalior) under the guarantee of the British Government, and pays a quit-rent of Rupees 1,401 annually. In his administration he is subordinate to the Political Agent of Bhopal, and no direct interference by any State is admitted.

In 1818 Dhabla Dhir and Kakar Kheri, which some years before had been jointly held by Gudar Singh, had become divided and separated under his sons Subhag Singh and Lal Singh, the former being the founder of the Dhabla Dhir branch. Subhag Singh, with whom the settlement was made in 1818, died in 1855, and was succeeded by his nephew and adopted son Raghunath Singh, whose brother Chand Singh succeeded to Kakar Kheri.

In 1871 Thakur Raghunath Singh was convicted of a criminal offence and sentenced to transportation for life. By his transportation the family of Subhag Singh became extinct, as sanction to adopt an heir was refused to his wives in consequence of their guilty cognizance of his crime. Government, however, did not treat the estate as an escheat, but allowed it to descend in the same way as it would have done had Gudar Singh been alive. By this decision both branches of the family have been united in the person of Chand Singh of Kakar Kheri.

The title of Chand Singh to the tankha of Rupees 600 per annum received by his predecessor Raghunath Singh was questioned by Holkar on the ground that the tankha was a stipendiary service allowance, but Government decided that there was nothing in the sanad to Subhag Singh to justify that view, and that in pursuance of its general policy in respect to all guaranteed holdings, Government must be the judge whether the circumstances of any case allowed of forfeiture.

Thakur Chand Singh also holds under an Agreement (see third footnote to No. CXXXVII), mediated in 1831 and guaranteed by the British Government, the village of Sadan Kheri in Shujawalpur (Gwalior), on a quit-rent of Rupees 175, subject to a deduction of 2 per cent., or Rupees 3-8-0, on the transfer of the pargana to Sindhia.

A tankha of Rupees 800 (No. CXXXIII) was formerly paid to the family of Subhag Singh. This agreement, which is signed by the British authorities, also recognises the grant of Kakar Kheri to the family of Lal Singh, whose representative Chand Singh now is.

The population of this little Thakurat was 2,001 according to the census of 1891, and the revenue is estimated at about Rupees 10,000 a year. The area is 10 square miles.

10. DARIA KHERI.*

The Thakur receives the following tankha under a settlement made by the British Government in 1818:—

From Sindhia (No. CXXXIV) Rupees	2,900
„ „ (see note to No. CXXIX) ...	„	180
„ Dewas (No. CXXXV) ...	„	200
„ Bhopal (No. CXXXVI) ...	„	1,200
Total Rupees		4,480

The tankhas are held on the same conditions as in the case of Dhabla Dhir (No. 9) and the relations of the Thakur to the respective Darbars and to the Political Agent of Bhopal are the same.

The Thakur holds also the grant (No. CXXXVII) of two villages in Shujawalpur (Gwalior) under the guarantee of the British Government, and pays a quit-rent which formerly amounted to Rupees 925. On the death in 1870 of Thakur Sheodhan Singh, grandfather of the present Thakur, the Gwalior Darbar wished to resume these villages, but at the instance of the Government of India it continued the grant on an increased quit-rent of Rupees 1,075.

The late Thakur Ranjit Singh died on the 9th April 1888, and was succeeded by his son Unkar Singh, the quit-rent being increased, after some correspondence, to Rupees 1,275 a year, with the sanction of the Government of India.

The population of Daria Kheri was 473 by the census of 1891, and the Thakur's income is about Rupees 7,500 a year. The area of the estate is six square miles.

11. KAMALPUR.†

The Thakur of Kamalpur receives the following tankhas from Sindhi under agreements mediated in 1818:—

Under Agreement No. CXXXIV (1st annexure) ...	Rupees	4,300
„ „ No. CXXIX (1st „) ...	„	300
Total Rupees		4,600

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 9 of Schedule No. II.

† Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 10 of Schedule No. II.

The conditions of the tankhas and the relations of the Thakur to the Chief and to the British authorities are the same as in the case of Dhabla Dhir (No. 9). The Thakur also holds a village in Shujawalpur under British guarantee (1st annexure to No. CXXXVII) on a quit-rent which was then (1831) fixed at Rupees 700, but this amount was increased in 1884 under the sanction of the Government of India to Rupees 1,750 per annum.

Udaiji, with whom the engagements of 1818 were made, was succeeded by his son Jujhar Singh, on whose death in 1828 the Political Agent in Bhopal, without reference to Government, recognised as his successor Moti Singh, whom the widow had adopted, and assigned Rupees 3,100 of the tankha to Moti Singh, and the remainder to the widow. The young Thakur fell into debt, and Sir R. Hamilton, the Agent to the Governor-General, of his own authority reduced the widow's allowance to Rupees 600, and assigned the other Rupees 900 for payment of the debts. But it was ruled that although the original assignment to the widow in 1828 had not received the sanction of Government, still, as it had been enjoyed for more than twenty years, it should not have been altered without reference to Government. The full allowance was therefore restored to the widow. It is paid through the Political Agent.

Moti Singh died on the 11th October 1881, and was succeeded by his adopted son Madan Singh, with the sanction of the British Government, and the consent of the Gwalior Darbar.

The population of Kamalpur was 756 by the census of 1891, and the Thakur's yearly receipts are estimated at Rupees 10,680.

12. DHABLA GHOSI.*

From Sindbia (No. CXXXIV) Rupees 2,300
„ „ (No. CXXIX) „ 300
„ „ (No. CXXXVIII) „ 1,400
„ Dewas (No. CXXXIX) „ 100
„ Bhopal (No. CXL) „ 900
	<hr/>

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 11 of Schedule No. II.

The conditions of the tankhas and the feudal relations of the Chief are the same as in the case of Dhabla Dhir (No. 9). The Thakur holds (second annexure to No. CXXXVII) a village in Shujawalpur on a quit-rent of Rupees 1,050. The present Thakur Gopal Singh succeeded Govardhan Singh in 1854.

The population was 869 by the census of 1891, and the Thakur's annual receipts are about Rupees 9,500.

13. KHARSIA.

The Thakur of Kharsia receives from Sindhia a tankha of Hali Rupees 1,750 under an Engagement (No. CXLI) mediated in 1818. The conditions of the tankha and the relations of the Thakur are the same as in the case of Dhabla Dhir (No. 9), but no village goes with the tankha in the case of Kharsia.

Thakur Balwant Singh and Hate Singh, Thakur of Jhalera (No. 14), receive annually under an Engagement (note to No. LXV) granted by Tukaji Rao Puar, Chief of Dewas, Senior Branch, an allowance of Rupees 225 (see Indore). Balwant Singh of Kharsia succeeded in 1876, and Hate Singh of Jhalera in 1884.

In 1891 the census of Kharsia was taken by the Indore Darbar, with the consent of the Government of India, and the population was included in the Darbar's return.

14. JHALERA.*

The Thakur of Jhalera receives from Sindhia a tankha (see annexure to No. CXLI) of Hali Rupees 1,200 which was originally granted to Fateh Singh, and a moiety of Rupees 225 per annum granted by the senior Chief of Dewas under Sanad No. LXV to the Thakur of Kharsia (No. 13). In all the conditions of his tankha he holds the same position as his kinsman of Kharsia. As in the case of Kharsia no village or land accompanies the tankha. The present Thakur, Hate Singh, succeeded in 1884.

15. HIRAPUR.†

The Thakur of Hirapur receives the following tankhas under engagements mediated in 1819 :—

From Holkar (No. CXLII) Rupees 3,339
„ Sindhia (No. CXLIII) „ 2,910
„ Bhopal (No. CXLIV) „ 200
Total Rupees		6,449

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 21 of Schedule No. II.

† Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 13 of Schedule No. II, and Nos. 21 and 30 of Schedule No. III.

Since the transfer of the Nimar district to the British Government in 1860 the Rao has received Rupees 2,182-4-10 of his tankha of Rupees 2,910 from the British Government, and the balance from the Gwalior Darbar.

In other respects he holds the same position as Dhabla Dhir (No. 9). The Rao also holds (No. CXLV) Hirapur and Erwas on an istimrari rent of Rupees 600 each under Holkar. Moreover, he received a grant from Sindhia of the village of Kerokal and a grant from Dhar of sixteen villages in Makrar subject to a payment of Rupees 1,001 a year; but of this engagement no trace is to be found, nor has the annual payment of Rupees 1,001 ever been made to Dhar.

Bhairon Singh died without issue in 1826 and was succeeded by his adopted son Ram Singh. The present Thakur, Chhatar Singh, succeeded Ram Singh in 1841.

The population of the estate is said to be about 1,000, and the yearly receipts of the Thakur are estimated at about Rupees 11,500. As in the case of Kharsia (13) the census of 1891 was taken by the Indore Darbar.

16. RAMGARH.*

From Holkar	(No. CXLVI)	Rupees	1,000
" Sindhia	(No. CXLI)	"	5,000
" "	(No. CXXIX)	"	415
" "	(No. CXXXVIII)	"	1,400
" Dewas	(No. CXXX)	"	100
" Bhopal	(No. CXLVII)	"	700

Total Rupees 8,615

The tankhas are held on the same conditions as in the case of Dhabla Dhir (No. 9), and the relations of the tankhadar to the several Chiefs and to the British authorities are the same. The Dewas State deducts one rupee from its tankha. The original tankhadar was Khushal Singh. His son Isri Singh was succeeded by an adopted son Kumer Singh who was convicted of murder and forfeited his tankha. It was continued, however, to his adoptive mother, Thakurani Solankni, till her death which occurred in 1863, when Man Singh, the son of Khuman Singh, was recognised as her successor.

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 6 of Schedule No. II.

No village or land is attached to this tankha. In 1891 it was included for census purposes in the returns of the Rajgarh State.

17. SUTALIA.

The jagirdar pays under a guarantee (No. CXLVIII) which was mediated by the British authorities a tankha of Rupees 3,400 to the Raja of Rajgarh, in which State he holds a lease of twelve villages. Like the Rajgarh Chief he is an Umat Rajput. The original settlement was made with Balwant Singh, who was succeeded in the jagir by his son Mokaud Singh, who again was succeeded by his adopted son Sheodhan Singh. Sheodhan Singh died in July 1881, when Madho Singh, his son, became jagirdar.

Madho Singh was Naib Suba of Agar under Sindhia, but resigned the appointment on his succession to the jagir. He died in August 1886, and was succeeded by his son Shambhu Singh, then eight years old. His grandmother (mother of Madho Singh) was appointed to administer the jagir during his minority under the supervision of the Political Agent of Bhopal. This arrangement still (1892) continues.

The population of Sutalia was 5,067 by the census of 1891, and the yearly receipts are estimated at Rupees 20,000.

18. JABRIA BHIL—THE PINDARA JAGIRS.*

On the settlement of Malwa Rajan Khan, brother of the notorious Pindari, Chitu, was allowed to settle at Gorakhpur on an annual pension of Sonat Rupees 3,600. A few years afterwards he was allowed to return to Malwa, and his pension was commuted in 1826 to an assignment (No. CXLIX) of land in Shujawalpur (Gwalior) for his life. The grant consisted of a jagir of three villages, Piplianagar, Khajuria, and Jabria Bhil, and an istimrari farm of Dugri and Jabri at a rent for the two villages of Rupees 500. He was afterwards assured that in consideration of his past good conduct, and if he should continue by similar behaviour to merit the indulgence, the circumstances of his family would receive favourable consideration after his death.

In 1831 the pargana of Eastern Shujawalpur, in which the villages granted to Rajan Khan are situated, was transferred by the Government of India to Sindhia in exchange for other lands (vide Gwalior).

* See Gwalior Narrative.

Rajan Khan died during the negotiations for the exchange ; but the villages were continued in jagir to his family, and the Gwalior Darbar was required to respect the grant. The villages were divided among Rajan Khan's five sons as follows, the group of estates being distinguished as the Pindara jagirs :—

(1) Jabria Bhil and Jabri fell to Raj Bakhsh. He died in 1874 and was succeeded by his son Jamal Bakhsh. In 1879, in consequence of numerous complaints of maladministration, it was found necessary to take the estate under the management of the Bhopal Agency, an allowance of Rupees 200 a month being made to Jamal Bakhsh out of its revenues. It was restored to him in 1881 ; he died in 1886, and was succeeded by his nephew, Yusuf Muhammad, who was then 15 years old. It was settled that the management of the property should be conducted by an amin to be appointed by the Political Agent until the close of the minority. This arrangement still (1892) continues, but its revision is under consideration. The population of Jabria Bhil and Jabri was 1,028 by the census of 1891, and the Thakur's revenue is estimated at about Rupees 5,000. The area of the estate is 2·68 square miles.

(2) Khajuria was the portion of Ilahi Bakhsh. He died in 1859 and was succeeded by his posthumous son Karim Bakhsh. During his minority the estate was placed in charge of his mother ; but in consequence of her mismanagement the estate was in 1871 placed under the superintendence of the Political Agent, Bhopal, an allowance of Rupees 100 a month being made to Karim Bakhsh from its revenues. All the debts having been cleared by 1881, Karim Bakhsh was put in charge of the estate. The population was 587 at the census of 1891, and the revenue is about Rupees 2,400 a year.

(3) Dugri was the share of Madur Bakhsh. He died in 1883 and was succeeded by his grandson Khuda Bakhsh. Dugri yields about Rupees 1,500 per annum. The population was 237 according to the 1891 census.

(4) Piplianagar went to Makhdum Bakhsh and Rahim Bakhsh. The latter died in 1892, and was succeeded in his share of the estate by his eldest son Raja Mian. The population was 638 by the census of 1891, and the revenue is about Rupees 2,000 a year.

Questions of succession to these jagirs, which are under the immediate supervision and control of the Political Agent, Bhopal, are decided by the British Government and the decision is communicated to Sindhia.

The engagements with the following Chiefs under the Bhopal Agency, who are stated in Malcolm's Report on Malwa to have received guarantees from the British Government, are not forthcoming:—

19. BALWANT SINGH.*

This Chief, who was a Girasia of the Solanki clan of Rajputs and who held the fortress of Chandwar near Satanbari, in Pargana Bairsia, (Bhopal) received four half-assessed villages in that pargana which he subsequently resigned; and five villages in jagir from Bhopal, viz., Chandawar, Ghawar, Magardhi Bara, Magardhi Chhota, and Manpura. He was succeeded in the jagir by his son Gobardhan Singh who had three sons, Gopal Singh, Bhawani Singh, and Suraj Mal. Gopal Singh rebelled in 1857, and the jagir was allowed to pass to Bhawani Singh.

20. LACHHMAN SINGH AND ISRI SINGH.†

These two Chiefs, who were Solanki Girasias, descended from Ratan Singh of Satanbari in the Bairsia pargana of Bhopal, were cousins and held seven half-assessed villages in Bairsia, which they afterwards relinquished with exception of one village, Jhirnia. They also held in Bhopal a jagir of three villages, viz., Achera, Rawatkhera, and Manakhera. Lachhman Singh was succeeded by his younger brother Zalim Singh, and he by his son Bairi Sal. Isri Singh was succeeded by his son Sheo Singh, who, dying childless, was succeeded by his cousin Bholaji.

21. ZALIM SINGH.‡

This Chief was descended from Bishan Singh of the Khilchipur family, who was the original jagirdar (see sub Khilchipur). The jagir originally consisted of twelve villages which were subsequently divided among Bishan Singh's descendants; Hamir Singh, the father of Zalim Singh, receiving Paprel as his share.

Paprel was confirmed in Zalim Singh's possession by Major Henley, Political Agent, Bhopal, at the establishment of British supremacy in Bhopal in 1818. He was succeeded by his son Umar Singh.

TRANSLATION of a LETTER from MAJOR HENLEY to the NAWAB of KOORWEY, dated 7th December 1820.

After compliments.—Having received a representation through the medium of your Agent here transmitted under your orders, I have accordingly, my friend, in compliance with your request and for your satisfaction, annexed my answer to the two articles of reference it contained.

ARTICLE 1ST.

“The country which is now in possession of my master the Nawab Akbar Khan to be confirmed to him, his heirs, and successors by an appropriate Sunnud to be granted him.”

REPLY.

At the time of the establishment of the authority of the Hon'ble Company in Malwa in the year 1817 corresponding with the month Magh 1225 Fussilee Sumbhut 1874, the Pergunnahs of Koorwey Laonra and Surwassa with Kirwar were in the possession of the Nawab Akbar Khan, having been held by him for twenty-four years since the death of his father the Nawab Hoormat Khan; and it having been determined by the Company's Government to preserve the order of things which existed at the abovenamed period of its occupation, how therefore should the possessions which then appertained to the Nawab not descend to his heirs and successors? Respecting the Sunnud, in a possession which belongs to the Nawab and not to the Hon'ble Company, it would be inapplicable and is not requisite.

ARTICLE 2ND.

“Any of the brethren, kindred, subjects, or debtors of the Nawab who in opposition to his authority may prefer complaints are not to be received.”

REPLY.

From a State not appertaining to the Hon'ble Company it is not customary for the officers of the Company's Government to attend to representations preferred in opposition to the ruling authority of such State. In the case of the claims preferred by Eradut Khan, the brother of the Nawab, they were advantageously settled in order to the prevention of future disputes according to advice given at the Nawab's solicitation.

TRANSLATION of an AGREEMENT on the part of RAWUT NEWUL SING, Rajghur.

Seal of RAWUT NEWUL SING.

Whereas from old a determined tunkha or tribute has been paid to the Maharajah Alijah Soubadar Dowlut Rao Sindia Bahadoor by Rajghur, and whereas for two or three years past this tribute has not been regularly discharged and above Rupees 16,000, due on account of the present year, and still unpaid, I have now of my own accord and pleasure (in order that the tribute may henceforth be liquidated, and that no cause of delay or dispute may exist) resolved to separate and assign villages of Rajghur, according to a schedule herewith annexed, to the kamaisdar of Atmaram Punth in order that the tribute to the Maharajah may be realized from the revenues of these villages, and that no cause of blame or shadow of claim may in future exist; and through my desire to please the Maharajah I have separated the after-mentioned villages and made them over, along with the sayer and rights of every description thereunto attached, to the kamaisdar of Atmaram Punth from the commencement of the Fuslee year 1227, and I will not in any manner hereafter interfere with them or their inhabitants.

And whereas the abovementioned villages being generally much out of cultivation and possessing but a stinted population, the expense of management and sebandee will be great, the same must be provided from their revenue; for with this or any other claim respecting them I have henceforth no concern. And whatever omissions of tribute there may have been on my part previous to the year 1826, I consider myself absolved from the same in consequence of the present cession.

I hereby under the foregoing considerations also agree to resign all claim to those sums on account of tunkha, bhett, &c., which, through the favour of the Maharajah, my ancestors and I have been in the habit of receiving from the pergunnahs of Shujawulpore and Shahjehanpore.

And whereas by concluding this agreement I have conformed to the pleasure of the Maharajah Dowlut Rao Sindia, as well as provided in future for the regular payment of the tunkha and obviated all causes of complaint hereafter on either side, the Maharajah accordingly has graciously restored and confirmed to me the remaining part of my possessions (including the fort of Rajghur) which had been attached in consequence of the delays and subterfuges that had occurred in the payment of the tribute.

TRANSLATION of an AGREEMENT by the RAWUT NEWUL SING of Rajghur, dated 1st Chait Soodee 1876 Sumbut.

Seal of the RAWUT NEWUL SING.

Whereas it was settled with Kristnajeet Pundit that the tribute from Rajghur to the Maharajah Alijah Dowlut Rao Sindia should, for the present, or Fuslee year 1226, be Rupees 23,000; and whereas Rupees 6,045 of the above sum has been paid through Kristnajeet Pundit, it is now agreed that I should pay the remainder or Rupees 16,955 by giving a banker's acknowledgment for the same amount.

Whatever sums may justly be due and forthcoming from the villages now made over, on account of balances for the present year, shall be carried to my credit, and a corresponding deduction made from the amount for which the acknowledgment has been given.

TRANSLATION of a PROVISIONAL AGREEMENT concluded by the RAWUT NEWUL SING of Rajghur, dated 1st Chait Soodee 1876 Sumbut.

The seal of the RAWUT NEWUL SING.

The Rawut Newul Sing of Rajghur has concluded, through the mediation of Captain W. Henley, the following Agreement with the British Government:—

Whatever disputes shall arise between the Rawut and the neighbouring States, or between his subjects and those of the surrounding countries, shall be referred for settlement to the nearest British authority in Malwa, without whose acquiescence the Rawut will not attempt to settle anything of this nature, but will accede to his arbitration and conform to his injunctions.

Any thieves, robbers, and plunderers who may be found within the bounds of the State of Rajgarh shall be apprehended and, if required, sent to the nearest British authority in Malwa; and should the Rawut not apprehend any thief, robber, or defaulter so demanded, who it may be ascertained has been sheltered in one of his villages, such village shall be liable to forfeiture.

TRANSLATION of an ENGAGEMENT executed to the SOUBADAR by DEWAN SOBHAG SING and KOONWUR CHAEN SING, of SOOB-
STAN, NURSINGURH.

Whereas the above Soobstan was always assessed at Salim Sahi rupees 85,000 per annum; and whereas the Pindaree troops having entered the country laid waste the pergunnah, and the people, in consequence, deserted the place; and whereas we, being unable to pay the revenue and to meet the necessary expenses of the Soobstan, brought the matter to the notice of the Circar; the Circar, in consideration of the aforesaid circumstances, and with a view to the improvement of the pergunnah, has directed the payment of the revenue for six years according to the following instalments, viz.—

	Rs.
In 1875 Sumbut	25,000
„ 1876 „	35,000
„ 1877 „	48,000
„ 1878 „	60,000
„ 1879 „	72,000
„ 1880 „	85,000
	Rupees 3,25,000

Therefore we shall, as ordered, pay without any objection, year after year, the above amount of Rupees three lakhs and twenty-five thousand, which includes the expenses of the mehal, in six years according to the said instalments commencing on the 15th Kartick Soodee and ending on the 15th Bysack Soodee.

TRANSLATION of a PERWANNAH from MULHAR RAO HOLKAR to DEWAN SOBHAG SING and KOONWUR CHAEN SING of SOOB-
STAN, NURSINGURH.

Whereas the above Soobstan was assessed at Rupees 85,000 per annum, but in consequence of the passing and repassing of the Pindaree troops through the mehal it was laid waste; and whereas you, with a view to bring the matter to the notice of the Circar, deputed Roop Ram Bohora, who, on arrival, represented that, as the mehal was desolated, there was no means of discharging the revenue due to the Circar, amounting to Rupees 85,000, and also requested that the Circar might graciously be pleased to take the above sum by instalments every year so that the mehal might be improved; and whereas it is necessary to realize the revenue of the Soobstan as usual, yet having regard to the fact that the pergunnah has been laid waste, and in consideration of the representation made by you, as well as with a view to the improvement of the mehal, it has been decided, in the presence of the said Roop Ram Bohora, that the yearly revenue of the mehal shall be paid in the following progressive payments, so that the amount of rent in the 6th year shall be Salim Sahi Rupees 85,000 :—

	Rs.
In 1228 or 1875 Sumbut	25,000
„ 1229 or 1876 „	35,000
„ 1230 or 1877 „	48,000

„ 1233 or 1880 „	85,000
Total Rupees	3,25,000

Therefore, the sum of Salim Sahi Rupees three lakhs and twenty-five thousand having been fixed by the Circar as the aggregate amount of revenue for six years, this perwannah is given to you. You will therefore remit to the Circar the above amount of Salim Sahi Rupees three lakhs and twenty-five thousand according to the aforesaid instalments through the mamlidar, and take receipts for the same.

(IV.)—WESTERN MALWA AGENCY.

Besides the Treaty State of Jaora* there are in the Western Malwa Agency thirty-one Mediatized or Guaranteed Chiefs and Thakurs of more or less importance, all included within the Political control of the Commandant of the Central India Horse at Agar, who is ex-officio Political Agent for the Western Malwa Agency. The relations of these petty holders are complicated; and the supervision of their affairs, as in the case of similar tenures in other parts of the Central India Agency, is difficult and responsible.

1. JAORA.

Ghafur Khan, the first Nawab of Jaora, was brother-in-law of the predatory leader Amir Khan whom he represented at the Court of Holkar when Amir Khan quitted Malwa on his expeditions into Rajputana. The lands which had been assigned to him by Holkar were guaranteed to him by the 12th Article of the Treaty of Mandsaur (No. XLVII) on condition of his maintaining a body of 600 horse, the quota to be increased in proportion to the increasing revenue of his districts. Amir Khan himself claimed these lands, alleging that the grants had been made to him although Ghafur Khan's name was used, and that he was entitled to them by virtue of his engagements with the British Government. Enquiry, however, showed that Ghafur Khan held them on his own account as a member of Holkar's government, and that his real dependence on Amir Khan, which was the origin of his influence with Holkar, had ceased before the war of 1817. Amir Khan's claim was therefore rejected.

Ghafur Khan was succeeded in 1825 by his son Ghaus Muhammad Khan, who was then only two years of age. The arrangements for the management of the State were made by the British Government, but as Jaora was nominally subordinate to the Indore State, although really independent of it, the investiture of the infant Nawab was made in the name of Malhar Rao Holkar and confirmed by the British Government, and a nazarana of two lakhs of rupees was presented to Holkar. The elder widow of Ghafur Khan was appointed guardian with her son-in-law Jahangir Khan as her agent; and they were required to keep open accounts of the State revenues for the inspection of the Resident at Indore. Two years afterwards, in consequence of gross mismanagement and neglect of the Resident's advice, the Begam was removed from the guardianship. It was also decided that, in the event of Ghaus Muhammad's death, the male relatives of Ghafur Khan should succeed in preference to his descendants in the female line.

* NOTE.—The Treaty State of Dhar which belongs to the Bhopawar (formerly Bhil) Agency (g.v.) was described in the 1876 edition of the Treaties under the Western Malwa Agency. The narrative has now been included in the Bhopawar Section.

In 1823 the quota of troops to be maintained was permanently fixed (No. CL) at 500 horse, 500 foot, and four guns. In 1842 the above arrangement was commuted to a yearly contribution of Hali Rupees 1,85,810† when the Western Malwa Contingent, consisting of the troops furnished by Jaora, was amalgamated with the Eastern Malwa Contingent furnished by Holkar and Dewas. The contribution was reduced to Hali Rupees 1,61,810-4-0‡ in 1859 as a reward for the Nawab's services during the mutinies of 1857.

In 1862 the Government of India granted a sanad (see note to No. XCI), guaranteeing the succession to the State, according to Muhammadan law, in the event of the failure of natural heirs. In 1865 the Chief received permission from the Government of India to adopt the titles of "Ibtisham-ud-Daula" and "Firoz Jang" as personal distinctions.

Nawab Ghaus Muhammad Khan died in 1865, and the succession of his son Muhammad Ismail Khan, then eleven years of age, was recognised. It had been intended that during the minority the late Nawab's mother should be the nominal head of a Council of Regency; but her death occurred within a few days of that of her son, and it was decided that the administration of the State should be carried on as in the lifetime of the young Nawab's father, subject to the control and authority of the Political Agent in Western Malwa. The Nawab was accordingly installed by the British Government in the name of Holkar, to whom according to precedent a nazarana of two lakhs of rupees was presented by the Nawab. In return Maharaja Holkar offered a khilat of Rupees 5,000, but this, with the permission of the Government of India, was declined by the Nawab as being out of proportion to the nazarana.

Attempts were made by the Nawab of Tonk on behalf of his step-sister, the eldest widow of Nawab Ghaus Muhammad Khan, to interfere with the arrangements for the succession to, and the management of, the Jaora State. For these proceedings he incurred the severe displeasure of Government, and he was forbidden to send any one to Jaora or in any way to interfere with the affairs of that State.

† Equivalent to Government Rupees 1,82,614-4-0.

‡ " " Rupees 1,59,027-4-4.

Protests also were made by Holkar against the grant by the British Government of a sanad of succession and against the recognition and installation of the young Nawab without his (Holkar's) knowledge or consent. His claim to be consulted on the succession was untenable under Article 12 of the Treaty of Mandsaur by which the British Government distinctly guaranteed Jaora to Nawab Ghafur Khan and his heirs on certain conditions, and it would have been inconsistent with the provisions of that Article if Holkar had been allowed to intervene in the matter. The claim was also opposed to precedent as no such reference was made on the succession of Ghaus Muhammad Khan in 1825. Holkar's claims were therefore distinctly negatived, and his objections as regards the sanad of succession were viewed by Government with special dissatisfaction.

In 1874 Nawab Muhammad Ismail Khan, whose education had been supervised by a British officer specially deputed for the purpose, and who had attained his majority, was entrusted with the administration of his State, Hazrat Nur Khan, C.S.I., his father's chief adviser, remaining as minister.

In 1881 the Nawab dispensed with the services of Hazrat Nur Khan and wished to assume the sole management of the State himself, but on the advice of the British authorities a council of four was appointed to assist him in conducting the public business. The Nawab, however, objected to their attempt to control his expenditure, and the councillors gradually withdrew from their position of advisers, with the result that in 1885 the State finances showed a debt of over sixteen lakhs of Rupees. A new minister was appointed, and a loan of three lakhs, bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, was made to the State by the British Government. It was expected in 1890 that the loan would be repaid by the end of the current year (1892) and that the State would be free from all debt by the end of 1895.

In 1881 an Agreement (No. CLI) was made between the British Government and the Nawab for the abolition of all transit duties on salt passing through the Jaora State. By this Agreement the British Government undertakes to pay to Jaora a sum of Rupees 2,500 annually as compensation for the loss thereby caused to the State revenues. This sum is paid through the Political Agent, Western Malwa.

In 1883 a son was born to the Nawab, and was recognised by Government as his successor in the State.

In February 1887 the Nawab abolished all transit duties throughout his State, except on opium, on the occasion of the Jubilee of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen-Empress of India. Jaora contains the best poppy-growing lands in Malwa and yields annually about 1,850 maunds of opium.

The area of Jaora is 581 square miles; the population by the census of 1891 is 117,650; and the revenue is about Rupees 9,60,000. In 1890 the Jaora military establishment, including irregulars, consisted of 63 cavalry, 715 infantry, 15 guns classed as serviceable, and 70 gunners. The Nawab was made an Honorary Major in the British Army in 1881, and receives a salute of 13 guns.

The Malhargarh Thakurs.

In 1821 Agreements (No. CLII) were mediated between the Nawab and the Thakurs of Malhargarh for 7 villages; between the Nawab and Thakur Unkar Singh of Sanauda for 9 villages; between the Nawab and the Zamindar of Tal for 13½ villages; and between the Nawab and Thakur Chhatar Singh for 2 villages. About the same period similar agreements were mediated between the Jaora Darbar and other Thakurs by British officers, the existence of some of which has only recently been brought to light. Accounts of the Thakurs in question and of the nature of their holdings and agreements will be found later.

The Thakurs of Malhargarh claimed the position of tributary jagirdars, but they are merely guaranteed lessees of the villages in their hands, the continuance of their holding being dependent on their observance of the terms of their lease. Moreover, it has been agreed that the rent is, according to established general custom, liable to increase from time to time, with reference to the value of the lands. The Government of India has finally decided that this is their position.

The Thakurs being recalcitrant and having refused to accept a liberal settlement for 50 years offered to them by the Nawab, it was found necessary in 1885 to allow the Darbar to attach the villages of the Thakurs of Harsor and Manderi until they should submit to his terms. These and the other Thakurs in the same position refused submission and abandoned their villages; but, finding resistance to the orders of Government unavailing, they with one or two exceptions returned in June 1886, and in 1890 all accepted the above settlement.

5th Sambat 1880.

Nawab Ghuffoor Khan having for his own satisfaction requested a writing under my seal and signature in proof of the arrangement now made in regard to the number of troops to be maintained by him in readiness for the service of the State; it is accordingly hereby certified that it is not the intention of the British Government to require the said Nawab henceforth to furnish a greater body of troops than what has been recently fixed, viz., five hundred horse and five hundred foot, with four guns, the whole to be good and well armed troops and to be constantly kept in a state of efficiency and readiness for the service of the State; and the orders of the Government have been received to this effect. In the engagement originally executed between the British Government and Nawab Ghuffoor Khan, it was stipulated that in proportion to the increase of the cultivation and revenue of his jaidad, a proportional addition should be made to the strength of the contingent; but in consequence of the conclusion of the arrangement recently entered into, the above conditions have been substituted and will henceforth continue in force.

(II). MEDIATIZED CHIEFS IN THE WESTERN MALWA AGENCY.

There are altogether thirty-one of these holdings in the Western Malwa Agency, all of them guaranteed in a greater or less degree by the British Government. Even as late as the year 1861 the districts of Western Malwa were incessantly subject to the inroads of the Bhils from Banswara and Partabgarh, and in February of that year it was considered advisable to make an Engagement (No. CLIII) with the Thakurs on the frontier, in whose districts the principal passes of the hills are situated, to combine to oppose the incursions of the Bhils. These raids occur much less frequently than formerly, and the Thakurs are quite able to prevent them if they remain united; but they are frequently at feud with each other, and often make common cause with the Bhils to plunder or injure their neighbours. The most important of the Mediatized Chiefs in the Western Malwa Agency is Ratlam.

1. RATLAM.*

Under the Engagement (No. CLIV) mediated by Sir John Malcolm in 1819 between Parbat Singh, Raja of Ratlam, and Daulat Rao Sindhia, the former agreed to pay to the Gwalior Darbar an annual tribute of Salim Shahi Rupees 84,000, while Sindhia undertook never to send any troops into the country or to interfere in any way in the internal administration or succession. This tribute was assigned to the British Government under the Treaty of 1844 with Sindhia in part payment of the Gwalior Contingent. It is now paid to the Government of India under the treaty of 1860.

The Raja of Ratlam, who is descended from a younger branch of the Jodhpur family, was considered the principal Rajput leader in Western Malwa, and in consequence received voluntary allegiance and assistance from the neighbouring Rajput Chiefs. Parbat Singh died in 1824. He had no children; and as disturbances were anticipated in the event of his death without proper arrangements for the succession, Sir John Malcolm recommended in 1821 that Balwant Singh, a cousin of the Chief of Salumbar, whom Parbat Singh had selected to succeed him, should be recognised. This was done, and Balwant Singh continued in possession of the Chiefship till his death on the 29th August 1857. He rendered good service during the mutinies, in recognition of which his adopted son and successor, Bhairon Singh, received a khilat of Rupees 3,000 and the thanks of Government.

* Malcolm's Malwa, No. 1 of Schedule No. I.

Bhairon Singh died on the 27th January 1864, leaving a son, Ranjit Singh, aged two years, who was recognised by the British Government as heir to the Chiefship. Mir Shahamat Ali, an officer of the British Government, was deputed to superintend the administration, and with him were associated the uncle of the young Chief and the Thakur of Sarwan. The result of an investigation into the accounts of the State was that charges of fraud and peculation were brought home to the former Kamdar of the State and his deputy. They were fined two and a half lakhs of rupees; their jagirs were confiscated; and they were forbidden to return to Ratlam during the minority of the Chief.

Under the careful management of Mir Shahamat Ali the debts of the State, which at the period of his deputation to Ratlam exceeded ten lakhs of rupees, were paid off, and in addition to the payment of the ordinary charges of the State six lakhs of rupees were spent on roads and other useful public works.

Raja Ranjit Singh received independent charge of his State in 1880. Mir Shahamat Ali stayed on as minister till January 1881 when he retired on a pension of Rupees 600 per mensem. He died in 1890. Raja Ranjit Singh was created a Knight Commander of the Most Eminent Order of the Indian Empire in 1887. He has a son about eleven years old.

In 1864 the Chief agreed (No. CLV) to cede any land required for railway purposes with plenary jurisdiction to the British Government, and not to levy transit duty on through traffic.

An Agreement (No. CLVI) was made in 1881 between the Government of India and the Raja by which the latter consented, in consideration of a compensation of Rupees 1,000 per annum, to abolish all transit dues on salt in his State. The compensation is paid to the Darbar through the Political Agent, Western Malwa. In January 1885, the Raja abolished all transit duties in his State except those on opium.

An Agreement (No. CLVII) was made in June 1887, between the States of Ratlam and Sailana, under which the former State receives annually Rupees 18,000 Salim Shahi from the latter as compensation for relinquishing its right to levy customs dues in Sailana.

An Agreement (No. XV) was mediated in July 1890 by the Government of India between the Gwalior and Ratlam States for the construction of the Raniya-Kachrod road passing through a portion of Ratlam territory, on payment of a lump sum of Rupees 4,370 as compensation by Gwalior to the Ratlam State. The Ratlam Darbar, on its side, agreed (Art. 5) not to exact any dues on Gwalior goods passing through its territory along the road except on opium.

In 1890 it was decided to make a Railway line from Ratlam on the Rajputana-Malwa system to Godhra, a station on an extension of the Bombay-Baroda line. The work was at once commenced, and in August and September 1891 the Ratlam, Sailana, Indore and Jhabua Chiefs, through whose States the line passes, agreed to cede all land required for it, free of cost and with full jurisdiction.

The area of Ratlam is about 729 square miles, with a population in 1891 of 89,160, and a revenue of Rupees 13,00,000 from all sources, of which however more than half is alienated in jagirs and other grants. The military establishment in 1890, including irregulars, consisted of 134 cavalry, 697 infantry, 5 guns, classed as serviceable, and 12 artillerymen. The Raja receives a salute of 13 guns, of which, however, two guns are personal to the present Chief, to whom this distinction was granted in 1877. The ordinary salute of the Ratlam Chief is 11 guns.

2. SAILANA.*

Sailana pays an annual tribute of Rupees 42,000 to the Government of India under the same conditions as Ratlam (No. CLIV), of which territory it originally formed a part. On the death of Kesari Singh, Raja of Ratlam, in 1709, his eldest son Man Singh succeeded to the lands forming the present district of Ratlam, and Jai Singh, his second son, to Sailana.

The tribute is paid to the British Government under the treaty with Sindbia of the 12th December 1860, having been assigned in 1844 in part payment of the Gwalior Contingent. By a separate Agreement (No. CLVIII) the Raja engaged, after paying Rupees 22,234 in cash as arrears of tribute, to pay Rupees 75,000 as the balance of arrears up to 1819 in five yearly instalments.

The Chief with whom the original settlement was made in 1819 (No. CLIV) was succeeded by his son Ratan Singh who, having no sons, was succeeded by Nahar Singh, his uncle. Nahar Singh was succeeded by his son Takht Singh, who died in 1850, leaving a son, Dule Singh, then a minor. The district was administered by the British Government till the mutinies of 1857 when it was put under a Regency headed by the chief widow of the late Raja. As an acknowledgment of the services rendered during the mutinies in preserving order and furnishing troops the members of the Regency received khilats. Raja Dule Singh was put in power in 1859, being then 10 years of age.

In 1864 the Chief of Sailana agreed (No. CLIX) to cede any land that might be required for railway purposes, with full jurisdiction, to the British Government, and not to levy transit duty on through traffic. In 1891 the Chief agreed to cede land on these terms for the Ratlam-Godhra Railway (see Ratlam).

In 1881 an Agreement (No. CLX) was made between the Government of India and the Raja, by which the latter agreed to abandon all transit duties on salt, on receiving annually from the British Government 100 maunds of salt delivered free of cost at Indore. By a supplementary Agreement (No. CLXI) made in 1883, this compensation was commuted to an annual cash payment through the Political Agent, Western Malwa, of Rupees 412-8.

In 1885 the Government of India at the request of the Raja recognised as his heir Jaswant Singh of Semlia whom he had adopted. The Semlia jagir, in consequence of the adoption of Jaswant Singh, devolved on his younger brother, Chhatar Singh, in 1888.

In June 1887, an Agreement (No. CLVII) was made between the Ratlam and Sailana States, by which it was arranged that the latter should in future levy its own customs duties, compensating Ratlam for relinquishing its right to levy customs dues in Sailana by an annual payment of Salim Shahi Rupees 18,000.

In the same year the Raja abolished all transit duties in his State, excepting those on opium, on the occasion of the Jubilee of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen-Empress of India.

The area of Sailana is about 123 square miles; the revenue is estimated at Rupees 1,50,000; and the population in 1891 was 31,512. The Raja receives a salute of 11 guns. In 1890, the military force consisted of 3 guns, 21 horse, 152 infantry, and 15 gunners.

3. SITAMAU.*

This Chiefship, like Sailana, formed originally a portion of Ratlam, and was divided from it on the death of Ram Singh, Raja of Ratlam, in 1660, when his second son, Kasar Das, succeeded to the lands now comprised in Sitamau.

A tribute of Rupees 60,000 from this State was guaranteed to Sindhia by an Agreement (No. CLXII) mediated by Sir John Malcolm in 1820. In consequence of repeated representations from the Raja, Rupees 5,000 of the annual tribute were remitted in 1860 by Sindhia, on the occasion of the Raja's son waiting on him at Gwalior (No. CLXIII). An intimation of the remission was given to the Raja of Sitamau in a letter from Sindhia to his address.

Raja Raj Singh of Sitamau remained faithful to the British Government during the mutiny of 1857, and received a khilat valued at Rupees 2,000.

In 1865 the Chief agreed (No. CLXIV) to cede any land that might be required for railway purposes on the same terms as those mentioned in the cases of Ratlam and Sailana.

Raja Raj Singh who was an able ruler died in 1867; his eldest son having predeceased him in 1864, the succession of his grandson Bhawani Singh, was recognized and sanctioned by the British Government.

Bhawani Singh died on the 28th May 1885 and was succeeded by Bahadur Singh, then 31 years of age, elder son of Thakur Takht Singh of Chiklia, second cousin of Raja Bhawani Singh. On this occasion Sindhia put forward a claim to be consulted regarding the succession, but the claim was held to be inadmissible under the terms of the guarantee held by the Sitamau State. The Darbar also claimed to receive nazarana, but this too was overruled. It was held that Sitamau, being a mediatized Chiefship of the first class, was liable to the payment of nazarana to the Government of India alone, and that one year's revenue was properly leviable under the rules, on the occasion of Bahadur Singh's succession. In consideration, however, of the poverty of the State a nazarana equal to half a year's net income was taken. A khilat of the value of Rupees 8,875 was bestowed on the Chief on his formal installation, in the form of a deduction from the nazarana.

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 5 of Schedule No. I.

An Agreement (No. CLXV) between the Government of India and Raja Bhawani Singh was made in 1881, by which the Darbar abolished all transit dues on salt passing through Sitamau in consideration of a payment of Rupees 2,000 annually as compensation. This sum is paid through the Political Agent, Western Malwa.

In February 1887, the Raja abolished all transit duties in his State except those on opium and wood, on the occasion of the Jubilee of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen-Empress of India.

The area of Sitamau is 350 square miles; the population according to the census of 1891 is 33,307; and the revenue from all sources is estimated at Rupees 1,26,000. In 1890 the military force consisted of 2 guns, classed as serviceable, 40 horse, and 125 foot, all irregulars. The salute is 11 guns.

4. PANTH PIPLODA.

Panth Piploda is held directly from the British Government without the intervention of any Native State, and the holding, therefore, differs from that of all the other mediatized Chiefs in the Agency.

An assignment of the revenue of ten villages of Panth Piploda and Mandawal, amounting to Rupees 11,761, was originally made by the Peshwa Narayan Rao to the family of Sambaji Attaji, a Mahratta Pandit, and was renewed in the names of his nephews Dhondeo Gopal and Janardan Gopal by the Peshwa Madho Rao. By Article 14 of the Treaty of 1817 (see Volume VI), the Peshwa ceded to the British Government all his territories and rights in Malwa. By this cession therefore the ten villages of Panth Piploda became virtually British territory; but Government continued the state of things which had existed under Mahratta rule, and in 1821 Naru Dhondeo and Wasudeo Janardan, sons of Dhondeo Gopal and Janardan Gopal, received from Sir John Malcolm a Sanad (No. CLXVI) which was confirmed by the Supreme Government, whereby their right to receive tribute on ten villages in the district of Mandawal and Suba of Mandsaur was recognized. Naru Dhondeo was succeeded in 1850 by his son Gopal Rao, who is about fifty years of age, and has two sons.

Wasudeo Janardan died in 1868, and the succession of his son Janardan Wasudeo, then about twenty-four years of age, was recognized by the British Government. Janardan Wasudeo died in 1886 and was succeeded by his son Narayan Rao, who was then about 16 years of age. As Janardan Wasudeo was of weak intellect the management of his affairs had been entrusted to a kamdar, subject to the control of the Political Agent, Western Malwa. Narayan Rao being now 22 years of age has been entrusted with the management of his affairs (1892).

The grantees have no proprietary rights over the villages from which their assignment is drawn. To prevent disputes therefore with the proprietors it has been arranged that the latter shall pay their tribute to the Western Malwa Agency, whence it is disbursed to the grantees. The proprietors are held responsible for the peace of the villages. Nazarana is taken on succession from the grantees of the money assignment. The jurisdiction over these villages is held directly by the Political Agent, Western Malwa.

The population of Panth Piploda, according to the census of 1891, is 4,093, and the revenue is estimated at about Rupees 6,000 a year.

5. PIPLODA.*

The Settlement (No. CLXVII) of this Chiefship, under which a tribute of Salim Shahi Rupees 28,000 is paid to the Nawab of Jaora in accordance with the 12th Article of the Treaty of Mandsaur, was made with Pirthi Singh by Sir John Malcolm in 1820. The Piploda family are Doria Rajputs who emigrated several centuries ago from Giral in Junagarh. The Thakur receives from the Senior Chief of Dewas Rupees 138 a year as tankha on six villages, and from the Junior Chief of Dewas Rupees 115 on five villages in Garhguchha. He also holds a grant of land in the village of Betikheri in the Alaut district from the Senior Chief of Dewas, and he receives Rupees 1,000 dami from Tal and Mandawal. The Nawab of Jaora asserts a right to receive Rupees 180 from the above dami, but the claim is disputed by the Thakur.

The settlement made in 1820 put the Thakur on the same footing as other mediatized Chiefs, but in 1844 when Sir Claud Wade was Resident at Indore, a new Deed (No. CLXVIII) was executed between the Thakur and the

* Malcolm's "Malwa", No. 11 of Schedule No. I.

Nawab of Jaora without the cognizance of the Government of India, by which the Thakur was placed in greater dependence on the Nawab, and the right of the latter to control the judicial administration of the Thakur was admitted. The existence of this deed was first brought to the notice of the Government of India in February 1864, but it was resolved not to interfere with arrangements which had lasted twenty years so long as no dispute should arise on the subject between the Thakur and the Nawab.

Like other mediatized Thakurs in this Agency, the Thakur of Piploda refers all criminal cases to the Political Agent.

Thakur Pirthi Singh was succeeded by his son Umed Singh, and he by his son Unkar Singh, who died on the 12th November 1863, when his adopted son Dule Singh, then eleven years of age, was recognized as heir by the British Government. Dule Singh died on the 26th October 1888, and his eldest son Kesri Singh, who is now 19 years of age, was recognised as his successor.

The area of Piploda is about 60 square miles; the revenue amount to about Rupees 1,10,000; and the population in 1891 was 12,792.

6. JAWASIA.*

The Thakur of Jawasia receives the following tankhas:—

	Rs.	A.
From Sindhia (No. CLXIX)	1,400	0
„ (No. CLXX)	150	0
From Holkar † (No. CLXXI)	120	0
„ (No. CLXXII)	180	0
„ (No. CLXXIII)	21	0
From Dewas (No. CLXXIV)	3,305	3
Total	5,176	3

The tankha of Rupees 1,400 from Sindhia is paid through the Political Agent of Western Malwa; the others direct.

Besides the tankhas named above the Thakur holds in quit-rent tenure the villages of Jawasia for Rupees 501, Gurbheri for Rupees 201, and Chap-lakheri for Rupees 341-8 in Dewas. He also holds in jagir a well and 16 bighas of land in the village of Sundwarni, and a well and 25 bighas in the village of Bunarsi.

The Thakur holds under Sindhia 50 bighas in the village of Bakani; a well and 14 bighas in the village of Basoda, and two bighas of rice land in the village of Ratankheri in Dewas; also a well and 15 bighas in the village of Dadota.

Sher Singh and Gulab Singh, the Thakurs with whom the original settlement was mediated, were succeeded by Bhairon Singh. He died in May 1883 and was succeeded by Rawat Lal Singh, the present Thakur, who was then about twenty-three years old.

The Jawasia family are Sisodiya Rajputs, descended from the Bhadnagar family in Udaipur. The family settled first in Dipalpur, next at Bararh in Shabjahanpur (Gwalior), then at Tajpur in the Ujjain pargana, and finally at Jawasia.

The population is estimated at about 600, and the Thakur's revenue at about Rupees 10,000 a year.

7. NAULANA.*

The Thakur of Naulana receives the following tankhas:—

	Rs.
From Sindhia (No. CLXIX) . . .	1,570
„ Holkar † (No. CLXXV) . . .	1,650
Total Rupees . . .	3,220

The position of the Thakur is similar to that of the Thakur of Jawasia. He also holds in jagir the village of Naulana from Holkar, and has certain rights on the village of Satar in the Dipalpur pargana, where he also has 40 bighas of land in jagir.

Hate Singh, the Thakur with whom the settlement was mediated, was succeeded by his younger brother Padam, and the latter by his son Raj Singh. Raj Singh died in 1873, when the succession of his son Bhagot Singh to the guaranteed rights of the Naulana estate was sanctioned. Bhagot Singh died in August 1884 and was succeeded by his son Pirthi Singh then eight years of age.

The Thakur of Naulana is a Khichi Rajput, and belongs to a branch of the Ragbugarh family.

The population of Naulana is said to be 407, and the revenue about Rupees 5,300 a year.

8. SHEOGARH.*

The Sheogarh Thakur receives the following tankhas:—

	Rs.
From Sindhia (No. CLXIX)	3,200
„ Holkar† (No. CLXXVI)	623
Total Rupees	3,823

The Thakur receives the tankha from Sindhia through the Political Agent of Western Malwa; that from Holkar direct.

Sahib Singh, the Thakur with whom the settlement was mediated, died in 1866, and was succeeded by his son Moti Singh, then five years of age, who is the present holder. The family are a branch of Kalukhera, and are Khichi Rajputs. There is no village attached to the Thakurat.

9. DABRI.‡

The Thakur of Dabri receives (No. CLXIX) Rupees 180 from Sindhia on Ujjain and Panbihar. The conditions of the tankha are the same as those attached to the sanads of the Thakur of Jawasia (vide supra). The Thakur receives his tankha through the Political Officer. He also claims certain rights of “lag” and “bhet” on the village of Sawarkhari and Kadwari in the Panbihar pargana, and on the villages of Kalidi, Ukonta, Karandi, and Utara in the Ujjain pargana, and states that he originally held 500 bighas of land in the village of Dabri.

Gopal Singh† also held in perpetual jagir Sakatkheri (No. CCI) from Bhim Singh for services rendered, paying an annual tribute of Rupees 500. The Rawat levies "khunt" and receives "deshki-kodi" taxes. He holds jagir lands in the villages of Gopalpura, Nalwa, and Mokhadi; also the villages of Bhadana and Bukhtani, in istimrari tenure on payment of Rupees 601 as quit-rent to Holkar. Civil and criminal jurisdiction in Bhatkheri is exercised by the Rawat, heinous offences being cognizable by the Political Agent.

On the death of Thakur Zorawar Singh in 1861, Rawat Sheo Singh, his son, succeeded to his rights, and he was succeeded on his death, in October 1891, by his son Sajan Singh, the present Thakur, who is a child, with the sanction of the Government of India. The population of Khojankhera is about 500, and the yearly receipts about Rupees 6,000.

27. UPARWARA.

28.—BILAUD.

The original holder of this guaranteed village, which is situated in the Sanjit Pargana of Jaora, was Hakim Zafar Ali, a Saiyid by caste, and a native of Bahera, a village in the district of Fatehpur Haswa, in the North-Western Provinces. He was in the service of Nawab Ghafur Khan of Jaora, by whom the village of Bilaud was granted to him in jagir. Zafar Ali died in 1824 and was succeeded by his son Muhammad Saman Ali. Saman Ali died in 1875 and was succeeded by his son Muhammad Zamin Ali. Zamin Ali died on 29th August 1884. The question of succession of his son Ghulam Abbas, whose legitimacy is disputed by two of the widows of Zamin Ali, is under consideration (1892). Ghulam Abbas is about 14 years of age.

The Settlement (No. CCVII) was mediated by Sir John Malcolm on 7th June 1818 A.D., in reward for services rendered by Hakim Zafar Ali to the British Government and to the Darbar. The existence of the guarantee to the State was lost sight of until December 1885. The population of Bilaud is about 600, and the yearly receipts about Rupees 6,500.

29.—SIDRI.

Thakuri Lal, a Baniya by caste, was the original holder of this guarantee. He died in 1863. His son Gopal Singh succeeded him at the age of 13 years and died in 1886. Gopal Singh was succeeded by his son Gordhan Singh, the present Thakur, who is 13 years of age (1892).

The Sanad (No. CCVIII) was mediated with the Jaora Chief by Mr. G. Wellesley, Resident at Indore, on the 22nd November 1824, as the village with some wells was held by the family long before the foundation of the Jaora State, and as there was a dispute regarding them with the Darbar.

30.—SADAKHERI* (SHEOGARH).

The Thakur holds two sanads from the Nawab of Jaora (Nos. CCIX and CCX) regarding the grant of the village of Sadakheri, one of which is dated 1839, and is signed by Colonel Borthwick, and the other dated 1845, and signed by Sir R. Hamilton. These settlements were made with Gopal Singh, grand-father of the present Thakur, Bahadur Singh. Gopal Singh was succeeded by his son Gambhir Singh in 1867, and the latter by his son Bahadur Singh in 1889. On the occasion of this succession the existence of the guarantee was brought to notice. The succession was approved by Government, and it was notified that the Thakur was entitled to the protection of the Western Malwa Agency in respect of his guaranteed possessions. Whether this protection would or would not embrace unguaranteed estates would, it was held, depend upon the circumstances of each tenure, the prescriptive rights of the parties, and the treatment accorded to the subordinate Chieftain by the superior Darbar.

The Thakur pays to the Jaora Darbar a quit-rent of Salim Shahi Rupees 3,501 on the Sadakheri village.

The Thakur's further holdings are as follows:—

From Ratlam.		From Sailana.
1. Sheogarh, with several Bhil hamlets.		1. Karia.

		3. Jharwasa.

The above are held in jagir on condition of performing service.

From Gwalior.		From Dewas, Junior Branch.
Ringnia, in the Kachrod Pargana.		Melki, in the Ringnod Pargana.

The Thakur also makes the following payments:—

	Rs.
To Gwalior	1,400
„ Sailana	5,400
„ Ratlam	2,400
„ Dewas	500

Notes.*—The three Thakurs of Sirsi, Borkhed, and Kherwasa, in Jaora, are said to possess sanads for their respective holdings precisely similarly to those held by the Thakur of Sadakheri in respect of that village. The question of the status of these three Thakurs is at present (1892) under the consideration of the Government of India.

The population of the Sadakheri holding is about 3,000, and the annual receipts are estimated at Rupees 3,800.

31.—TAL.

Settlements between this Thakur and the Jaora State were mediated in 1821 and 1822 by Mr. G. Wellesley, Resident at Indore. The villages of Karwakheri and Melakheri were guaranteed to the Thakur in istimrar tenure in the former year (No. CCXI), while in the latter (No. CCXII) the Dami and other dues of the Tal Pargana were guaranteed. Thakur Chandar Singh was the Thakur with whom these settlements were made. He was succeeded by his son Jait Singh, who died in 1853, when he again was succeeded by his son Lachhman Singh. The latter died in 1859, and was succeeded by his nephew Unkar Singh, then a minor, the present Thakur.

The Thakur also holds the village of Lasuria Surajmal in the Tal Pargana in jagir. No mediated agreement is forthcoming regarding this holding.

The extravagance of the present Thakur brought him heavily into debt, and in 1880 and subsequent years he applied to the Jaora Darbar for assistance. This was granted and arrangements were made in 1889 by the Darbar without previous reference to the Political Agent for managing the Thakur's estate and paying off the debts. On the facts being brought to notice it was decided that the arrangement concluded in 1889 by the Darbar with the Thakur should not be interfered with so long as the status of the Thakur in respect of his guaranteed rights was not materially affected thereby, and provided that there was no infraction of the rule limiting to the holder's lifetime the power of alienating guaranteed property. The right of the Government of India to be consulted on all important points regarding the position and privileges of guarantee-holders, and to decide all questions of succession to guaranteed estates, was at the same time made clear to the Jaora Darbar.

The above agreement we make of our own free will; and further, if any Bheel claims "choutan" from us, should he be able to show that payment of the same has been stopped within the last 12 years, we agree that the payment shall be revived.

Gerwur Sing and Newul Sing of Bichrode waited upon the Circar and each of them claimed the tunkha from the villages of the aforesaid pergunnah, alleging that he alone was in the receipt thereof. This dispute lasted for four years. At length Gerwur Sing, when the Circar took the question into consideration, executed an engagement to the effect that he would satisfy the claim of Newul Sing, and see that the Circar was not troubled any further on this account; that he would take from the mehal cutcherry any sum which might be fixed for him; that he would not take bhett, or levy any cesses separately from the villages, under penalty of forfeiting the allowance which might be fixed for him; and that he would serve in the mehal if required by the kamaisdar to do so. Ruttun Sing, son of Himmut Sing of Kalookheres, having appeared before me at Indore, represented to me that in 1874 Sumbut when Bittul Mahadeo and General Low stationed themselves with troops at Indruk in pergunnah Mebidpore, and established thannahs at Narelia and other places, after sending away all the men therefrom, he (the said Ruttun Sing) from fear executed a writing before Lutchmun Sudaseo, kamaisdar of the mehal, to the effect that he would take two rupees only on account of "bhet" from each village of the aforesaid pergunnah, and not levy a pice more from the mehal. He has now requested that after investigation of his case, orders should be issued for the payment to him of the tunkha which he received from the said pergunnah previous to the breaking out of the disturbances. Whereas Nahar Sing Grassia has hitherto exacted an enormous amount of money from the aforesaid pergunnah on account of his tunkha, and thereby greatly oppressed the people of the villages; and whereas it has been settled that he shall not oppress the people of the villages, and collect anything therefrom, but shall receive a cash allowance from the mehal cutcherry; and that he shall serve the Circar in the pergunnah and keep peace there; and whereas an annual sum of Rupees 146 of the local currency has, through the mediation of General Malcolm, been settled on him from Sun 1228 in lieu of the above tunkha: therefore you are hereby directed to pay to the said Grassia the above sum of Rupees 146 every year from the cutcherry of the pergunnah, and to take receipts from him for the same.

TRANSLATION of a letter from MAJOR F. H. SANDYS, POLITICAL AGENT, to GUMAN SING, THAKOOR of DHOLATIA.

You presented to me a petition stating that your uncle, Pirthee Sing, had died, and that you would support Gyana Bai, the widow of the deceased, and praying that as he left no children, and as a provision had been made for his maintenance out of your tunkha, the deceased's allowance might be given to you. Gyana Bai also presented a petition mentioning that she appointed her nephew, named Sumtaje, as successor to the said tunkha of the deceased. With a view to ascertain the circumstances set forth by the plaintiff and defendant, as well as to know which of the parties had, according to the custom of the family, a right to the allowance abovementioned, the vakeel of the Nana Sahib was ordered to send a report on the subject. The said vakeel addressed a letter to the Nana Sahib, who, having made the necessary enquiries, returned, by a letter, the papers connected with the case with a kyasnamah, from which it appeared that the claim of the defendant Gyana Bai is unfounded, and that yours is just and fully proved. With reference to the kyasnamah, it is decided that you shall receive every year the tunkha of Rupees 470 enjoyed by the deceased Pirthee Sing. Gyana is since dead, and her claim to the tunkha, to which she had appointed her nephew as successor, was not based on just grounds; but as she adopted Sumtaje, you should make such a provision for his support as may be deemed necessary.

Dheerut Sing, son of Huree Sing of Dholatia in Pergunnah Oogain, having waited upon the Circar, represented that he is in the receipt of a tunkha from the aforesaid pergunnah; and that after the disturbances he took from the pergunnah any amount of money whether it was equal to or less than the sum he was entitled to; and prayed that as arrangements have been made for the payment of tunkhas to all others, a similar arrangement might be made for the payment of his tunkha, adding that he would accept whatever sum might be fixed for him; and that he would not collect anything from the villages in the shape of bheth, &c., and that he would also perform the duties required by the kamaisdar and adopt such measures as will prevent the commission of thefts. The said Dheerut Sing further declared that he would forfeit the amount of money which might be fixed for him if he should fail to do the above. Accordingly an annual sum of Rupees 400 of the mehal currency having been settled on him from 1220 A.H. in the pergunnah, you TRANSLATION of a SANAD from NAWAB GHUFFOOR KHAN granting the village of BELONDA in SUNJIT PERGANA of JAORA to HAKEEM MEER ZAFFURALLY, dated 1st Shaban 1233 Hijri.

Be it known to the Amils, Mutsuddies, Kanoongoes, Chowdries, Mukadams and cultivators, present and future, of the Sunjit Pergana of Rampura Soubah Malwa, that the village of Belonda, together with its revenue and customs dues, has been granted rent free to Hakeem Meer Zaffurally from the commencement of the kharif of Fasli 1225 for his support, and it shall continue in his possession from generation to generation, undisturbed. It is required that the possession of the village should be given to the Agent of the said Hakeem, considering the grant as rent free. The village should not be harassed with demands for forced labor (begar), bhet, etc., nor should renewed sanad be called for. Carry out these instructions without fail.

TRANSLATION of a PROCLAMATION from CAPTAIN BORTHWICK regarding the grant by NAWAB GHUFFOOR KHAN, of the village of BELONDA in SUNJIT PERGANA to HAKEEM MEER ZAFFURALLY, dated 11th January 1819, corresponding with 17th Rabi-ul-awal 1234 Hijri.

Whereas Nawab Abdul Ghuffoor Khan has out of his estate, which is guaranteed by the British Government, granted free of rent the village of Belonda to Syud Zaffurally for his support on account of the services rendered by him, whereas the above village is situated on the road and is frequented by travellers and on this account is put to the inconvenience of providing labor, firewood, etc., which interferes with the prosperity of the village and its inhabitants, and whereas the said Hakeem is a well-wisher of the British Government, it is notified that no servant of the British Government or any other person passing the village should demand forced labour, firewood, etc., otherwise on a complaint being made to any British officer, such person will be considered an offender.

(Sd.) W. BORTHWICK,
Commanding Detachment.

This is to certify that being called upon by both parties to mediate a settlement of a dispute between the Nawab Ghuffur Khan and Hakim Mir Zuffur Ally, I agreed to do so on the ground of my consideration for the character of the Nawab and the public services rendered by the Hakim to Holkar's as well as the British Government, and the following is the settlement to which I have given my consent as according with the wishes of both and appearing to me under all circumstances just and reasonable.

The Hakim Zuffur Ally is at liberty to depart from the service of the Nawab Ghuffur Khan and to live in Hindustan, his native country. He has consented to give up to the Nawab the Sanad he has in his possession for an annual pension to him and his heirs for ever of fifteen hundred Rupees, but retains the sanad or grant (to him and his heirs for ever) conferred upon him by the Nawab Ghuffur Khan as a reward for his services of the village of Belonda in the District of Sunjit which is given for the support of him, the said Mir Zuffur Ally, and his descendants. In witness of my having mediated this agreement I have given one copy of this certificate, to the Nawab Ghuffur Khan and another to the Hakim Mir Zuffur Ally.

(V).—BHOPAWAR AGENCY.

The Bhopawar Agency was constituted on its present footing in the year 1882 by separating the duties of the Political Agent, Bhopawar, from those of the Commandant of the Malwa Bhil Corps who till then had held the dual charge. At the same time the Deputy Bhil Agency at Manpur was abolished, and the charge was included in that of the Political Agent in Bhopawar at Sirdarpur; and the staff of officers of the Malwa Bhil Corps was revised. Beside Dhar,* the Agency now includes Jhabua and ten other Guaranteed Estates or Thakurates, and also ten guaranteed Bhumiahs, all of which are described below.

From the year 1882 to the year 1891 the arrangements described above remained unchanged. In the latter year, however, the earlier system, by which the Commandant of the Malwa Bhil Corps held the dual charge, was temporarily resumed. The charges were afterwards again separated.

The Agency also includes the charge of a small tract of British territory, viz., MANPUR,† surrounded by the possessions of Native States, and the direct administration of the pargana of BAGOD, which belongs to the two States of Dewas. Some districts belonging to Sindhia and Holkar also come within its limits, and the Political Agent's supervision extends to them.

None of the guaranteed estates in this Agency receive any allowance from, or pay any tribute to, the British Government.

1 DHAR.

The Puar family was one of the most distinguished in the early Marhatta history. Anand Rao Puar is usually considered as the founder of the principality of Dhar, which, with some adjacent districts, and the right to receive the tribute payable by certain Rajput Chiefs, was assigned to him by the first Baji Rao Peshwa. Anand Rao died in 1749 and was succeeded by his son Jaswant Rao Puar, who was slain in the defeat of the Mahrattas at Panipat. To him succeeded his infant son Khandi Rao Puar, who was followed by his son Anand Rao Puar. He died in 1807 and was succeeded by his posthumous son Ramchandar Rao Puar, on whose mother, Mina Bai, the administration temporarily devolved. Ramchandar died early, but Mina Bai, with the consent of the neighbouring Chiefs, adopted her sister's son under the name of Ramchandar Puar.

* NOTE.—In the 1876 edition of the Treaties the account of the Dhar State was included in the section relating to the Western Malwa Agency. It has now been transferred to the chapter upon the Bhopawar Agency, in which Agency the State of Dhar had been for many years included.

† Manpur had a population of 5,342 when the census of 1891 was taken, and the population of Bagod was then 5,886. The area of Manpur is 70 square miles, and that of Bagod about 75 square miles.

For twenty years before the British conquest of Malwa, the Dhar State was subjected to a continued series of spoliations chiefly at the hands of Sindhia and Holkar, and was preserved from destruction only by the talent and courage of Mina Bai. By the treaty concluded on the 10th January 1819 (No. CCXIII) Dhar was taken under the protection of, and was bound to act in subordinate co-operation with, the British Government; several districts which it had lost were recovered and restored to it; its tributary rights over the Rajput States of Banswara and Dungarpur were ceded to the British Government; and it was arranged that the British Government should hold the Bairsia pargana for five years to liquidate a loan of Rupees 2,50,000 which the Government agreed to make to the Dhar State.

In 1821, by an additional Engagement (No. CCXIV), Dhar ceded the pargana of Bairsia and the tribute of Ali Mohan to the British for an annual payment of Rupees 1,10,000. In 1831 the pargana was restored to Dhar, as the collections from it were less than the sum paid for it by about half a lakh of rupees; but as the Dhar authorities could not manage the district owing to its isolated position and separation from the rest of their territories, it was again taken under British management in 1835, on the understanding that the surplus revenues, after meeting all expenditure, should be paid to Dhar. The payments continued to be made till 1860 when they were stopped as a punishment for the rebellion of the Dhar State in 1857 and the pargana of Bairsia was made over to Bhopal as a reward for the services of the Sikandar Begam of Bhopal during the mutinies (see Bhopal).

In 1828 the pargana of Nimanpur Makrar in Nimar was made over in perpetuity to the management of the British Government (No. CCXV), on condition that the surplus revenue, after payment of all expenses of administration, should be annually paid to the Dhar State. It was, however, restored to Dhar in 1830.

Besides the engagements mediated by the British Government between Dhar and its feudatories, an Agreement (No. CCXVI) was mediated in 1821 between Holkar and the Dhar State. Both States brought forward claims for lands near Bijaur and Dipalpur, and as it was impossible to ascertain the boundary correctly, it was agreed that the lands should be left neutral for the purpose of pasturing cattle. This settlement is still in force (1892).

Ramchandrar Puar was succeeded by his adopted son Jaswant Rao Puar, who died in 1857 and was succeeded by his half-brother Anand Rao Puar, then 13 years of age. The Dhar State rebelled in 1857 and was in consequence confiscated. It was subsequently restored to Raja Anand Rao Puar, with exception of the Bairsia pargana, as narrated above, but was retained under British management till the Chief should attain the age of 18 years, or until he should become competent to manage his own affairs. The administration of the State was entrusted to the Chief in October 1864.

In 1862 a Sanad (note to No. LXIV) was granted by the Government of India conceding to the Chiefs of Dhar the right of adoption.

In 1869 the Raja of Dhar expressed a wish to adopt an heir. He was informed that Government would sanction any adoption of a qualified person which he might make in accordance with Hindu law and the customs of his race, but the adoption once made could not be set aside so as to allow him to adopt another heir. Government, however, had no objection, in the event of a legitimate son being born to the Raja, to recognize his succession in preference to that of any heir whom the Raja might have adopted.

In 1877, on the occasion of the Imperial Assemblage at Delhi, the title of Maharaja was conferred upon His Highness as a personal distinction, and he was also appointed a Knight Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India. In 1883 the further decoration of Companion of the Most Eminent Order of the Indian Empire was conferred upon him.

In 1864 the Maharaja of Dhar engaged (No. CCXVII) to cede to the British Government, with sovereign rights, such land as may be required for the construction of a railway through his State, and to exempt all through traffic from transit duties. He further abolished all transit duties in the State on the 16th February 1887, on the occasion of the Jubilee of the Queen-Empress.

Capital sentences passed by the Chief require the confirmation of the British Government before they are carried out, but he can pass sentences of life imprisonment without confirmation.

In 1886 the Government of India acknowledged the jurisdiction (civil and criminal) of the Maharaja of Dhar over the guaranteed Thakurs within his State in all cases where such jurisdiction could be fairly proved to have become an established prescriptive right by reason of its long continuance.

The Maharani, the only wife of the Chief, died in January 1890, and the Maharaja then expressed a wish to adopt his nephew, Udaji Rao Puar, younger son of the Chief's half brother Sambaji Rao Puar Appa Sahib of Malthan. This was sanctioned by Government. The Maharaja married again in 1890.

The area of the Dhar State is 1,739.68 square miles, and the population by the census of 1891 is 167,504. The revenue is about eight lakhs of rupees. Dhar pays an annual contribution of Rupees 7,656-0-4 towards the maintenance of the Malwa Bhil Corps, the payment of a sum of Rupees 12,000 having been capitalized by the Darbar in 1880 by the surrender of Government Promissory Notes aggregating Rupees 3,00,000. The Chief receives a salute of 15 guns.

The military force of the Dhar State, including irregulars, consisted in 1890 of 5 field guns, 3 of which are classed as serviceable, 18 artillery-men, 867 cavalry, and 1,249 infantry.

TRANSLATION of an ENGAGEMENT executed between HOLKAR and DHAR in regard to Mouza Bijore in Pergunnah Dhar and Mouza Sungrode in Pergunnah Depalpore in Indore, in the time of GENERAL MALCOLM. Dated 19th Shual 1236, A.H., corresponding with 20th July 1821.

For many years there has been a dispute between the zemindars of mouza Bijore in pergunnah Dhar and Mouza Sugrod in pergunnah Depalpore regarding lands situated on the boundaries of these two villages. As no agreement could be come to, Maharajah Mulhar Rao Holkar and Raja Ramchunder Rao Puar of Dhar referred the case for decision to Major General Sir John Malcolm who deputed Captain Dangerfield to the boundaries of the villages to enquire into the merits of the case. Captain Dangerfield, having surveyed the disputed lands, submitted a report to General Malcolm, who finally decided that both parties should at all times respect the boundaries fixed and agreed to by the disputants in the time of the late Ahilia Bai and raise no objection thereto; and that both parties should agree to the measurement made by Captain Dangerfield and recorded in the Government office. For their guidance this deed recording the boundary settlement made by the Bai Sahiba is written. The lands lying between the bank of the Chumbul and the point which the Bai Sahiba has marked by sugar mill stones have, after due enquiries, been reserved as grazing land for the cattle of the aforesaid two villages. Neither of the contending parties will ever in future raise any dispute in respect to the boundaries of the above lands, or bring forward any claim thereto. The cattle of both villages shall graze without let or hindrance on those lands. No person shall be permitted to cultivate the above grazing lands. The Bijore people will cultivate the remaining land and none of the contending parties shall interfere with such cultivation. The lands of the village of Sugrod having been measured under the superintendence of Janardan Trimbak Amil of mouza Sugrod in pergunnah Depalpore, Sundar Ramaji, karkoon of Holkar, Beniram in the employment of the Puar Circar, and the patail and patwari of Bijore in pergunnah Dhar the boundaries thereof have been defined as follows :—

The eastern boundary extends to the bank of the Chumbul and the western boundary to the mosque. Boundary pillars have been erected on the east, west, north and south. The lands which lie between the mosque and the boundary pillars measure 804 beegahs. The lands which formed the subject of dispute, and which have been reserved as pasturage for cattle and will ever continue so, stretch eastward to the pillars erected on the boundary of Bijore in pergunnah Dhar; westward to the pillars erected on the boundary of the arable lands of mouza Bijore in pergunnah Dhar; southwards to the pillars erected on the boundary of Sheogarh in pergunnah Depalpore; and northward to the pillars erected on the boundary of mouza Shahada in pergunnah Depalpore. The above terms define the boundaries which have been fixed.

This engagement has been executed by the contending parties.

Endorsed in English.

Such compensation as it may be necessary to award to private individuals for lands so taken up will be given by the Dhar State.

2nd.—All residents within the railway limits, whether subjects of the British Government or of the Dhar State, shall be under the jurisdiction of the railway officers and Government authorities.

5th.—All “through” traffic to be free from transit or other duties. Goods under transport by rail, breaking bulk en route through the Dhar State, to be liable to the ordinary duties leviable on such, unless a special tariff be hereafter fixed for traffic of the latter nature.

Dhar, 6th April 1864.

(IIA)—GUARANTEED CHIEFS IN THE BHOPAWAR AGENCY.

1. JHABUA.

Jhabua was the principal guaranteed Chiefship under the Bhil Agency as formerly constituted, and was originally tributary to Holkar. The family are Rathor Rajputs, and are descended from one of the former Rajas of Jodhpur.

The finest districts of this State were wrested from it by Holkar, but it is remarkable that Holkar left to its rulers the right to collect in these districts the chauth, or one-fourth of the revenues, which the Mahrattas exacted as a rule from the countries which they conquered. There are about twenty families of rank in this State, who pay Rupees 15,000 a year as tribute to Holkar, and Rupees 25,000 to their own Chief. In lieu of the tribute of Rupees 35,000 which Holkar formerly claimed from this State, lands were assigned to him through the mediation of the British Government, but no written engagement was made. In 1821, in consequence of the disturbed state of the country and the imbecility of the Raja, Bhim Singh, the Raja was required to abdicate in favour of his son Partab Singh. The arrangements for the administration of the country were made through the mediation and under the guarantee (No. CCXVIII) of the British Government. At a later period the State was for some years taken under the direct superintendence of the British Government.

In 1865 the Chief of Jhabua having permitted the mutilation of a person confined under suspicion of theft was fined Rupees 10,000, and required to settle a pension of Rupees 15 per mensem on the injured man, this pension being under the guarantee of the British Government. The Chief's mother was banished from Jhabua for a year, and the Kamdar and others were expelled from the State. As a further mark of the abhorrence with which Government regarded the conduct of the Chief, his salute was discontinued, but was restored at the expiration of a year from the date of its discontinuance, in consequence of the administration having been favourably reported on.

Before 1870 the States of Jhabua and Indore exercised a joint jurisdiction in the towns of Thandla and Pitlawad and in some of the neighbouring villages. The sayar or customs dues were also conjointly collected. As this arrangement caused frequent and vexatious disputes between the two Darbars, an exchange of lands and villages was brought about in 1871, by which Pitlawad remained with the Indore State and Thandla with Jhabua. All sayar duties are now collected by the latter State, which pays annually to Indore the sum of Salim Shahi Rupees 7,172 as compensation for the share formerly accruing to Indore. A further sum of Rupees 1,400 is also paid to Indore to equalize the revenues of some of the transferred villages.

The present Raja, Gopal Singh, did good service during the mutiny of 1857, in consideration of which he is allowed to exercise limited criminal powers within his State. All heinous offences are reported by the Darbar to the Political Agent in Bhopawar, who ordinarily tries murders and other cases of exceptional importance in his own Court, but has a discretionary power of making over to the Darbar for trial such cases as may seem advisable. The proceedings of the Darbar in such cases are subject to revision by the Political Agent. All sentences of death require confirmation by the Agent to the Governor-General in Central India.

Transit dues on cotton have long been abolished in the State, and recently in commemoration of the Jubilee of the Queen-Empress in 1887, all transit duties have been remitted.

The Chief agreed in 1864 (No. CCXIX) to cede in full sovereignty such lands as may be required for a railway through his territories and to abolish all transit dues on through traffic. In 1891 the Chief agreed to cede, free of cost and with full sovereignty, all the land required for the Ratlam-Godhra Railway which passes through his State.

The State pays Rupees 1,474-3-2 towards the cost of the Malwa Bhil Corps. It makes no other payment to, and receives none from, the British Government.

The gross revenues of Jhabua amount to about Rupees 1,28,000. The area is 1,336.48 square miles, and the population according to the census of 1891 is 119,787, of whom the majority are Bhils.

The military force, including irregulars, consisted in 1890 of 2 serviceable guns, 6 gunners, 64 horsemen, and 253 infantry. The Raja receives a salute of 11 guns.

2. ALI-RAJPUR.*

When the British power was established in Malwa this State was under the control of an adventurer named Musafir Makrani. Partab Singh, the Chief of Ali-Rajpur, had died, leaving a nephew, Kesari Singh, who endeavoured to supplant Partab Singh's posthumous son, Jaswant Singh. Kesari Singh was driven out by Musafir, who was the only Makrani leader allowed by the British Government to settle in Malwa. He had long been manager of Ali-Rajpur and made himself useful in expelling his countrymen and other foreigners, and was therefore recognised as Manager of the State during the minority of Jaswant Singh. An Engagement (No. CCXX) was mediated in 1818 between him and the Dhar Government, by which, in lieu of tribute alleged to have formerly been Rupees 20,000, the sayar duties in Ali-Rajpur were made over to Dhar.

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 10 of Schedule No. I and No. 2 of Schedule No. III.

The sayar duties, however, were not only unproductive, but the collection of them by Dhar officials led to disputes. To remedy these difficulties, the first arrangement effected was an agreement on the part of the Dhar State to pay a sum of Rupees 1,200 a year to Ali-Rajpur in commutation of all claims of individuals on the sayar duties. By this settlement, all pretext for interference on the part of the officials of Ali-Rajpur was obviated. Disputes, however, still continued. For this reason, and with a view of promoting facilities of commerce with Guzarat, the British Government procured from Dhar the cession of the tribute of Ali-Rajpur at the time when Dhar made over Bairsia to British management,* and agreed to pay Dhar the sum of Rupees 10,000 a year in lieu of the tribute claimed by Dhar from Ali-Rajpur.

The sum collected from the Ali-Rajpur State by the British Government is Rupees 11,000 a year, of which Rupees 10,000 are paid to Dhar, and the remaining Rupees 1,000, subsequently reduced to Rupees 250, are paid as a contribution to a police fund. The tribute having been alienated from Dhar, all supremacy of that State as regards Ali-Rajpur ceased.

Jaswant Singh died on 17th March 1862, leaving a will by which he divided the State between his two sons. It was a question whether this partition should be admitted. The neighbouring Chiefs were consulted by the Political Agent, and it was at last decided by the British Government that the will should be set aside, and that Gangadeo, the elder son, should be recognized as heir to the Chiefship, subject to a provision in land for his younger brother. On the succession of Gangadeo a dress of honour was conferred on him by the British Government and a nazarana of Rupees 1,500 was taken.

The incompetency of Gangadeo and the anarchy which had prevailed since he was entrusted with power compelled the British Government in 1869 to depose him and take the State under management. Muhammad Najaf Khan was appointed Superintendent, and Rupdeo, the Chief's younger brother, was associated with him in the administration in view to his being properly trained for the duties which would ultimately devolve upon him as Chief. The allowance of the deposed Chief was fixed at Rupees 1,000 per mensem. The presence of Kazi Abdur Rauf, the former Minister, was considered objectionable, and he was directed to leave the country. To assist in liquidating the various pressing claims on the State, the debts of which amounted to about Rupees 1,40,000, a loan of Rupees 20,000, repayable in two years, was granted.

Gangadeo, whose excesses had rendered him imbecile for several months previous to his death, died in March 1871. His younger brother Rupdeo was recognized as his successor, but it was decided to make no change in the management of affairs under which the State had been freed from debt until the Chief should prove himself capable of administering the State. Rana Rupdeo was entrusted tentatively with the management of affairs in 1873 on the understanding that his continuance in power would depend on the manner in which he carried on the administration. He died on 29th October 1881 without male issue.

As the privilege of adoption had not been granted to the deceased Chief the State might have been treated as an escheat to Government. It was, however, decided to forego the right, and to appoint a successor to the gadi. After carefully investigating the qualifications and claims of several persons, including the Chiefs of Dharampur and the Thakurs of Mayagaon and Phulwal, the choice of Government fell upon Bijai Singh, the Thakur of Sondwa, whose family was an off-shoot of the direct line of the Ali-Rajpur Chiefs, and whose claims were warmly supported by the Ranis and the most influential persons in the State. He was then a minor, being educated at the Daly College, Indore.

The succession of Bijai Singh was, however, displeasing to Jit Singh, Thakur of Phulwal, who in the time of the previous Chief had, on account of his wealth and influence, ranked above the Sondwa Thakur. Owing to the lax administration of the Diwan, Rai Bahadur Venkat Ram, and more particularly by reason of his interference with the hereditary customs of the Bhil Patels and Tarwis, the Bhil population had for some time been in a discontented state. Thakur Jit Singh taking advantage of this induced the Bhil and Bhilala leaders, Bhawan and Chitu, to join him in a rising in which many Makranis, headed by Dad Muhammad, joined, as well as a number of Vilayatis from Guzarat and Khandesh. The malcontents plundered the towns of Nanpur, Bhabra, and Chaktalla and threatened Ali-Rajpur; but on the arrival of the Malwa Bhil Corps, they dispersed, and Dad Muhammad, the Makrani leader, was shot in a skirmish.

Eventually the leaders Chitu and Bhawan were captured and brought to justice. Thakur Jit Singh escaped into Guzarat, where he soon after died, and his estate was forfeited and lapsed to the State. When the rising had been put down, the claims of all concerned were examined, and the hereditary rights of the Bhil Patels and Tarwis were restored. Thakur Jawan Singh, of Jhaknaoda, in Jhabua, was appointed Superintendent of Ali-Rajpur. He received the title of Rao Babadur in 1890.

Bijai Singh remained at the Raj Kumar College, Indore, till 1888, when he returned to Ali-Rajpur, the administration remaining as before with Thakur Jawan Singh. In July 1890 Government sanctioned the tentative administration by the Rana of the parganas of Nanpur and Katali, but before he could be invested with these limited powers he died on the 16th August 1890. The elder Rani gave birth to a daughter on the 2nd September 1890.

Partab Singh, of Sondwa, cousin of the late Chief, was selected in 1891 by the Government of India to succeed him. At the same time it was intimated that as there were no heirs, direct or adopted, the State had again become liable to be treated as an escheat, as when the late Rana Bijai Singh was selected; and that Partab Singh succeeded in virtue of his selection by the Government of India, and not as a consequence of any relationship, natural or artificial, to the late Chief. A claim to the Chiefship which was advanced by the Dharampur family on this occasion was rejected. As a matter of grace, and out of consideration for the financial embarrassments of the State, the Government of India consented to waive the payment of nazarana on this succession. Partab Singh was formally installed in March 1892. During his minority the State is managed by a Kamdar under the supervision of the Political Agent.

Transit duties on cotton were abolished some years ago by the Chief of Ali-Rajpur. On the occasion of the Jubilee of the Queen-Empress in 1887 all transit duties throughout the State were remitted. In 1864 the Chief engaged (No. CCXXI) to give with full jurisdiction any lands which might be required for the construction of a railway.

The State of Ali-Rajpur, like Jhabua, contributes Rupees 1,474-3-2 per annum towards the cost of the Malwa Bhil Corps. This was arranged in 1868.

The area of Ali-Rajpur is 836 square miles; the population in 1891 was 70,091; the revenue is about Rupees 85,000. The military force, including irregulars, consisted in 1890 of five guns classed as serviceable, 11 horsemen, and 169 infantry. The Chief receives a salute of 9 guns.

3. BARWANI.

The Ranas of this State are Sisodiya Rajputs of the Udaipur family who separated from the parent stock about the fourteenth century. From the beginning of the last century the power of the Ranas of Barwani gradually declined; their country, originally of considerable extent and situated between the Narbada and the Tapti, was devastated by the Mahrattas, and at length only a strip of the Satpura range, 80 miles in length, with the lowlands on either side, remained to them. They did not, however, become tributary to any of the Malwa Chiefs. Mohan Singh was Rana at the time of Sir John Malcolm's settlement of Malwa. He was succeeded by his son Jaswant Singh.

In 1861, owing to the incapacity of Rana Jaswant Singh, the State was taken under British management and remained so until 1873, when it was restored to the Rana on the understanding that his continuance in power would depend on his ability to administer his State rightly. On the death of Jaswant Singh he was succeeded by his younger brother, Indrajit Singh, the administration of the State remaining in the hands of the Diwan, Muhammad Najaf Khan. In 1883 Rana Indrajit Singh, in order to test his capacity for ruling, was put in charge of the Anjar pargana of his State. The experiment proving fairly successful, he was recommended for further powers, and in January 1886 full administrative authority in his State was conceded to him on the distinct understanding that the measure was tentative, and that, should it fail, it would be necessary to revert to the former arrangement. The Chief has not been uniformly successful in the administration of his affairs, and the advisability of limiting his powers has recently been under consideration (1892).

Muhammad Najaf Khan was succeeded as Diwan by Sham Narayan and the latter by Munshi Chandi Parshad. On the latter's retirement in 1890 Madhu Rao Puar was appointed Diwan at the Rana's request.

A claim was preferred by Maharaja Holkar in 1868 to sovereignty over the village of Datwara, situated in the heart of Barwani, on the ground of possession at the time of Sir John Malcolm's settlement. This was disproved by the evidence, which showed that the village had been granted by the Chief of Barwani in 1771 as a service jagir to Naro Ganeshji, Diwan of Ahalya Bai of Indore, and that for some years after 1812 the Barwani State having resumed the jagir received the revenues of the village. There was no evidence to show how the village passed from the successors of the Diwan to the Maharaja of Indore; but as the grant to the Diwan did not include sovereignty, and the Maharaja failed to show that he held it on a different tenure, Government pronounced his claim to be untenable.

In 1886 the right of Maharaja Holkar to collect excise revenue in the village of Datwara was disputed by the Barwani State, and it was decided that as the status of the Maharaja in that village was simply that of a jagirdar, he, in common with other jagirdars, had no title to the excise revenue of Datwara.

Barwani pays no tribute to, and receives no allowances from, the British Government. It pays Hali Rupees 4,000 per annum (Government Rupees 3,931-3-3) towards the cost of the Malwa Bhil Corps. This was settled in 1865.

The area of Barwani is 1,362.25 square miles, with a population of 80,266 (census of 1891), including 47,867 Bhils. The revenues amount to Rupees 2,00,000. In 1890 there were 17 cavalry, 225 infantry, and 3 guns classed as serviceable in Barwani. The Rana receives a salute of 9 guns.

4. JOBAT.

The Jobat family are Rathor Rajputs, being an offshoot of the Ali-Rajpur family. The late Chief, Rana Ranjit Singh, died in 1874, when the succession of his son, Sarup Singh, a minor, was recognised by the Government of India. During the minority the estate remained under management, and it was intended to place the young Chief in charge of it as soon as he showed himself qualified. But it has not yet (1892) been found possible to invest him with full powers.

An Agreement (No. CCXXII) was made in 1864 by Rana Ranjit Singh to cede such land as might be required for a railway passing through his territories. All transit duties, including those on cotton, have been abolished in the estate. Nazarana is taken on succession.

The area of Jobat is 132.32 square miles; the revenue is Rupees 17,000, of which Rupees 11,000 are derived from the land; the population in 1891 was 15,047, of whom 10,983 were Bhils. The estate maintains 5 horsemen and 44 footmen.

5. KATHIWARA.

On the death of Thakur Zorawar Singh in 1865 he was succeeded by his brother Bahadur Singh, with the consent of the Government of India.

Kathiwar yields about Rupees 4,000 a year. The population in 1891 was 3,571, almost entirely Bhil. The area is 68 square miles.

6. MATHWAR.

On the death of the Thakur of Mathwar in 1865 Government recognised the succession of his infant son Ranjit Singh, and entrusted the management of the estate temporarily to the Ali-Rajpur Darbar as desired by the deceased Thakur.

On the deposition of Gangadeo, Chief of Ali-Rajpur, in 1869, the care of Mathwar was entrusted to the Superintendent Muhammad Najaf Khan, who was then in charge of Ali-Rajpur. The young Thakur Ranjit Singh was entrusted with the full charge of his estate in May 1883. The elder of the two widows of the late Thakur was murdered by the younger, for which the latter was executed with three others, accomplices in the crime.

The revenue of Mathwar is about Rupees 4,000. The population in 1891 was 2,991, almost entirely Bhils. This area is 140 square miles.

7. RATANMAL.

On the death of the late Thakur Abhe Singh in June 1878 he was succeeded by his son Dhirap Singh, a minor. The estate has been placed under the management of a Kamdar until such time as Dhirap Singh can be entrusted with its administration.

In 1891 the population was 1,212, nearly all Bhils. The Thakur's income is about Rupees 1,500 a year.

8. MULTHAN.*

Thakur Sawai Singh died in 1849, and was succeeded by his son Dalpab Singh. The Thakur pays to the Dhar State Hali Rupees 18,044 under a Settlement (No. CCXXIII) made in 1818. The payment is made direct to the Dhar State, and is not subject to any deductions. The Thakur holds no villages except those mentioned in his sanad. He makes his reports of crime to the Darbar.

The population of Multhan is 10,635 according to the census of 1891, and the revenue about 60,000 Rupees a year.

9. KACHHI BARODA.†

On 14th December 1818, a Settlement (No. CCXXIV) was made by Sir John Malcolm with Bhagwant Singh of Kachhi Baroda, by which the Thakur received sixteen villages, subject to an annual payment of Rupees 9,459 to Dhar, and engaged to be responsible for the peace of the villages. The Thakur died in 1856 without direct heirs. The matter was not reported to the Government of India, but under instructions from Sir R. Hamilton, then Agent to the Governor-General at Indore, the Dhar State was informed that as the Thakurat had become vacant, the guarantee of the British Government was at an end. The widow of Bhagwant Singh, however, adopted Dalel Singh and the adoption was confirmed by the Dhar State.

When the case came under the notice of Government in 1864, it was decided that the abolition of the guarantee was contrary to the policy and previous practice of the British Government. The guarantee was therefore restored. The relations of Dalel Singh to the Dhar State are precisely the same as those of the Chief of Multhan.

The population of Kachhi Baroda, according to the census of 1891, is 4,979, and the annual income is estimated at about Rupees 30,000.

10. BHAI SOLA OR DOTRIA.‡

Under a Settlement (No. CCXXV) made in 1818, Thakur Chandra Singh engaged to pay annually Rupees 2,501 to Dhar. Chandra Singh was succeeded in 1839 by his brother Hamir Singh, and he, in 1842, by his adopted nephew Bhim Singh. The latter died in 1892, and was succeeded by his minor son Unkar Singh. The relations of this Thakurate to Dhar are the same as those of Multhan.

The population in 1891 was 3,039, and the income is about Rupees 12,000 a year.

11. BAKHTGARH.*

The relations of the Thakur of Bakhtgarh to Dhar are the same as those of the Thakur of Multhan. He pays annually Hali Rupees 16,502 under a Settlement (No. CCXXVI) made in 1818. In 1819 a dispute between the Thakurs of Bakhtgarh and Kachhi Baroda was settled (No. CCXXVII) through British mediation, by which the claims of the Bakhtgarh Thakur on the villages of Dhan-gikheri and Dudwal were recognised. That portion of the engagement which relates to these two villages is still in force, but the former part of the engagement, regarding the Mandloi dues, is said to have been modified by Sir Claud Wade in 1842. This question was re-opened in 1889.

In 1853 the late Thakur, Bhagwant Singh, succeeded his elder brother Sawai Singh, who was the son and successor of Pirthi Singh, the Chief with whom the settlement was originally made. Bhagwant Singh had been accorded permission to adopt an heir on the understanding that if he should have a son he would pay his adopted son Rupees 400 per annum for his maintenance. Bhagwant Singh died in 1869 without having adopted an heir, and left the selection to his widow. Her choice with the consent of the Dhar Darbar fell on Partab Singh, and was confirmed by the British Government. In accordance with the wishes of the late Thakur the estate was managed under British supervision until 1882, when, on Partab Singh attaining his majority, he was placed in full charge of the estate.

Partab Singh died in 1892, having adopted Sardar Singh of the Bham-bori family, to which Pertab Singh also belonged; and the succession of Sardar Singh was sanctioned by the Government of India.

The population of Bakhtgarh was 10,826 in 1891, and the annual income is about Rupees 60,000.

As aforesaid, the whole of the talookas, including Bhet Umraos, is made over to Kuar Sahib as well as Sebundeas, Mutasaddees, servants, &c.

The Maharaja retains in personal charge three talookas over and above the village of Kardawud of which he is to receive possession at the expiration of twelve months,—the talooka of Ranapoor, talooka of Kanas, talooka of Bhagor; the kamdar of these villages to be nominated by the Rajah and to be under his control and obey his orders. The Kuar to attend to the Rajah's desires with respect to the talookas reserved by the Rajah and not to exercise direct authority in the Rajah's talookas. The Kuar is not to raise questions with regard to villages given to Paswanjee and Bapoo Lachhmun, Motijee, Salim Sing, &c. The above to be adhered to, and any neglect on either the Rajah or the Kuar's side will be known to the Circar (meaning British Government) who will make on the occasion what arrangements it deems most proper. Your letter No. 396 has been received desiring that the terms of the second Article of the engagement which ceded "full authority" should be changed into one giving "full sovereignty," and that the condition of the engagement being binding on the succeeding generations might be added.

In accordance therewith the following six Articles, with answers, are appended :—

1. It is proper that as much land as is required for the railway, workshops, houses, &c., be given free of all charge in the same manner as is given by the British Government.

Answer.—Any demand on this point consistent with the dimensions of our estate will meet with compliance.

2. The British Government to have full sovereignty over all lands required for the railway and its buildings, such condition being already agreed to by the Maharajahs Guicowar, Rewah, &c

Answer.—We also agree to this condition in compliance with your wish that we should do so.

3. You have written that any disputes arising between persons connected with the railway and those belonging to the Durbar territory should be decided before the Political Officer.

Answer.—This is correct.

4. You have written that all persons residing within the limits of the railway, whether subjects of the British Government or of the Darbar, will be amenable to the jurisdiction of the railway officer or to that of the British Government.

Answer.—This is correct.

5. The Darbar would profit much by the extension of the railroad into its territory, therefore should any one suffer loss owing to his house, land, &c., coming within railway limits, the Darbar should make it good.

Answer.—This is correct.

6. You say that through traffic by rail in the State limits will be free of duty, but the State will levy dues on goods imported into or exported from the State by Railway.

Answer.—Yes, but it would be better if a tariff for each article be fixed. You say that you will address me on the subject, and I beg that when doing so, you will take my State and its resources into consideration, and do as you think best.

No. CCXXVII.

SETTLEMENT between the THAKOORS of BUKHTGURH and KACHEE BARODA.

Whereas there has been a dispute between the Rajah Bhugwunt Sing of Kachee Baroda and the Thakoor Pirthee Sing of Bukhtgurb Mundloi of Budnawur relative to his zemindaree rights and the village of Dhangee Kheree and the produce of some cultivated land at the village of Doodwall, the Rajah Bhugwunt Sing not having paid the dues for the space of forty years and continuing not to pay them, and having a jaghire grant of the village of Dhangee Kheree on which a tunkha of R375 annually was established in favour of Mundloi, and which he (the Rajah Bhugwunt Sing) paid according to the burburst or annual usage of assessment of the pergunnah, I have on enquiry found that according to this method of proceeding the dispute will never be terminated; and therefore to settle the difference, the Rajah Bhugwunt Sing of Kachee Baroda shall pay a tunkha for the village of Dhangeekheree from the beginning of the year Sumbut 1875, which shall be fixed at Oogein R694 annually including mall abwaub and extra charges, and shall pay Oogein R250 yearly on account of the produce of the 250 beegahs of cultivated ground of the village of Doodwall; total Oogein R944 shall be paid annually by the aforesaid Rajah to the aforesaid Mundloi and no excuse or evasion shall be made. If the aforesaid Rajah or his heirs shall make any evasion or raise difficulties in paying the sum on account of the village and the produce of the cultivated ground to the Mundloi or his issue, from that time the village and the portion of ground shall be taken out of the hands of the Rajah and given to the Mundloi, and the Rajah shall have no further claim upon the village or the ground.

Dated 15th October 1819, corresponding with 24th of Zilhij 1234 Hijree or 11th Kartick Boodee Summut 1876.

This agreement was concluded through my mediation this 11th October 1819.

(IIB) GUARANTEED BHUMIAS IN THE BHOPAWAR AGENCY.

There are altogether ten guaranteed Bhumias (alluvial proprietors) in this Agency.

1. KALI BAORI.

Two engagements were mediated by Sir John Malcolm between this Bhumia and the Dhar State. By the one mediated in 1821 (No. CCXXVIII), the Bhumia receives Hali Rupees 1,377 as well as Rupees 123 zamindari from the pargana of Dharampuri, in return for which he undertakes to guard the pargana and to be answerable for robberies. By the other (No. CCXXIX) he pays Hali Rupees 501 yearly in perpetuity to the Kamasdar of Dharampuri in consideration of which he holds six villages, and is answerable for the prevention of robberies.

The payments are made direct by and to the Dhar State without deductions.

Since 1845, the Chief has received annually Rupees 150 from Sindhia for the district of Bakaner (No. CCXXX), and is answerable for robberies in 17 villages. The payment is made direct from Bakaner without deductions. He also holds the village of Kherwa in inam.

The present Bhumia, Sher Singh, is third in descent from Sawant Singh for whom the original engagements were mediated by Sir John Malcolm. Sher Singh succeeded his father, Tej Singh, in 1874. Being a minor, the estate was under the management of the British authorities until 1890, when Sher Singh was placed in charge of it.

The population was 2,669 in 1891, and the annual income is about Rupees 6,000.

2. RAJGARH.*

By a Sanad (No. CCXXXI) concluded in 1819 the Bhumia relinquished 10 out of 12 villages in the Dharampuri Pargana, which had been leased to him two years previously, and retained possession of the remaining two villages of Chandawar and Bhawania on a yearly payment of Rupees 302, and an agreement to keep the roads free from thieves, and to be answerable for all robberies.

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 3 of Schedule No. III.

But shortly after the conclusion of this engagement the Chief entered into a new arrangement with Dhar (No. CCXXXII), without the knowledge of the British Government, for only one of the villages on a payment of Rupees 101. The guarantee is held still to extend to that portion of the original agreement that is still in force under the subsequent modified agreement.

By another Engagement (No. CCXXXIII) mediated by Sir John Malcolm in 1821 the Bhumia receives Rupees 500 from the Dharampuri Kachahri in addition to Rupees 58 from the zamindars. In return he is held answerable for all robberies in the pargana.

In 1846 Sir R. Hamilton mediated for the Bhumia a confirmation of his hakks in Hasilpur (vide Engagement No. CCXXXIV) under which he now receives Rupees 50 yearly from that Kachahri, and has possession of 12 bighas of irrigated land in Sihod, together with other dues in that village.

In 1869 the claims of Holkar and Dhar to the villages of Rajgarh and Dhal, which had been in the undisputed possession of the Bhumia of Rajgarh since the settlement of Malwa, were investigated, and it was decided by Government that the Bhumia should enjoy the same authority as he had hitherto exercised in the villages in question, subject only to the control of the Political Agent, Bhopawar, and without any interference on the part of Indore or Dhar. A Sanad (No. CCXXXV) was granted to the Bhumia in 1871 confirming him in the possession of these villages.

The Bhumia was dispossessed of his villages held under the Indore Darbar (Hilabawar and Bhedlia with their hamlets) in 1860. The Indore Darbar had for many years contested his right to their possession, and it was only in 1887 that he was again put in possession of them on the same terms as he enjoyed from Dhar in the corresponding village of Jamanjheri.

The original tankhadars were Mohan Singh and his son Fateh Singh. Hathi Singh succeeded his father Fateh Singh, and Chain Singh, the present Bhumia, succeeded his brother Hathi Singh in 1864. He is ninth in descent from Tantaji who first settled in Rajgarh.

The population of the estate was 922 according to the census of 1891, and the income is estimated at 5,000 Rupees a year.

3. GARHI OR BHAIKAKHO.*

By the mediation of Sir John Malcolm in 1819, Barjor Singh and Hathi Singh of Kothide were jointly granted by the Dhar Darbar six villages in the pargana of Dharampuri, viz., Pipalda, Balwari, Lodhipura, Dudhi, Kailabao, and Bhodal. In return they were to be answerable for robberies committed by Bhils of their villages and were not to harbour robbers. Their claims on ten "paras" or hamlets were also recognised. Hathi Singh, however, relinquished his claim on the villages; three were given up to the Dhar State and the remaining three, Pipalda, Balwari and Lodhipura, were granted on lease to Barjor Singh (No. CCXXXVI). The guarantee is held still to extend to that portion of the original agreement which is in force by the terms of the subsequent modified agreement.

The late Bhumia, Nahar Singh, was fourth in descent from Jujhar Singh the first of the Rajgarh family who settled in Kothide. He was the son of Barjor Singh who was included in Sir John Malcolm's settlement, and succeeded his brother Lachhman Singh in 1864. He died at the close of 1890, and was succeeded by Raghunath Singh, whose succession was sanctioned by the Government of India in February 1892. At the same time the status of Garhi as a guaranteed Bhumiat was affirmed.

The gross revenue of the estate is about Rupees 3,000. The population, according to the census of 1891, is 824.

4. KOTHIKID.

The Bhumia of Kothide is descended in a direct line from the eldest son of Jujhar Singh, the ancestor of the Bhumia of Garhi or Bhaisakho (vide supra).

The present Bhumia, Moti Singh, is the grandson of Hathi Singh of Garhi, mentioned in Sir John Malcolm's settlement. A reference to the account of Garhi will show that Hathi Singh relinquished his claim on the villages which he held in Dharampuri. Moti Singh is now in possession of the hamlets of Kothide, Malipura, Ambughati, Jhirnia, Temria, and Bhaisakho. But the estate has been under the management of the Political Agent since 1876.

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 7 of Schedule No. III.

The population was 432 in 1891, and the annual income is about Rupees 1,400.

5. BHARUDPURA.*

Two engagements were mediated with the Dhar State by Sir John Malcolm on behalf of Manrup Singh, Bhumia of Bharudpura. By the first Engagement (No. CCXXXVII) he was to receive Rupees 500 annually from the Dharampuri pargana, and was answerable for all robberies between the Manand Karam rivers. The second Engagement (No. CCXXXVIII) grants six villages in pargana Dharampuri in perpetuity on an annual payment of Rupees 525, and one village on an annual payment of Rupees 201; but by a subsequent agreement between the Bhumia and the Dhar State, without the mediation of the British Government, the Chief pays now only Rupees 327 for three villages, the rest having been given up. The guarantee is held still to extend to that portion of the original settlement that is still in force by the terms of the subsequent modified engagement.

The Bhumia also holds the village of Kunripura in Mandu in perpetuity, paying Rupees 50 per annum, and in return holds himself responsible for all robberies in the village, and is liable to render military service (vide Engagement No. CCXXXIX).

The present Bhumia, Udai Singh, like the Kothide Bhumia, is also a descendant of Jujhar Singh of Garhi, and is the grandson of Manrup Singh for whom Sir John Malcolm mediated engagements. The gross income of the Bhumiat is Rupees 3,000. The population was 1,868 by the census of 1891. The estate on account of its indebtedness has been under the Political Agent's management since 1876.

6. CHIKTIABAR.†

The present Bhumia, Umed Singh, is a grandson of Manrup Singh of Bharudpura (supra), whose younger son Amar Singh was granted Chiktiabar and other lands by his brother Bishan Singh, under the mediation of Captain Sandys in 1839 (No. CCXL).

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 6 of Schedule No. III.

† NOTE.—This estate was not included in the edition of 1876. Of the four estates of Sillani, Changarh, Jamti, and Chhota Kasrawad which were then described, but are now omitted here, the first three are now under the administration of the Central Provinces Government. The last lapsed in 1867, and was made over to Holkar in 1868.

The revenue of the estate is about Rupees 825 a year, and the population was returned at 380 when the census of 1891 was taken. It has been under the Political Agent's management since 1876 as it was considerably in debt.

7. JAMNIA.*

The Bhumia of Jamnia is descended from Nadir Singh, the principal freebooter in the Western Vindhya at the time of the settlement of Malwa.

Sir John Malcolm concluded an engagement with Nadir Singh, by which he was to receive from Holkar a tankha of Rupees 2,564, and to protect the country from Jam to Nalchha.

On Nadir's expulsion from Malwa, an engagement was made with his son, Bhiman Singh, on 8th May 1820 (No. CCXLI), guaranteeing to him from the Holkar State all the tankhas which his father received; and the Indore Darbar has furnished Parwanas (No. CCXLII), by which the Bhumia receives tankhas amounting to Rupees 2,505 from several districts. A lease (Nos. CCXLI and CCXLIII) of the village of Kheri is also held from Holkar at a rent of Rupees 701, from which an abatement of Rupees 150 is made for the protection of the Durjanpur pass. It has been decided by Government that the rights of the Bhumia of Jamnia in the village of Kheri, as secured by the mediation of Sir John Malcolm in 1820, were guaranteed in perpetuity.

Two engagements (No. CCXLI) were also mediated between Sindhia on the one hand and Nadir Singh and his son Bhiman Singh on the other. The first engagement granted in perpetuity to Nadir Singh four villages in Dikthan on payment of Rupees 251 annually. The second granted the village of Kanjrod to Bhiman Singh on payment of Rupees 401 a year.

An Engagement (No. CCXLIV and note to CCXXXVII) was also mediated between Bhiman Singh and the Dhar State, under which he received Rupees 65 from the Dharampuri district on condition of being responsible for robberies. He also received (No. CCXLI) the village of Dabir in Dharampuri on a quit-rent of Rupees 150.

In 1868 an enquiry was made into the claims of Sindhia, Holkar, and Dhar to some of the 47 hamlets or "paras" held by the Bhumia of Jamnia, * Malcolm's "Malwa," Nos. 4 and 5, of Schedule No. II and Nos. 15, 16, and 22 of Schedule No. III.

independently of the lands guaranteed to him by Sir John Malcolm, and over which Nadir Singh and his successors had exercised a quasi-independent jurisdiction ever since the settlement of Malwa. Looking to the length of time which had elapsed and to the inconclusive and doubtful nature of much of the documentary evidence that had been adduced in support of these claims, Government decided to maintain the existing arrangements and to continue to the Bhumia the exercise of jurisdiction within the 47 "paras," subject only to the control of the Political Agent and without interference on the part of the authorities of the adjoining States. A Sanad (No. CCXLV) was subsequently (in 1871) granted to the Bhumia confirming him in his possession of the 47 hamlets. An appeal against this decision was preferred by Holkar, but Government declined to re-open the case.

Bhiman Singh was succeeded by his son Moti Singh, and the latter by the present Bhumia, Hamir Singh, in 1863. The population of the estate according to the census returns of 1891 was 3,302, and the annual income is about Rupees 16,000.

8. MOTA BARKHERA.*

This Chief has relations both with Dhar and Sindhia which were settled by Sir John Malcolm in 1820. By the settlement with Dhar (No. CCXLVI) the Bhumia was to hold in the pargana of Dharampuri seven villages on a payment of Rupees 1,526 yearly; in the pargana of Nalchha three villages on a perpetual rent of Rupees 201; and in the pargana of Jahangirpur one village in perpetuity on payment of Rupees 61 annually. He was to be answerable for robberies within his limits, under penalty of forfeiting his villages. The Bhumia now pays Rs. 866 only for three villages in Dharampuri, four having been given back, and the payment having been reduced by agreement with the Dhar State without the knowledge or consent of the British Government. The guarantee, however, is held still to extend to that portion of the original settlement that is still in force under the subsequent modified engagement. The tankha is paid direct to Dhar without any deductions. The Bhumia furnishes reports of crime to the Dhar Darbar.

The original sanad of the settlement with Sindhia (Nos. CCXLVII and CCXLVIII) was given to the present Bhumia's father, Hate Singh. By this sanad the Bhumia is to hold certain villages in the Sagor pargana in perpetuity, paying a revenue of Hali Rupees 1,503, besides dues, which raise the amount of his payments to Rupees 1,641. The tankha is paid direct without deductions. The Bhumia also holds (No. CCXLIX) in perpetuity five villages in Sindhia's pargana of Dikthan; for these villages he pays Rupees 1,408-8. Reports of crime are made direct to the Dikthan and Sagor authorities respectively.

* Malcolm's "Malwa," Nos. 8 and 14 of Schedule No. III.

The present Bhumia, Bharat Singh, is the grandson of Fateh Singh, who was the grandson of Bakht Singh, the fifth in descent from Tanaji, and the first of the family who came from Mandu and settled in Barkhera. He succeeded his father, Hate Singh.

In 1855 the estate was, on account of its indebtedness, placed under the superintendence of the British authorities, and remained so for three years. The gross revenue of the Bhumiat is now about Rupees 25,000, and the population was 5,302 in 1891.

Kathoria.—The family of Kathoria is a recent offshoot of the Mota Barkhera family.

The present Bhumia, Kishor Singh, was born about 1872, and is third in descent from Chain Singh, the younger brother of Fateh Singh of Mota Barkhera. The gross revenue of the State is Rs. 2,000.

In 1834, owing to disputes between Chain Singh and the son of Fateh Singh, a settlement (No. CCL) was effected by Captain Sandys, under which the village of Kathoria (one of the villages held from Dikthan by Mota Barkhera through Sir John Malcolm's mediation) was awarded to Chain Singh in return for an annual payment of Rs. 361-8-0 to Mota Barkhera. The Bhil "para" of Shikarpura (one of the fifteen "paras" held jointly from Dhar by Mota and Chhota Barkhera through Sir John Malcolm's mediation) was also awarded to Chain Singh, who became responsible for the yearly payment of Rs. 2 per plough to the Darbar, and also for the payment of zamindars' haks. Two hundred and fifty bighas of cultivated land in two villages of Mota Barkhera were also granted rent-free to the Bhumia and Rs. 14 yearly on account of bhet in seven villages.

9. CHHOTA BARKHERA.*

The original Settlement (No. CCLI) of Chhota Barkhera was effected by Sir John Malcolm in 1820. The Bhumia holds two villages in inam; and he was to have one village on payment of Hali Rupees 752 to commence after seven years. By mutual agreement between the Bhumia and the Dhar State in 1822, without the knowledge of the British Government, the arrangement was altered, and Rupees 151 only are now paid for four villages, the others having been given up. In the original sanad the Bhumia was also made answerable, jointly with the Bhumia of Mota Barkhera under penalty of forfeiture of his villages, for robberies in fifteen villages. The guarantee is held still to extend to that portion of the original settlement that is still in force under the subsequent modified engagement. The Bhumia has no power to reduce the tankha. He furnishes reports of crime to Dhar.

* Malcolm's "Malwa," No. 5 of Schedule No. III.

The present Bhumia, Mogat Singh, is the great-grandson of Pirthi Singh, who was sixth in descent from Tanaji, the original settler in Barkhera. He succeeded in 1889, with the consent of the Government of India, on the death of his father Moti Singh.

The population of his holding was returned at 2,579 by the census of 1891, and his yearly income is estimated at about Rupees 5,000.

10. NIMKHERA.*

Under a Settlement (No. CCLII) effected by Sir John Malcolm, the Bhumia holds the village of Tirla in hereditary succession, paying annually Hali Rupees 500 tankha, and is answerable for all robberies between Dhar and Sultanpur under penalty of forfeiture of the village. His tribute is paid direct to Dhar, and no deductions are made from it. Criminal reports are also sent to the Dhar Darbar. The Bhumia further pays Rupees 60 as zamin-dari and dami bhet.

The original grantee was Sheo Singh, who was succeeded by his son Bhima Singh, and he by his adopted son Kanak Singh. In 1863 Government sanctioned the adoption by Kanak Singh of his cousin Daryao Singh as his successor in the event of failure of direct male heirs. Kanak Singh died in 1864 without issue, and Daryao Singh, the present Bhumia, accordingly succeeded to the tankha.

The Bhumias of Nimkhera are Bhilalas by descent, and their ancestors, according to tradition, originally came from Marwar. They hold the Hindola pargana by prescriptive right without payment.

The population of the holding was 5,569 at the census of 1891, and the revenue is said to be Rupees 18,000 a year.

TRANSLATION.

Formerly you used to collect from the villages attached to Killa Mandu, in the Dharampuri Pargana, certain cesses, viz., Ghugri, Bhet, Rabta, Lagan-mandwa and the other usual duties, and to levy directly from the Pargana and from traders Sayer duties in money at the Chowki of Baiganda and the Dol Chabutara on the high road. It has now been settled at Nalcha that a fixed amount will be paid to you through the Sirkar's kachery and you are no longer to levy duties from the people of the Pargana or from traders. Further, it is incumbent on you to come to an understanding with your relations, so that they may not complain to the Sirkar, and neither your own sepoys nor those of your relations are to go into the villages of the Pargana. You are to continue to receive the sum fixed by Government in lieu of cesses, and, with this exception, you have no other claim on the Pargana. If you make any claim, it will be considered void.

CAPTAIN EVANS, Agent at Dhar, Camp at Dehee.

We, Dugro Sah, putwaree of Nanpore in elaka Rajpore; Jey Sing, Thakoor of elaka Jobut; Bapoojee Gungadhur, karkoon of Kooksee; and Balajee, putwaree of talooka Soosaree in pergunnah Chiculda, beg to report that the case connected with the claim of Kalee Bowree to the cesses, "bhet" and "ghoogree," receivable from the pergunnah of Bankaneer subject to the elaka of Sindia, having been referred to us by you, Kalee Bowree submitted to us a statement of the above claim, and the kamaisdar of Bankaneer also laid before us a statement respecting the "tuhnamah," or engagement written in 1851 Sumbut. After the perusal of these two statements, we the arbitrators have decided that the kamaisdar Bankaneer should pay yearly Rupees 150 to the Bhoomias, Puddum Sing and Ubhoy Sing of Kalee Bowree, on account of the cesses, "bhet" and "ghoogree," as well as of the money levied at the nakahs or chowkeys. It is also proper that the said Bhoomias should keep three men in attendance, and adopt such measures as may prevent the commission of thefts in the 17 villages situated in Bankaneer. If any robbery takes place in the above villages the said Bhoomias shall make good the loss. They shall have no claim whatever on the aforesaid pergunnah on account of the cesses, "bhet" and "ghoogree," or on account of the money realized at the nakahs or chowkeys. We have settled the matter as above, and it now rests with you to do anything further you choose.

TRANSLATION of an ENGAGEMENT executed to RAMCHUNDER RAO PUAR BY MUNDROOP SING, POTAIL of Zillah Bheesakhooor and Zillah Mandoo.

Whereas Mr. Dangerfield has been appointed by the British Government to make arrangements for the suppression of robberies and for the improvement of the country, I through his mediation execute this deed to the Circar and acknowledge that if any Bhoomias, Turvees, Bheels or Bhamurs of my district commit robberies on the roads or in the villages, or if they steal any cattle, I will be responsible. If any Bheel of my district commits theft, I will produce the thief and the stolen property. If the thief refuses to obey me, I will bring the Circar to the spot and point out the thief. If I fail to account for a theft committed in the elaka, the usual cesses such as bhett, ghoogree, etc., receivable by me, may be resumed by the Circar. Should I object to pay the revenue, the Circar may resume peshcushee villages which I hold; I will of my own accord give them up to the Circar. TRANSLATION of an ENGAGEMENT executed by FUTTEH SING, Potail, and his brother KOONWUR CHAEN SING of Barkhera, in Pergunnah Naulcha attached to the fort of Mandoo, to RAMCHUNDER RAO PUAR, through BAPOOJEE RAGHOONATH.

Whereas the Circar has issued an order to make arrangements in killa Mandoo, Naulcha, Dhurrumpooree, Pergunnah Dhar, to prevent the predatory excursions of the Bheels: therefore I represented that, in consequence of my villages having been laid waste, I have no means of employing sebundees for the purpose of checking the Bheels; and request that the Circar may be pleased to advance me such amount of money as may enable me to entertain 50 sebandees for six months. I also promise that after six months, when my villages shall have been improved, I will serve the Circar and pay the sebandees out of the income of the said villages, and if I fail to put a stop to the raids of the Bheels and Bhamas, I will refund from Bagree the amount paid to them in the six months. The sebandees shall locate at the thannahs of Naulcha and Dhurrumpooree. I will without any objection act up to the orders of the Circar's Karkoon at the thannah. I will neither employ nor dismiss a sebandee without report to the karkoon. I will draw pay according to the rules of the mehal. I will serve wherever and whenever the Circar may direct me. I will adopt measures to prevent the Bheels and Bhamas committing plunder; I will reside at the thannahs of Naulcha and Dhurrumpooree and serve the Circar. If I fail to put a stop to the robberies and plunders of the Bheels and Bhamas and to protect the roads, the Circar shall resume all the inam and peshcush villages which I hold. And as the Circar has got the village of Pagara in pergunnah Dhurrumpooree improved through a banker, I will give security for the amount of money which the said banker may have disbursed on account of the above village, and redeem in the course of two months, from 1st Maugh Boodee, the document which has been given to the banker for the purpose of its being returned to the Circar.

TRANSLATION of a ROOBOKAREE issued by CAPTAIN EVANS, Agent at Dhar, on the 16th September 1847.

Gobind Rao Karkoon and Mugun Lall Kanoongoe presented to me a petition on the part of the kamaisdar of Sagore, stating that Bhoomia Hutteh Sing of Barkhera holds three villages situated in the aforesaid pergunnah and praying that, besides the sum of Rupees 1,503, which has been laid down in the lease and engagement as the amount of rent for the above three villages, the said Bhoomia might be directed to pay the cesses or bhets due to amlahs, zemindars, furnavees, grassias, &c., as mentioned in the decision. With the petition they submitted a memorandum of the cesses for Rupees 144, viz., Rupees 72 on account of the bhet of the troops; Rupees 18 on account of the bhet of mehal kamaisdar; Rupees 48 on account of the bhet of zemindar; and Rupees 6 on account of the bhet of furnavees; and mentioned that out of the above amount of Rupees 144 a sum of Rupees 72 only was paid yearly during the last four years, and that the remainder was due. The said Gobind Rao Karkoon and Mugun Lall Kanoongoe were then asked to state why no petition was made before this, as the decision in question was passed four years ago, and to give proofs that they received the cesses according to the memorandum. They said in reply that they used to take cesses, "battee," &c., from the aforesaid Bhoomia, and the local arbitrators having told them not to levy cesses, they wrote to their employer at Lashkar on the subject, but not having received any answer from him they were unable to act up to the decision. They also mention that they now, having received orders from the Lashkar to take cesses according to the decision, have waited upon me. In order to prove that they received the cesses yearly, according to the memorandum, for 16 years from the date of the lease to the date of the aforesaid decision, they submitted statements for that period. It appears that the bhet was paid every year. The said Bhoomia in answer asserted that, besides the rent laid down in the lease, he paid the sum of Rupees 72 on account of "bhets" due to amlahs, zemindars, and furnavees, from the date of the said decision to 1903 Sumbut. He further alleged that before the date of the above decision, the kamaisdar used to take by force from him yearly Rupees 100 on account of "babtee kirkol," &c.; Rupees 197 on account of "doanni;" Rupees 54 on account of "amlah bhet," &c.; and Rupees 1,503 on account of rent, &c., after deduction of a trifling amount of "chuhoot" and "siropah." The Bhoomia also said that, with the exception of "zemindaree" and "furnavees bhets," all other cesses are paid.

The fact that the cesses, "amlah bhet," &c., were paid to the kamaisdar of Sagore has, in my opinion, been established by usage, and is borne out in documents. Hutteh Sing holds no paper in support of his assertion. He acknowledged to have paid the bhet. No proof was given to show that the statements submitted by the kamaisdar were false.

It is therefore ordered that the said Bhoomia be directed to pay yearly into the cutcherry at Sagore Rupees 72 on account of amlah bhet as well as the cesses or bhets due to zemindar, furnavees, grassia, &c, according to the established usage of the pergunnah, and that a copy of this be given to the plaintiff and defendant respectively.

TRANSLATION of a ROOBOKAREE issued by CAPTAIN EVANS, Agent at Dhar, on the 7th January 1846.

Hutteh Sing, Bhoomia of Burkhera, represented to me that he holds five villages in pergunnah Dekthan in istumraree tenure; and that the kamaisdar realized from him, as rent of those villages, a sum more than mentioned in the lease and engagement; and prayed that the kamaisdar might be directed to collect from him such an amount of rent as is laid down in the engagement. The said Bhoomia having been desired by me to produce the perpetual lease of the five villages held by him said that the lease had been lost for years ago. With a view to make an enquiry into the matter the kamaisdar of Dekthan was ordered to produce the engagement executed by the said Bhoomia as well as the annual statements of rent collected from him.

Ballajee Punt Dewan, on the part of the aforesaid kamaisdar, submitted this day to the Court statements of rent realized from the said Bhoomia from 1244 to 1252 Fuslee. From these it appeared that from 1246 to 1252 Fuslee the said Bhoomia paid yearly, as rent for the above five villages, a sum of Rupees 1,408-8 inclusive of cesses such as "sarkaree babetee," "zemindaree bhet," "grass," "bhet farkhatee," bhet, &c. The statements also showed that in 1244 and 1245 the Bhoomia paid yearly a sum more than the above amount.

It is therefore ordered that the said Bhoomia pay into the treasury at Dekthan the same amount of money as he has hitherto done.

No. CCLII.

TRANSLATION of an ISTAMBAR PATTa granting in perpetuity the village of TIRLA in DHAR on the part of RAMCHANDAR RAO PUAR, Chief of DHAR, to SHEO SING BHUMIA of NIMKHERA in the HINDOLA PARGANA.

The above-mentioned village has been continued to the Bhumia and his predecessors by the Kamasdar and the Dhar Government in accordance with the royal grants enjoyed by them from ancient date on the following conditions.

To protect the villages of the Dhar district from the borders of Sultanpur to the town of Dhar. None of the Bhils or robbers, &c., were to be permitted to rob the villagers and the inhabitants of Dhar of their cattle and property. No travellers or merchants were to be subjected to any injury or molestation.

The predecessors of the Bhumia held this village on the above conditions and paid annually to the Dhar State a tanka amounting to Hali Rupees 350 or three hundred and fifty only.

The Bhumia having failed to observe the conditions above specified during the present anarchy, the ryots, merchants, and others suffered serious losses. The Dhar State in consequence confiscated the village of Tirla, and was put to great expenses on account of its management and repopulation and in erecting a fort and a wall.

As peace has now been restored to the country by the grace of God and the interference of the British Government, the Bhumia has been forced to fall back on the Dhar State. He requests that his ancestral village may be given back to him on the following conditions :

That he will protect the road between Sultanpur and Dhar. That the inhabitants of the intervening villages as well as travellers will be protected by him from injury. That he will put down the robberies committed by Bhils and others. That he will be responsible for and make good all losses that may be caused by Bhil robbers to travellers, traders, and ryots. That he will be always obedient to this Government, and will afford no shelter or refuge to robbers and malefactors. That he and his successors, generation after generation, will remain true to the above engagements. In default of which the Government is at liberty to confiscate the village.

In consideration of the services rendered to the State in former times by the Bhumia, it has been settled, through the mediation of Sir John Malcolm, that the village be restored to him on the above conditions in perpetuity, he paying to the Dhar State an annual sum of Rupees 500, Ujjain or Indore Currency as tanka.

The terms of the settlements are follows :—

	Rs.
The Bhumia is to pay into the Dhar Treasury the sum of
Original amount	350
Additional cess	150
TOTAL	500 Hali

By the following instalments from Sumbut 1877 ; he is to observe the above conditions and to get the village populated.

Instalments.	Rs.
1. Aghan Sudi Punam	151
2. Magh " "	174
3. Bysak " "	175
TOTAL	500

You are hereby directed to pay the above instalments regularly, and to discharge your duties faithfully and honestly.

Dated 26th June 1890 A.D., 24th Saba 1235 A.H.

Settled through my mediation.

 Major-General.
